STORM DEATH TOLL PLACED AT 1,500

IRIGOYEN QUITS AS PRESIDENT OF ARGENTINE

MARTINEZ ASSUMES NATION'S LEADERSHIP

Resignation Ascribed to Pressure by Members of Cabinet.

CAPITAL IS PLACED UNDER MARTIAL LAW

U. S. Financial Circles Feel Resignation Will Help Country's Credit.

Buenos Aires, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Hipolito Irigoyen, twice Argentina's president and long its mystery man of politics, today retired from office and delegated the powers of chief executive to Dr. Enrique Martinez, vice president.

The first act of the new government head was to declare a state of siege, or martial law, which prohibited public assembly and placed the capital city, the eighth largest in the world, in the hands of the military.

Disorders broke out almost immediately, demonstrators parading in the Avenida de Mayo clashed with police near its intersection with the Calle Peru and many were wounded. There were other widespread incidents of minor character.

City Goes Into Uproar.

Explosion of bombs and the scream of sirens from the offices of La Nacion, Buenos Aires daily, first notified the populace that an event of transcendent importance had taken place. As word spread that President Irigoyen, who has been ill, had left his office the city went into an uproar.

The resignation was not unexpected, but came as a complete surprise, since leaders of Senor Irigoyen's own party, the Radicals, were understood to have agreed to maintain a status quo until Monday when they would resume their efforts to oust the president.

Senor Irigoyen's action was forced by increasing disorder within the republic, both in the capital city and in the provinces. Last night 3,000 students parading in the Avenida de Mayo, clashed with police. Two were killed and 30 wounded.

Blamed for Depression.

The president, who was to have remained in power until 1934, had been blamed for economic depression within the republic, and has been accused of seeking to establish a dictatorship through installation of his favorites in places of power.

It was assumed tonight that he would remain a factor in Argentine politics. The text of the decree by which he retired from office merely states that to the vice president of the republic, Dr. Enrique Martinez, "are delegated the functions of the chief executive of the nation."

Strangely enough, much of the opposition to the president came from within the ranks of his own party. Radical leaders and members of the cabinet for several days have attempted to bring about his resignation, while the more usually active opposition elements have been somewhat inclined to let events take their course.

Reelected in 1928.

Mr. Irigoyen had held an almost dictatorial power in Argentina since his election to the presidency in 1928, for the second term. His first term began in 1916.

Dr. Martinez, who is 44 years old, is a physician of the Province of Cordoba, which is the most important in Argentina outside of Buenos Aires.

He served as governor of Cordoba, later became a national deputy, and was chosen vice president by the electoral college after the death of Vice President-elect Francisco Beiro in April, 1928.

Dr. Martinez was elected because he was considered Mr. Irigoyen's choice. He has considerable following in his own province, but not in the country at large. He was, incidentally, the youngest vice president in the nation's history.

Political Line-Up Uncertain.

The future political line-up was considered uncertain, but it was assumed that Mr. Irigoyen would continue as a factor in the government, while Dr. Martinez fulfilled the presidential functions.

Enforcement of martial law applied both to the local press and to outgoing cable dispatches. Its effect was to

LOUISVILLE GREETS PARIS OCEAN FLIERS

Coste and Bellonte Make Overnight Stop Returning From Dallas Hop.

RECEPTION CALLED OFF

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Greeted by cheers of thousands of citizens and the shrieking of factory whistles, Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, Paris-to-New York-to-Dallas fliers, swept out of a murky sky and landed on Bowman Field here at 6:41:30 p. m. (C.S.T.) tonight.

As the wheels of their sesquiplane touched ground for the third time in America a crowd of approximately 6,000 persons surged forward, shouting a noisy welcome. The fliers had left Dallas, Tex., at 12:30 p. m.

The Frenchmen, obviously tired from their Paris-to-New York flight and from the subsequent nonstop flight from New York to Dallas, had requested, through their manager, Rene Recover, that no entertainment be provided for them here. Plans for a banquet and other forms of reception were abandoned and the only official ceremony was the greeting of a welcoming committee, headed by Mayor William Harrison.

It was dark when the "?" arrived here and floodlights were playing over the field. The fliers circled the field once, apparently to get their bearings, and then made a perfect landing, scooting up to the Administration Building, where the reception committee waited. After the welcome they were escorted by police and officials to automobiles.

Led by a detail of motorcycle policemen and followed by scores of automobiles, the machine bearing the fliers then wended its way through cheering and flag-waving crowds to a hotel, where the fliers are to remain overnight under guard, so that their rest will not be disturbed. They planned to retire immediately upon arrival at the hotel.

Coste and Bellonte, bareheaded and tanned, smiled broadly as the crowd surged about them at the field, and four Louisville girls rushed up, kissed each flier on both cheeks, and presented each with a bouquet of dahlias.

They then were escorted to the top of the administration building at the field, where they were introduced over the radio. Both spoke briefly in French, and their remarks were interpreted in English. Mayor Harrison extended the "heartfelt welcome of the city."

The crowd below clamored for the fliers, and Coste and Bellonte stepped to the edge of the roof and waved gaily. This was the signal for another demonstration from the throng.

The automobile parade through the city was shortened at the fliers' request. All along the route they re-

Decision Contingent on Retention Intact of Versailles Treaty.

ACTION TO BE BASED ON STRENGTH TODAY

German Demands That Agreement Be Revised Disturbing Paris.

PLAN OF VON SEECKT HELD PERIL TO PEACE

Size of Land Forces, Home and Abroad, Is 522,00, Same as England.

Paris, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—A correspondent of the Associated Press was informed by authoritative French sources tonight that France is ready to negotiate a general treaty for the limitation of armament, based on the existing strength of the French army.

This decision regarding land forces is contingent on the maintenance of the Versailles treaty intact. French opinion was described as increasingly disturbed over the demand of German nationalists for revision of the Versailles treaty.

The newspapers gave prominent position to a speech by Gen. von Seeckt, former commander of the German Reichswehr, to the effect that the coming years must be spent in a struggle against this treaty.

Equal of English Strength.

Paris believes that an important contribution will have been made to the cause of disarmament if an agreement to limit land forces to their present level can be negotiated. This, they believe, would arrest an armament raise and possibly lead to reduction agreements later.

The existing strength of the French army, including homeland and colonial troops was given here as 522,000. The French said that English troops in the homeland, India, and other colonies amounted to the same figure.

Fear Violation of Pact.

Spokesmen frankly admitted tonight that France's attitude would change if Germany got approval for the military plans recently voiced by Gen. von Seeckt providing for a standing army of 200,000 men. This would be in addition to a national army, including all German males, which would be destined for passive defense of the homeland.

French experts said that under Von Seeckt's plan, the German standing army would strike into enemy territory should Germany believe herself menaced. They insisted this would violate the terms and spirit of every peace agreement, including the League of Nation's covenant itself. They said it would also imply Germany's return to conscription and the eventual existence of a German army as powerful as the one before the World War.

The foreign office said tonight that naval negotiations between France and Italy had not yet been inaugurated.

Oil Worker Held in Fatal Stabbing of Coed, Fiance

Los Angeles, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Harry Harmon, 23-year-old oil worker, was arrested today as a suspect in the fatal stabbing of Lois Kentle, Los Angeles coed, and her fiance, Francis Conlon, on the beach near Ensenada, Lower California, August 26.

Harmon was caught while driving a bullet-punctured automobile through Huntington Park, a suburb. He carried a newspaper, folded to display an account of the Ensenada slayings.

ANDREE EXPEDITION DOOMED AT OUTSET

OTHER FACTORS CITED

New York, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Capt. Ernest Demuyter, veteran Belgian balloonist, said today the Andree polar balloon expedition was doomed before it started on its flight to death 33 years ago.

Capt. Demuyter is resting here after winning second place in the recent James Gordon Bennett Cup race with his entry, the Belgica, which landed near Adams, Mass.

Four factors, he said, combined at the outset to defeat Andree. They were:

That Andree's bag was ripped when it was taken from the hangar before the start of the flight; the bag was not capable of staying up more than 40 hours; the fabric of the bag was waxed cotton, greatly inferior to present-day silk and rubber compositions, and the balloon was weakened by its long stay in the Far North before the flight was begun.

Capt. Demuyter said his conclusion from these facts was based on observations during his long aeronautical career.

The veteran balloonist, who with one exception has entered every James Gordon Bennett Cup race in the last eighteen years and has won four of them, urged the use of free balloons as training schools for all kinds of air activities.

"Free balloons are to the air what sail boats are to the water," he said. "While much depends upon the pilot, too much importance can not be attached to meteorological and other scientific equipment."

Capt. Demuyter said he considered Ward Van Orman, who won last week's race, one of the world's greatest balloonists.

Tromsoe, Norway, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The story of the Andree balloon expedition, it is understood, is legible in the explorer's notes up to September 5. It is said there is writing in Andree's log after that date, but it is illegible.

The condition of the diary after September 5 is such that it may be impossible, therefore, to follow the story of the fate of the expedition as told by its leader himself beyond that date.

It would seem that the trio arrived on White Island on September 5 (presumably 1897), after having battled their way across the ice since mid-July, when their ballon met disaster on the attempted flight to the North Pole.

The commission which has been examining the effects of the Andree

Calvin Coolidge

Says: Two recent events remind us again that man is almost helpless against the elements. One was the earthquake around Naples in Italy where many hundreds of people were killed and much property destroyed, and the other was the tropical hurricane which passed over Santo Domingo, almost obliterating that ancient city and carrying death to several hundred of its inhabitants.

Such catastrophes move the heart of humanity to sympathy and at once set in motion the relief agencies of the neighboring governments and the American Red Cross. The realization of our common helplessness against such upheavals of nature arouses in us a stronger sense of our common brotherhood. For some reason difficult to explain a sudden disaster of this kind, entirely beyond human control, moves people to compassion while they are more or less indifferent to the slaughter of 3,000 tribesmen around Mount Ararat and to a far greater loss of life and property in China through deliberate human action by war and resulting famine. With all our civilization, all our humanity, all our religion, men are still less in danger from the elements than they are from each other.

SIX SEEKING SENATE SEAT FROM ILLINOIS

Wet and Dry Battle Broadens as Three Independents Enter Race.

MRS. O'NEILL SET BACK

Chicago, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The race for the United States senatorship from Illinois became a six-entry affair today and the wet-dry fight correspondingly broadened.

The race started out with two candidates: James Hamilton Lewis, former senator and outspoken wet, as the Democratic nominee, and Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican and personally dry, who declared she would abide by the voters' decision on a prohibition referendum.

Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, of Downers Grove, a Republican and bitter foe of Mrs. McCormick, next announced as an independent dry with the support of George B. Safford, superintendent of the State Antisaloon League, and other Prohibitionists.

Three more candidates filed today.

LONG ILLNESS FATAL TO MRS. IDA GRANT

Daughter-in-Law of Civil War General Dies at Home at Age of 76.

LONG CAPITAL RESIDENT

Mrs. Ida Honore Grant, widow of Maj. Gen. Frederick Dent Grant and daughter-in-law of the Civil War general, died at 9 o'clock last night following a lingering illness at her home, 1711 New Hampshire avenue northwest. Death was attributed to heart disease and complications resulting from age. She was 76 years old.

The passing of Mrs. Grant was not unexpected. While she has been confined to her home for the last few years, her illness took a turn for the worse about two weeks ago, and her daughter, Princess Michael Cantacuzene-Speransky, was called to attend her. Only a few days ago her grandchildren came to Washington to be near her in her last hours.

Mrs. Grant was born in Louisville, Ky., on June 4, 1834, the second daughter of Henry Hamilton Honore and Eliza Jane (Carr) Honore. Her paternal grandmother was Miss Lock-

MARTIAL LAW KEEPS GOOD ORDER IN CITY

Roosevelt Lauds Conduct of Americans on Island; None Injured.

By CHARLES B. CURTIS,
(American Minister to the Dominican Republic, written specially for the Associated Press—Copyright, 1930, and all rights reserved by the Associated Press.)

Santo Domingo, Sept. 5 (5:15 p. m.) (A.P.).—The ancient and historical city of Santo Domingo was devastated on September 3 by what appears to be the worst hurricane that ever swept the Caribbean. A conservative estimate of the loss in life put it this afternoon at 1,500.

The number of the injured reached 5,000. No loss of life is reported among continental Americans or Europeans, all of whom are believed to be safe.

President Rafael Trujillo has taken personal charge of the relief and the city is under martial law. Good order prevails.

The bodies of the dead are being burned

Roosevelt Sending Relief.

After 24 hours of continuous storm a north wind of hurricane violence, estimated at 180 miles per hour, began about 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, unroofing the legation and destroying many houses.

After about half an hour there was a dead calm, with the barometer below 28. But 10 minutes later the hurricane wind came from the south and in two hours more completed the destruction.

Gov. Roosevelt of Porto Rico dispatched personal representatives by airplane September 4 and is sending in behalf of the people of Porto Rico all available relief, in the form of food, shelter, clothing and medical aid.

Shipping Can Not Enter.

On September 5 (today) a Marine Corps airplane arrived from Port au Prince, Haiti, with representatives of Col. Cutts. It is returning immediately to bring back medical officers and all possible medical supplies.

No shipping can enter Santo Domingo port because of the swift current and a dredge sunk in the channel. The city is isolated on the land side by floods, fallen trees and wrecked bridges.

Electric light and water plants are disabled.

Sugar Central Destroyed.

The storm was confined to a 40-mile strip along the coast, but the damage extends inland indefinitely in a northwesterly direction.

The sugar central at Boca Chica is reported completely destroyed.

The American Red Cross has placed $15,000 at my disposal for emergency relief, but this amount is insufficient for actual needs and additional clothing and other help are urgently needed.

Late reports from Santo Domingo, cradle of the white race in the New World, today emphasized the destruc-

Shorn of its fury by the rugged path it traveled across the Dominican Republic, the hurricane which lashed Santo Domingo was moving leisurely toward the Florida Straits last night, while American relief forces extended a helping hand to the devastated island city.

Rains and light winds marked the progress of the disturbance toward the tip of the Florida Coast and storm warnings had been taken down, but the incoming reports from Santo Domingo painted a vivid picture of the furious swath it cut across the island before the mountains sapped its strength.

The Weather Bureau reported last night that while barometric pressure remains relatively low over central and western Cuba, the tropical disturbance has "practically dissipated." The bureau added that last night's "advisory" notice would be the last unless the disturbance "redeveloped."

More than 1,000 dead, 2,500 injured, 4,700 homes destroyed and thousands homeless were some of the figures that came to the offices of the American Red Cross here as it gathered its forces for relief activities. Food, medicines, water and clothing were being dispatched by airplane and ship.

Red Cross officials said command of American relief activities was now in the hands of an American committee which Minister Charles B. Curtis was asked to name yesterday. This committee will cooperate with officials of the republic and through it will be spent the $40,000 the Red Cross has cabled to Curtis. Capt. Antonio Silva, president of the Porto Rican Red Cross Chapter, will take charge of immediate relief in the field.

The committee will also take charge of the relief supplies for which Gov. Roosevelt of Porto Rico was sent $10,000, as well as of other contributions made through American officials.

The Canadian Red Cross offered assistance yesterday, and the American Red Cross replied it would be glad to act as intermediary if desired. Acting Chairman Pieser of the American Red Cross also announced contributions would be received by United States seaboard cities.

tion wrought by the hurricane which swept the republic and devastated its capital city Wednesday.

Bodies Being Burned.

More than 1,200 persons were killed in the capital alone, and it is feared the figure may run to 2,000. More than 5,000 persons were injured and 30,000 are homeless and virtually starving as a consequence of the tempest.

To solve a sanitary problem, bodies are being stacked on the beach and burned. The death toll has grown steadily as the debris of the once proud capital of New Spain has been pulled aside to clear the streets and restore a faint semblance of order. Among the few buildings left standing in the city are the 400-year-old cathedral, containing the reputed tomb of Christopher Columbus.

The hurricane, passing Santo Domingo, apparently dissipated its strength against the mountains of the interior of the island, which contains the republics of Santo Domingo and Haiti. Today it was headed, not much more than a fresh wind, toward the Florida Straits, with no prospects of any further considerable damage.

Interior Escaped Worst Part.

Reports from the interior of Santo Domingo relieved apprehension that it may have suffered as greatly as did the capital city. While many interior villages apparently were razed, other larger communities, notably the cities of La Vega, Santiago and Puerto Plata, escaped without serious consequences.

Three nations speeded their relief efforts in answer to frantic calls from the stricken republic. The United States, Cuba and Santo Domingo's sister republic, Haiti, all answered the call of mercy and dispatched food, medical supplies, shelter and clothing to the devastated area.

The American Red Cross has cabled $40,000 funds to Charles B. Curtis, American Minister at Santo Domingo, and Governor Theodore Roosevelt of Porto Rico has made another $10,000 available for immediate relief work.

Governor Roosevelt Responds.

Gov. Theodore Roosevelt of Porto Rico was asked yesterday by the New York World News Service for information regarding the disaster in his neighboring island of Haiti and the following is his cabled reply:

By THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

San Juan, Sept. 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Reports direct from Santo Domingo indicate that the city is practically demolished. The total number of dead is unknown as yet, but approximately 1,000 fatalities are already reported.

Tribute to Americans.

The desperate condition of our people in Porto Rico is known to their fellow citizens in continental United States and it is a splendid tribute to our people on this island that at this time, when they are facing such great difficulties themselves, they have given of the little they have to help the people of the dominica Republic in their distress.

All committees for relief work in Porto Rico have functioned with the utmost efficiency, working night and day, and it is only because of this that aid and supplies will reach Santo Domingo from here on Saturday morning.

CATHOLIC HOSPITAL GROUP OFFERS AID

Resources Put at Disposal of Red Cross to Assist Hurricane Victims.

CONVENTION ENDS WORK

An offer of its resources to the American Red Cross for relief activity in hurricane-stricken Santo Domingo was extended by the Catholic Hospital Association in the closing session of its four-day convention yesterday morning at Catholic University.

The action was taken in the adoption of resolutions presented by the Rev. Dr. Alphonse M. Schwitalla, president of the association, representing approximately 700 Catholic and Catholic-controlled hospitals. The resolutions likewise expressed the organization's "deep sympathy for the sufferers in this stricken area" and it expressed to them its "heartfelt desire to be useful to them in any way in which those in charge of relief may indicate."

The session was devoted principally to a general discussion of the life of the hospital and schools of nursing in the association by the Rev. Patrick Mahan, regent of Loyola University School of Medicine, diocesan director of hospitals, Chicago, and Dr. E. V. McCollum, professor in the School of Hygiene and Public Health in Johns Hopkins University.

Other speakers were Sister Helen Jarrell, dean of St. Bernard's School of Nursing, Chicago; Miss Susan Francis, superintendent of Children's Hospital, Philadelphia; Miss Mary T. Dowling, corresponding secretary, International Catholic Federation of Nurses; Sister M. Brendan, superintendent of nurses, St. John's Hospital, St. Louis, Mo., and Sister M. Giles, of St. Joseph's Hospital, Kansas City, Mo.

STORM DEATH TOLL OF 2,000 IS FEARED

TRUJILLO BEGS FOR AID

By RENE M. LEPERVANCHE
(Associated Press Correspondent).

(Associated Press.)

Santo Domingo, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The death list in the Dominican Republic's hurricane disaster this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock swelled to more than 1,200. Bodies were still being pulled from the shambles of the city.

Relief workers under President Rafael Leonidas Trujillo feared that the total would swell to 2,000. Material damage is more than $20,000,000. The injured number about 5,000. These figures are for the capital alone. The famous cathedral, which has stood against the hand of man and the hand of time for 400 years and is a jewel of architecture, was among the buildings that escaped destruction.

The tomb of Christopher Columbus also escaped. The tomb is inside the cathedral, close to the entrance.

Rolling Kitchens Sent.

Motorcycle messengers succeeded in surveying conditions in the interior of the country. They reported that the hurricane had concentrated its fury on the capital.

The large towns of La Vega, Santiago and Puerto Plata were not damaged.

Rolling kitchens this afternoon began feeding the hungry and homeless populace of the capital. People took refuge for the night within churches, schools and other public buildings left standing.

Operation of the kitchens was the first act of Mario Fermin Cabral, president of the Senate, who was designated by President Trujillo to supervise the feeding of the refugees and the removal of debris from the city's 10,000 destroyed buildings.

Survivors Await Relief.

Of the city's 10,000 buildings only 400 fere left in which to house the wounded and the weak. And today hunger began to stalk the littered streets.

Relief workers had time only for the living and so, lest the horror of pestilence be daded to the city's sorry burden of misfortune, any attempt at burying the dead was abandoned in favor of mass incineration.

And yet, despite the terrific loss in life and property—the damage within the city limits was roughly estimated at $20,000,000—hope flamed strongly in the survivors' hearts and was strengthened by reports that relief ships were on the way with food and medical supplies, doctors and nurses.

Food Strictly Rationed.

Food, because of its insufficiency, was being strictly rationed and President Leonidas Trujillo himself worked in wreckage-heaped streets seeing that the most needy were first served and most carefully protected.

As is always the case in the aftermath of disaster, whether the catastrophe be due to fire or flood, wind or earthquake, there were during the first paralyzed period, after the hurricane had passed, some instances of looting. But today the city was under martial law and the relief work went forward in the chaotic city with perfect order.

Because others could not be spared and in order to utilize every available agency in at least preparing for the gigantic reconstruction program that will have to be put into effect to rebuild the city, prisoners were set to work today clearing the debris from the streets.

Their task will take them weeks and maybe months, for it is a colossal undertaking just to clean the ground for the Santo Domingo that is to be. Masonry and timbers lie everywhere in tangled heaps, mounds of wreckage from which bodies were still being recovered today. The city looks as if all its man-made structures had been scooped up in giant hands, crumpled to worthlessness and tossed back upon the ground.

President Asks Help.

Declaring that the situation was disastrous and that 90 per cent of the city was destroyed. President Trujillo appealed by cable today for quick assistance from the United States and all other friendly nations.

"We are in need of everything," he wired, after telling of the urgency of the need for help.

It was really two disasters that beat the city prostrate Wednesday afternoon. For first, one arc of the whirling hurricane crashed across the city, and then, after an interval, the other half of the circle ripped across town in the opposite direction and completed the havoc begun by the first blow.

The first devastating rush of wind, tearing off roofs and pushing over walls of wood and stone on occupants of houses and public buildings and on pedestrians in the street, was due north. After a period of hysterical terror that seemed interminable there came a lull, and the citizens thought the worst was over. But in reality the quiet was only due to the fact that the city was temporarily in the slower-moving hub of the hurricane juggernaut wheel, and soon the storm broke again, the wind this time due south.

The greatest intensity was between 1 and 2 o'clock. By 5 the hurricane had passed inland across the republic, spreading death and destruction that even yet can not be accurately estimated. And today the warm sun shone placidly down on a city razed, on the wholesale victims of the Caribbean's latest tempestuous tantrum.

Secretary Wilbur Files Suit Reply

Upholds Refusal to Isue Oil Prospecting Permit to Tulsa Man.

Responding to a rule to show cause why he should not be compelled to issue oil and gas prospecting permit to John M. McCorkle, of Tulsa, Okla., Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur yesterday defended his action in refusing the application for the permit and asked the District of Columbia Supreme Court to dismiss the petition for mandamus on which the rule was issued.

McCorkle in his petition for mandamus filed several days ago declared that the Secretary of the Interior had acted arbitrarily and without authority of law when he rejected the application. He asserted that the congressional act of February 25, 1920, made it incumbent upon the Interior Department head to issue permits upon application.

Secretary Wilbur, however, differs with McCorkle. He asserts that "the securing of a permit or license to prospect public lands for oil and gas is a privilege and not a right." E. C. Finney and O. H. Graves, solicitor and assistant solicitor of the department, respectively, appear on behalf of the Secretary.

would be sent from the United States. He will maintain communication with the Americans working at the scene, however, and the Red Cross will meet requests for supplies should they come.

The United States Army volunteered to the Red Cross the use of surplus Army medicines, food and shelter if necessary to save life.

A cable was sent Col. George W. Helms, commander of the Sixty-fifth Infantry, San Juan, Porto Rico, authorizing him to give out any surplus supplies of tents, medical equipment and food upon proper request.

Col. Helms reported from San Juan he had conferred with Gov. Roosevelt and given him 100 tents, 500 cots, 500 blankets, 1,200 cases of milk, 500 cans of lard and 500 pounds of candles, and would fill future requests as far as possible.

Acting Secretary Cotton said the State Department was willing to cooperate in relief, but that the task was now thought to rest properly upon the Red Cross.

The Catholic Hospital Association, holding its annual convention here, adopted a resolution offering its assistance to the Red Cross in the relief work. Nearly 700 hospitals in the United States are members of the association.

Acting Receiver of Customs Norman L. Orme sent this message from his headquarters at Santo Domingo:

"Meager reports country indicate radius 30 miles damaged, but town's housea intact. Macaris untouched. Official sent by Roosevelt (Maj. Cary I. Crockett, the governor's aid) arrived Thursday, returned Friday. Rivers high; wharves, ground occupied. Warehouse merchandise (held for customs inspection) under water. Condition population bad. Food short. Thousands without shelter. Hundreds dead, more wounded. No lights, water outside. Urgent."

Conditions Appear Worse.

The Marine Corps at Port au Prince, Haiti, cabled that two planes sent by the President of Haiti had carried a special representative of that official and if field landings were feasible they would continue to supply necessities by plane to the limit of availability during the emergency.

"Conditions appear to be worse than reported," the message said.

"Surgical and medical personnel will also be furnished if deemed necessary by Dominican government. Road communications to Santo Domingo interrupted."

Reduced Crop Seen Of Winter Wheat

Farmers Reported Taking Economics Bureau's Seeding Advice.

(Associated Press.)

The Agriculture Department reported yesterday that "farmers' intentions to reduce winter wheat seedings in many States appear to be in line with the Bureau of Agriculture Economics' recent outlook statement that extensive adjustment in wheat growing must be made if production is to be profitable to growers generally in the next six to ten years.

"As of August 15 farmers reported an intention to reduce seeding this fall about 4½ per cent below the acreage seeded last fall.

"The feed shortage is now developing into a national rather than a local problem," said the department. "The situation has become more critical in the areas first affected, and new areas to the north have suffered."

Farmers were asked to state their intentions with respect to the purchase and sale of feed, the department added.

"The situation is disastrous," the message said. "The cyclone destroyed 90 per cent of the city (Santo Domingo), losses calculated at $13,000,000 minimum.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Lieut. Frank Johnson, of the Chicago police department, and Henry Alber, chief of police of Des Moines, today listened to the story of Mrs. Mary Clark Brunsdon, of Des Moines, who has stated she was a witnes sto the murder of Alfred Lingle in Chicago.

Mrs. Brunsdon said she could give the names of the slayer and of the men who employed the slayer, and that she would do so if she received $25,000 in advance.

Her statements will be investigated, the officials anounced although they admitted what they had been told cast no light upon the Lingle murder.

Flag Display Planned For Sojourn of Coste

Display of French and American flags by Washington merchants on Monday, when Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte will be feted in the National Capital, is urged by the Merchants and Manufacturers Association.

The association obtained permission yesterday from the District Commissioners for merchants to hang flags in front of their establishments. E. D. Shaw, secretary of the association, points out that the display is not to be confined to members of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, and all business houses are asked to show the same recognition to the aviators. Mr. Shaw adds a reminder that when Lindbergh flew to Paris the people of the French capital literally covered that city with flags.

WANING HURRICANE WILL MISS FLORIDA

CONDITIONS ARE NORMAL

Miami, Fla., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Official weather reports tonight gave assurance that Florida, Cuba and the Bahama Islands would not be affected materially by the rapidly diminishing hurricane that wrecked the City of Santo Domingo, capital of the Dominican Republic, Wednesday.

Barometric readings from various Cuban points indicated the storm had passed inland over northern Cuba and that there no longer was any defined center of disturbance, said Richard W. Gray, Government meteorologist.

Atmospheric pressure along the northern coast of Cuba late today was 29.92 and at some points higher, while Nassau reported normal conditions there with the barometer rising in the outlying islands. From Key West to Miami, barometer readings were normal.

Expects 25-Mile Wind.

Forecasts stated that the disturbance likely would continue northwest or west northwest during the next 24 hours without damaging winds.

Mr. Gray said the winds probably would not exceed 25 or 30 miles an hour, which are not uncommon at this time of the year.

Weather Bureau predictions called for occasional showers here tonight and tomorrow, with moderate easterly winds, possibly becoming strong at times.

Prior to notification that the storm had slackened, a few residents here boarded up their homes and business establishments. With word that the danger had passed, such work ceased.

Nassau Misses Hurricane.

Gusty winds whipped from the ocean to churn high rolling waves onto the shores at Miami Beach. The sky was cloudless.

From Nassau, capital of the British colonial islands, came radio advices that no indications of the storm had been felt there.

None of the other islands reported abnormal conditions.

Merchants of Miami today prepared a shipment of medical supplies to be transported by airplane into stricken Santo Domingo.

Pan-American Airways held a Port au Prince-bound airplane here throughout the day awaiting favorable weather. It was expected the plane would leave here tomorrow with several passengers for the Haitien city, so far the last air traffic point west of Santo Domingo since the hurricane.

Plane Stops at Camaguey.

A Pan-American plane left Havana this morning bound for Port au Prince, but local officials of the company were advised that it stopped at Camaguey, in central Cuba, and would return to Havana because of inclement weather.

The Havana-Miami mail was transported by airplane several hours behind schedule. Weather permitting, service to the West Indies will be resumed tomorrow, company officials said.

Motor vessels bound from Miami to outside ports continued to await favorable weather.

Pan-American Airways said the President of the Dominican Republic and Gov. Roosevelt of Porto Rico had arranged for space for 200 pounds of supplies on all planes leaving for Santo Domingo and San Juan.

The company made public today a radio message from Maj. Cary I. Crockett, who flew to Santo Domingo from San Juan yesterday, that all American and European residents of the city were safe.

Red Cross Check Cites Storm Toll

(Associated Press.)

Red Cross records show that the hurricane that struck Santo Domingo Wednesday killed almost three times as many persons as were killed in Porto Rico by the hurricane of 1928. The 1928 storm, however, also caused almost twice as many deaths in Florida as were caused by the Santo Domingo hurricane.

An official report yesterday placed Santo Domingo deaths at 1,200, injured 2,500. The 1928 hurricane killed 282 in Porto Rico and injured 4,232. It took 1,810 lives in Florida and injured 1,849 persons.

Just four years ago, a hurricane took two and a half times as many lives in Cuba as were taken by the Santo Domingo storm. Following that disaster, the American Red Cross sent $100,000 to the American Ambassador at Havana for relief work.

SHERIFFS SEEK PAIR REMOVED BY POLICE

CRITICIZED ROAD WORK

New Orleans, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—All sheriffs in the State of Louisiana were searching tonight for Sam Irby and James Terrell, who were forcably removed from the Gardner Hotel, in Shreveport, early Thursday by State officers. The two men were taken before they ha dopportunity of carrying out their announced intentions of filing suits against Gov. Huey P. Long and O. K. Allen, chairman of the State Highway Commission.

Since the two men were carried away handcuffed in two automobiles by the State officers nothing has been heard from the officers or the men.

Delivery Writ Signed.

In an effort to force return of the men, Judge T. F. Bell, of Caddo District Court, today signed a writ of habeas corpus demanding their delivery in open court tomorrow. Another habeas corpus writ has been prepared for filing in the district court at Baton Rouge. The writ was issued against the five officers of the State identification bureau and the highway officers who took Irby and Terrell away.

The disappearance of the men came in dramatic fashion after Irby had testified at a private hearing before the judge of the district court at Baton Rouge about highway department affairs. This testimony has been held confidential by the judge, who said he would lay it before a grand jury.

Protection of Sheriff Sought.

Late in the night, Sheriff Hughes said, Irby called him over the telephone and asked protection against men trying to break into his hotel room. In the midst of the conversation the connection was broken off and the sheriff sent three policemen to investigate.

The sheriff said the policemen told him that the State officers came into the room with some kind of a warrant and, despite Irby's display of a pistol, placed the two men under arrest, handcuffed them and drove away in automobiles.

POLITICAL RALLIES HELD IN MARYLAND

BONDING SYSTEM CITED

The administration of Montgomery County was attacked at rallies held last night by Progressive Democrats and defended by organization Democrats. The organization rally was held on the grounds of the courthouse, Rockville, and the progressive or antiorganization rally at the tabernacle at Washington Grove.

E. Barrett Prettyman, Progressive candidate for member of the House of Delegates, charged that the present administration in its ten years of power had "bungled" every major development it had undertaken. He declared that the county tax rate has increased from $1.06 in 1919 to $1.30, while State taxes have been reduced from 36½ cents to 25 cents in the same period. He alleged that the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission has shown a total lack of efficiency and of vision, pointing out that the water system planned by the commission had proven totally inadequate at the first drought.

"They say they hav given us large improvements—they don't give us anything—they are our servants, but they have been in control so long they think they own the county and that what we get out of our tax money is given os," Mr. Prettyman said. He charged that schools and roads which have been built without raising the tax rates have been built through bond issues.

Other speakers were Dr. Eugene Jones, candidate for relection to the State Senate; Eugene McLaghlen, candidate for county commissioner; John Oxley, candidate for State's attorney; Albert Boulc and Mrs. Parker Weller. Freemond L. Schreiner, of Takoma Park, presided.

At the Rockville meeting, Stedman Prescott, organization candidate for State's attorney, pointed out that practically all the charges by Progressive candidates were investigated by two county grand juries and that in both instances county authorites had been given a clean bill of health. He deprecated assertions by Progressives that organization candidates must "bend their knees by Brooke Lee in his Silver Spring throne room" and said that Montgomery County residents are too independent and high spirited to tolerate such foolishness.

Maj. E. Brooke Lee, county organization leader, explained the system of bonding which has made possible Montgomery County's growth.

Other speakers were Alvinia Engle, candidate for House of Delegates; Capt. Joseph C. Cisssel, council to the county commissioiners; Robert G. Hilton, candidate for State Senator; Dr. George L. Edmonds, candidate for House of Delegates. Preston B. Ray, candidate for reelection as circuit court clerk, presided.

Census Cites Capital As Farming Community

While few persons, least of all residents of Washington, would characterize the District of Columbia as a farming community, the Census Bureau revealed yesterday that there are now 106 farms within its boundaries.

A farm, according to interpretation of the Census Bureau, must encompass 3 acres of land and have an annual produce worth at least $250.

In 1925 there were 139 farms in the District, and in 1920 there were 204. The decrease in five years has been 23 per cent and 48 per cent in a decade.

POLLARD TO ATTEND DINNER FOR FLIERS

Ritchie Also Expected to Be at Trade Board Affair for Coste and Bellonte.

LUNCH AT WHITE HOUSE

Throngs of men and women from Maryland and Virginia are expected to come to Washington to hail the French transatlantic fliers, Coste and Bellonte, when they arrive here tomorrow afternoon.

Virginia's governor, John Garland Pollard, is coming, and it is likely that Maryland's executive, Albert C. Ritchie, also will be here.

Gov. Pollard has accepted the invitation of the Washington Board of Trade to attend the banquet that will be given for Coste and Bellonte Monday night at the Willard Hotel, and Gov. Ritchie's acceptance is expected.

Planes to Escort Fliers.

An escort of Army, Navy and Marine planes will greet the Question Mark near Baltimore and guide it to Bolling Field about 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. While the Army band plays the national anthems of the United States and France, Coste and Bellonte will be welcomed on the field by George Akerson, secretary to President Hoover, representing the Chief Executive; Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of the Air Corps; Assistant Secretary Jahncke, of the Navy; Assistant Secretary Young of the Commerce Department; and Brig. Gen. Albert J. Bowley, assistant chief of staff.

The receiving party also will include M. Jules Henry, charge d'affaires of the French Embassy; Pierre Boal, acting chief of the State Department's western European Affairs division; and Richard Southgate, acting chief of the State Department's division of international conferences.

The fliers then will be escorted through the streets of the Capital to the French Embassy, where they will be guests during their visit here.

700 to Receive Tickets.

The office of the Board of Trade presented a busy scene yesterday, with local business and civic leaders streaming in steadily to obtain their tickets for the banquet. Others applied through the mails. Five thousand invitations were sent out by Robert J. Cottrell, the executive secretary, and the first 700 who apply will be provided with tickets.

Meanwhile, the White House is sending out invitations to the luncheon which President Hoover will give for the fliers Monday afternoon, following the official welcome on the White House lawn.

Among those who have been invited orally are Col. Charles A. Lindberg, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, and Col. Eddie Rickenbacker. The invitation was extended to them over the telephone by George Akerson, Secretary to the President.

The three famous fliers also have been invited to the Board of Trade banquet Monday night, and Col. Rickenbacker already has announced he will attend.

Prima Donna to Sing.

A feature of the banquet, aside from the speeches by Vice President Curtis and the fliers, it was announced yesterday, will be the singing of the Marseillaise by Mlle. S. d'Astoria Jackowska, French prima donna, who is coming down from New York for the occasion. The menu at the banquet will be printed in French throughout.

Capt. Coste and his copilot, Bellonte, spent last night at Louisville, Ky., whither they flew from Dallas, Tex. They are expected to fly back to New York today. Weather permitting, they will land here at Bolling Field at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Escorted by motorcycle policemen, they will go to the French Embassy for the night.

After visiting the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington Monday morning and calling on the heads or acting heads of the State, War, Navy and Commerce Departments, they will arrive at the White House shortly before 12:30 o'clock.

The ceremony of welcome on the White House lawn will be broadcast by both the National and Columbia systems.

GERMAN SEA FLIERS GREETED IN CAPITAL

ATLANTIC SERVICE SEEN

An informal dinner attended by members of official Washington, several foreign envoys and a small group of invited guests last night concluded a busy one-day sojourn of Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau and his copilot, Edward Zimmer, who on August 26 arrived in New York to end an unheralded flight from their native Germany.

As the major event on their strenuous program, beginning almost from their arrival early yesterday morning here by train from New York, the fliers were received at the White House at noon by President Hoover, who chatted with them and received details of their noteworthy achievement in an audience lasting fifteen minutes or longer. At its conclusion they were photographed with the President on the White House lawn.

Presented to President.

They were formally presented to President Hoover by Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, after a tour of the city and a stop at the Commerce Building in company with their host, Dr. Otto C. Kiep, charge d'affaires of Germany, at whose home at 3220 Idaho avenue northwest the informal dinner was held last night.

In talking with President Hoover, Capt. von Gronau expressed his conviction that transatlantic plane service on a regular schedule via Iceland and Greenland is practicable. In developing this point later with newspapermen he pointed out that his stops on the two islands had demonstrated the feasibility of the idea. Three and possibly four stops should be made to insure the utmost safety, he added. These bases, constructed with radio stations, refueling facilities and repair shops, should be established on the west coast of England, another on Iceland and either one or two on Greenland.

Tell of Old Aircraft.

He emphasized that their Dornier Wal plane, an old craft used by Amundsen in his Arctic explorations and by Capt. Frank Courtney in an unsuccessful ocean hop, had negotiated the difficult crossing with virtually no advance preparation, battling fogs and storms a large part of the way, yet demonstrating the practicability of even an aging plane.

The dinner at Dr. Kiep's home drew together a group numbering Mr. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce Julius Klein, Walter Newton, Secretary to President Hoover; Jules Henry, charge d'affaires of France, and several State Department officials among others.

Shortly after midnight the two two fliers left by train for Newark, N. J., to keep an early morning engagement, which forced them to decline an invitation for them to fly back to New York on a plane of the New York, Philadelphia & Washington Air Line. They will be guests of Anthony H. G. Fokker, airplane designer and builder, in New York Monday before sailing for Germany with the wireless operator and mechanic who accompanied them on their flight.

Racover arrived at Bowman Field about 40 minutes before the French fliers. The manager's monoplane was piloted by Capt. W. W. White.

Racover said that the time of the take-off for New York tomorrow was indefinite, but would probably be about 8 a. m. Central standard time.

The presentation was made by J. W. Dawkins, vice president of the firemen's association and a member of the local company.

It was reported that the department now only owes $500 which represents the balance due on the site on which the building is located and that it has two and one-half years in which to pay it.

Following the business session an interesting program was presented with music by the department's orchestra.

Purcellville to Allow More Water for Lawns

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., Sept. 5.—At a meeting of the Town Council of Purcellville last night, it was decided that in order to assist citizens in keeping alive the grass, shrubbery and trees during the drought, an extra 3,000 gallons of water per month would be allowed under the minimum rate thus making 5,000 gallons of water per month at the minimum rate of $2.00.

All other rates will remain unchanged. The reduction is subject to cancellation by the council at any time. The increase in amount is allowed because there is ample supply of water at the source of the newly installed water system of the town.

ALEXANDRIA LEGION OFFICERS INSTALLED

TRADE EXHIBIT PLANNED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The newly elected officers of Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, were installed last night at the last meeting before the State convention which will be held in Harrisonburg next week. Commander Howard L. Arnold turned over the office to the new commander, Sidney Weil, who will serve for the next twelve months. Other officers installed were Mrs. Laura T. Anderson, first vice commander; H. B. Lemon, second vice commander; Clyde B. Lanham, adjutant; Jones Cox, finance officer; Edwin West, chaplain; Howard L. Arnold, historian, and Harry Davis, sergeant at arms.

Plans were completed for the attendance of the Alexandria delegation at the annual State convention, which will open in Harrisonburg tomorrow night and last through Wednesday. The drum and bugle corps of the local corps, with 38 members, will be in the parade, and Dan S. Hollenga, who has been training the corps since July, is confident that his charges will acquit themselves with credit to the post and the city.

The style show and trade exhibit of the legion will be held in the armory September 29 to October 4, and a committee is busily engaged in mapping out the details. The proceeds of the style show will be used to pay interest on the loan on Gadsby's Tavern, the home of the local post.

An investigation is now being conducted by Police Capt. W. W. Campbell to determine the responsibility for the accident Thursday in which the truck of Engine Company No. 2 of the Alexandria Fire Department was overturned near Four-Mile Run, resulting in the death of Policeman W. W. Lipscomb and the injury of three firemen. Dr. T. Marshall Jones, city coroner, stated yesterday that he will hold an inquest into the death of Lipscomb as soon as Thomas Cockrell, driver of the apparatus, and Aubrey Brown, fireman, are able to leave the hospital and testify. The third injured man, Charles Duncan, was only slightly injured and left the hospital Thursday night.

An estimate of the damage to the apparatus was made yesterday by a representative of the American LaFrance Co., and although no figures have been given out it is understood the damage will amount to several thousand dollars. The engine was purchased the early part of this year at a cost of $12,500 and placed in service at Potomac.

R. E. Lee Camp, Sons of Confederate Veterans, will, on Monday night, elect delegates to represent the camp at the annual reunion of the Grand Camp of the Sons of Veterans of Virginia, to be held in Orange, September 16 to 18. The commander will appoint a matron of honor, chaplain, sponsor and maids of honor to represent the camp at the reunion.

Deeds of conveyance have just been recorded with the clerk of the courts for these pieces of property: Victor C. and K. May Donaldson to L. W. Brady and wife, house and lot 339, and one-half of lot 340, in Del Ray; Richard B. Washington and others to B. J. Embrey and wife, lots 22 and 23, block 9, Rosemont Park; Robert L. Kane and others to Snyder-Kane-Boothe Co., lot 7, block 2, Rosemont Park.

Funeral services for Whitfield W. Lipscomb, Alexandria policeman, who was killed Thursday in an accident, will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Wheatley's funeral home by the Rev. Pierce S. Ellis, pastor of the First Baptist Church, and interment will be in Bethel Cemetery.

Members of the Police Department, headed by Capt. W. W. Campbell, will act as honorary pallbearers. Active pallbearers will be Joseph Goode, Winfield Dewey, Francis Eldridge, W. P. Campbell, R. F. Douglas and J. Lynwood Scruggs.

Police Doubt Boy Slew Man Unaided

Friends of Self-Confessed Killer of Chemist Questioned.

Baltimore, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Police said today they believed more than one person was implicated in the murder of Herbert G. Wetter, 51, a chemist, and yesterday questioned two friends of Kennard Thompson, 16, who, detectives said, confessed he killed Wetter, his employer, on August 1 and hid his body.

The two boys were released, however, after questioning. Police said they doubted Kennard could have slain Wetter and then stuffed the body into the barrel where it was found Tuesday night, preserved in 20 gallons of alcohol. Kennard, employed by the chemist for a year, lived with him in an apartment over the shop where Wetter prepared soap and perfumes.

After the murder Kennard started a career of easy living financed by forgery of his employer's name.

DROUGHT MAY SHUT SCHOOLS IN FAIRFAX

TUITION RULES ADOPTED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The Fairfax County School Board, which met yesterday at Fairfax, gave a great deal of consideration to the existing drought that has caused a shortage of water supply. Wells at a great many of the schools are practically dry. The sanitation question is the most serious the board has to face. The county schools open next Wednesday and Divisional Superintendent of Schools Wilbert T. Woodson stated that the citizens of the various school communities would have to cooperate with him in working out a solution in each case, as this is a time of emergency. Conditions at Oakton, Vienna, McLean and Lee-Jackson Schools are considered to be most serious, as these schools are among the largest in the county. It was stated that if the drought continues much longer and no solution is arrived at, some of the schools might have to be closed for a time.

A resolution was adopted by the board agreeing to pay tuition at the Occoquan High School for high school children living in the southern end of Fairfax County or to allow them the same sum toward the cost of transportation to Lee-Jackson High School. The board considered refusing to pay tuition to the city of Alexandria, but the members finally agreed to assume the tuition for this term in Alexandria only for children in the third and fourth years of high school who attended the Alexandria school during the 1929-30 term and for the session of 1931-32 only for pupils who attended school in Alexandria in 1930-31 in the fourth year. After that time the board would not pay any tuition for high school pupils. They also voted to contract with a bus company to operate a special bus from Alexandria to the Lee-Jackson School each morning and afternoon, to transport all children coming through Alexandria from the lower section of the county to the Lee-Jackson School.

The board voted to take out liability insurance on the six county-owned school buses for the next school term. They realized, they said, that they could not be held legally responsible for any injuries suffered in an accident, but they felt that they were under a moral obligation to protect the school children as much as possible. The representative of the insurance company assured the board that they would include a clause in the policy stating that the company would not use as a defense to a claim the fact that the school may not be liable by reason of it being a governmental agency.

The offer of the Merrifield Improvement Association to purchase the lot owned by the county school board adjacent to the community hall came up. The clerk was instructed to advise the association that the board could not sell the lot except at a public sale after the proper advertising. The board was advised by the State department of education that none of the Rosenwald fund could be obtained this year to assist them in the building of colored schools, as the fund was exhausted. After a careful investigation during the past month the board voted to reopen the school at Navy, for another year until the roads could be improved for bus transportation. This school was ordered closed last spring in accordance with the board's policy of school consolidation, where possible.

Resignations of several of the teachers were accepted. These teachers submitted their resignations so they could accept more profitable positions with Government departments in Washington. It was stated that it was not the policy of the board to force a person to teach against his will, but the members felt that the action of the teachers in signing an agreement to teach this next term and resigning just before school opens was not a good practice and was frowned upon. Several of the members stated that an application of these teachers should not be considered if they seek a teaching position at a later date.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Southern Methodist Church at Pender will hold its meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Crocket C. Carr at Legato.

The Girl's Friendly Society of the Pohick Church will meet today in the rectory of the church. They will at this time appoint delegates to attend the diocesan convention in Richmond next month. Officers of the society, recently elected, include Miss Virginia Hill, members' chairman; Miss Daisy Williamson, secretary-treasurer; Dorothy Smith, program committee chairman; Eugenia Brookfield, entertainment committee chairman; Lelia Milstead, recreation chairman; Mary Nevitt, worship chairman, Sara Ann Nevitt, membership committee chairman, and Mrs. C. A. Langston, social service chairman.

The ladies of the McLean Baptist Church will give a boneless chicken dinner this evening in the basement of the church at McLean. The proceeds of the dinner will be placed in the building fund.

C. Emmett Smith, of Chicago, entered as an independent opposed to the World Court and League of Nations. His political strength was an unknown quantity.

Mrs. O'Neill received a setback even before she filed. State Senator A. S. Cuthbertson, Republican dry leader, today said he would continue to support Mrs. McCormick.

Pilsudski May Attend League.

Geneva, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The fact that Poland's delegation to the League of Nations assembly had not been announced today caused speculation as to whether Marshal Pilsudski himself might intend to represent his government at the deliberations, which begin next Wednesday.

IMPEACHMENT TRIAL WILL CLOSE TODAY

CONTRACT IN EVIDENCE

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Impeachment proceedings against County Supervisor B. M. Hedrick, of Arlington County, will probably be concluded today, after a hearing which has already lasted four days. Wilson Farr, chief defense counsel, announced at the close of court yesterday that the defense would rest its case today with the testimony of the defendant.

Judge Alexander T. Browning, of Orange, then ordered that court convene this morning at 9:45 o'clock instead of 10 o'clock, as usual, in order to complete testimony before late afternon.

The defense took much of its time yesterday in presenting a number of character witneses. A water contract signed by Louis A. MacMahon, of Clarendon, president of the Arlington Investment Corporation, owners of the Waycroft subdivision, was introduced by the defense to show that the document had been signed by the president of the corporation prior to the demand for payment by Commonwealth's Atorney William C. Gloth. The court permitted induction of the paper in evidence over the strong objection of the prosecution.

MacMahon Takes Stand.

Mr. MacMahon, in answer to a question by Mr. Farr, said that as a member of the board of directors of the corporation he knew of the installation of water and sewer improvements in the Waycroft subdivision. Mr. Hedrick, as managing director, had charge of street construction and other improvements in the subdivision, the witness said, and his confidence led him to believe that everything was all right.

Mr. Farr then offered in evidence the undated water contract, which was signed only by Mr. MacMahon, as president of the corporation, but not by the board of supervisors.

After heated objections on the part of attorneys for the plaintiffs, the court permitted introduction of the contract. Mr. MacMahon testified that he had signed the contract the latter part of May or early in June of the year 1929. The paper was brought to him by Mr. Hedrick, who explained what it was for, he said.

Tells About Contract.

On cross-examination Mr. MacMahon declared that if there as no resolution on the books of the corporation authorizing payment to the board of supervisors, there should have been, because the directors knew that the obligation existed.

Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the Circuit Court of Arlington County, introduced as a character witness, said that he had known Mr. Hedrick for the past six years and that his reputation for honesty and integrity was excellent.

Other Character Witnesses.

On cross-examination Judge McCarthy admitted that since the impeachment proceedings started he had heard many who spoke well, and many who spoke otherwise, of Mr. Hedrick.

William P. Ames, of Clarendon, lumber dealer, said that he has known Mr. Hedrick for a number of years and that he bore the best of reputation.

Others who were called by the defense as character witnesses were Ashton C. Jones, Arlington County real estate man; Keith A. Brumback, president of the Brumback Realty Co.; State Senator Frank L. Ball, and J. J. Williams, of the United States Daily. All admitted on cross-examination that since the proceedings started they have heard some persons who have spoken against Mr. Hedrick. They all said that they considered his reputation for honesty and integrity good.

Board Meeting Described.

Edgar W. Pumphrey, stockholder in the Arlington Investment Corporation, and its counsel, told the court that at the time the Waycroft tract was purchased by the corporation it was unimproved.

At a board of supervisors meeting held May 15, 1929, that the question of installing sewers in the Waycroft subdivision was discussed and after much consideration Mr. Gloth declared it would be a good thing, the witness testified.

Referring to May 7, Mr. Pumphrey said that at a meeting of the executive committee of the corporation it was voted that Mr. Hedrick be authorized to enter into a contract with the county for such improvements as water and sewer in the same manner and on the same terms as is made with other persons for the Waycroft subdivision.

Improvements Cost $24,000.

On cross-examination he said that the total improvement sput in Waycroft, including water, sewers, concrete sidewalks, gutters, curbing, street surfacing and shade trees amounted to $24,000. The amount borrowed by the corporation was $16,000. He said that houses in the subdivision sold for prices ranging from $8,000 to $10,000.

He further admitted that much of the corporation's business was discussed in a lunchroom in Clarendon by the executive committee terming itself as a "coffee club."

Supervisor E. C. Turnburke testified that the board of supervisors gave Messick authority to do the work, after consulting with Engineer Kinnier. Mr. Messick had machinery which the county did not have and could do the work more cheaply than the county, he said.

County Clerk William H. Duncan stated that the note given by the corporation in final settlement was recorded in the records of the county. It was a lien against the property, he stated.

Record of Attendance.

When the defense made an effort to have the testimony of Mr. Duncan put into the record, that the note was covered by two separate amounts and recorded in accordance with the law, the court ruled that he could not technically refer to them as liens, as it was a matter for the court to determine.

Mr. Duncan told the court that he has missed only two meetings of the board of supervisors in ten years, and that his observance of Supervisor Hedrick since he has been a member was that he was a most competent official.

The board has held on an average of 60 meetings a year and during the three years that Mr. Hedrick has been a member he has not missed more than six meetings, Mr. Duncan said.

Gloth Cross-Examines.

Conducting the cros-examination Mr. Gloth asked: "Do you know of any firm or corporation that has obtained water and sewer improvements amounting to more than $9,000 where there has been such a delay in settlement as there was with the Arlington Investment Corporation?"

Mr. Duncan said that the records were not kept in his office but in the treasurer's office.

Speaking of the efforts made for a settlement, Mr. Duncan said that in December he talked to Mr. Hedrick about the matter and that he said a ettlement would be made as soon as the engineer gave the necessary information.

Court adjourned with Mr. Duncan still on the sand.

Man's Back Fractured When Struck by Truck

Oliver Jenkins, 25-year-old Negro, living at 1108 Sixth street northwest, received a broken back, several broken ribs and internal injuries late yesterday when he was struck by a truck on the Good Hope road, eight miles from the District line. The truck was allegedly driven by J. A. Moore, of Clinton, Md.

Jenkins' wife told police that her husband was engaged in pumping a tire of their machine when the truck rounded a bend and ran him down. He was removed to Providence Hospital by William Hancock, of 618 Hobart place northwest.

Homes Menaced By Brush Fires

Area Around Lanham and Cheverly Is Swept by Fierce Flames.

Gaining rapid headway through drought-parched underbrush and sparse timber land, a fire last night for several hours menaced homes on the outlying portions of Lanham and Cheverly, Md., calling into action two District engine companies to assist volunteer firemen from various Prince Georges County communities before it was extinguished.

Several score homes were dangerously close to the blaze, which sent dense billows of smoke over the nearby countyside and along the Defense highway.

Residents of a half dozen or more houses on the outskirts of Lanham and as many more at Cheverly hurriedly stripped their homes of furniture and personal belongings as the flames came closer despite the vigorous battle of firemen.

A number of women whose homes were imperiled rushed to aid volunteers in stringing hose line and played an important part in battling the conflagration.

Unable to cope with the situation, volunteer companies responding to the first alarm quickly summoned other companies which included those from Bowie, Hyattsville, Seat Pleasant, Boulevard Heights, Greater Capitol Heights, Riverdale, Bladensburg and Berwyn.

PLOT TO KILL DUCE TO COST FOUR LIVES

One of 18 Jugoslav Terror Band Acquitted; Others Get Imprisonment.

WOMAN'S TERM IS LOW

Trieste, Italy, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Four of the eighteen Jugoslavians on trial for acts of terrorism were sentenced to death before a firing squad as the case was concluded tonight.

They are Francesco Marusic, 24 years old; Zvonimiro Milos, 26; Ferdinando Bidovec, 22; and Luigi Valencic, 32. Two others were acquitted and the remaining twelve were given sentences ranging from 2½ years to 30 years in the penitentiary. The only woman among the eighteen, Sofia Korze, received the lowest sentence, 2½ years.

Of the four condemned to death the government prosecutor claimed that Francesco Marusic was the leader of the band—that he and Luigi Valencic were connected with a plot against Premier Mussolini by which they intended to plant a bomb in the duce's motorcar.

The condemned men probably will face the firing squad in the prison yard tomorrow morning, or Monday morning at the latest.

The defendants were charged with 13 murders, 31 attempted murders, bombings, burnings of schools and asylums, spreading of subversive literature and supplying military secrets to Jugoslavia.

The government demanded the death penalty for five of the eighteen terrorists accused of plotting to assassinate Premier Mussolini and other crimes, and asked a total of 140 years imprisonment for the others.

The prosecutor urged that the men on trial be punished severely as an example. He said the question of boundaries and minorities in Triest had been settled ten years ago, but the defendants were keeping the question alive by murders, bomb explosions and anti-Fascist campaigns.

Barometer Shows Ship Was in Storm's Center

(Associated Press.)

The Hydrographic Office of the Navy Department announced yesterday that the barometric readings on the S. S. Coamo indicated the steamer had passed through the center of the hurricane area on September 3.

"The lowest record given by the Coamo, 27.58, is lower than the record for the center of the hurricane which, in September, 1928, swept over the Virgin Islands and Porto Rico," the statement said. "The lowest barometer in the West Indies was 27.68 at Guayama on the east coast of Porto Rico during the 1928 hurricane. A lower pressure, however, was recorded when that hurricane reached the Florida coast when pressure of 27.43 was established at Palm Beach, Fla., the lowest barometer ever recorded in the United States."

Girl, 16, Fifth Victim Of Slugging HoldupMan

Detroit, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—A 16-year-old girl today was listed as the fifth victim in four days of a slugger who specializes in robbing small shops. The case of the girl, Ethel Goldsmith, however, differed from the others in that she saw her assailant and was able to describe him to police after regaining consciousness at Receiving Hospital.

The girl was alone in the shoe store of her father, Morris Goldsmith, when the man entered late yesterday. He attacked her she said, when she turned around to fill his order for a pair of shoes. The other four victims were men who said they neither heard nor saw their assailant.

Paul Smith's, Famous Hotel, Razed by Fire

Paul Smith's, N. Y., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The main building of Paul Smith's Hotel, famous Adirondack hostelry, was destroyed by fire this afternoon. All of the 100 guests in the building are believed to have escaped safely.

The four-story frame structure, erected about 50 years ago, contained 250 guest rooms. A high wind was blowing when the blaze was discovered. Within 20 minutes it was apparent that the building could not be saved. Firemen then sought to save other buildings of the group.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

YOU know, the Republicans must find it awkward to be crying about the Democrats' publicity machine and beseeching the country to make them quit.

They remind one of the big boy at school who takes all the other kids' lunch and blackens their eyes until one day a spunky little fellow comes along, turns upon him and rubs his hair in the dirt. Then he gets up, dethroned, bellowing that he has been killed.

Why, the Republicans have had the best of the Democrats in a publicity sense ever since this writer can remember. Now one little man, Mr. Michaelson, is harassing them greatly.

* * * *

IN the first place, as one looks back, it seems that the Democrats have never been in power and certainly since time immemorial the party in power has had the publicity channels almost all to itself.

The every utterance of the President is published in every newspaper in the country and in full. Similarly are the statements of his subordinates, the Cabinet and departmental heads, given a newspaper prominence that is most difficult for one out of public life to get.

Virtually every big governmental department has its press agents and they grind out what the newspapermen call "hand-outs" every day.

* * * *

INDEED, in addition to all the facilities that just naturally go with the party in power, they have a publicity man in juxtaposition to Mr. Michaelson, Mr. James L. West, of the Republican national committee. Mr. West has access to the President's press conferences, and Mr. Michaelson does not.

In view of all this, it is funny to see the Republicans carrying on as they are. As a matter of fact, it is a perfect scream.

What amazes one is why, with all the facilities at their command, they do not set in and completely smother Mr. Michaelson. It would seem impossible for any one man to stand up against all the pressure that the Republicans can command.

Why, there is hardly more than four outstanding Democratic newspapers in the United States.

SLANDER TRIAL WON BY FORMER KAISER

CLASHES MARK HEARING

Berlin, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—After a bitter court struggle in which echoes of his lost splendor reverberated through the halls of justice, former Kaiser Wilhelm today won in his libel suit against a newspaper editor he charged with slandering him.

The court decreed that the defendant, Ewald Mendel, editor of the newspaper Morgenpost, must pay a fine of 1,500 marks (about $75) or serve three months in jail. The newspaper had charged that the kaiser allowed the Krupp Arms Works to furnish inferior munitions during the World War because he had a financial interest in the company.

Clash Opens Hearing.

The suit opened with a hot clash over the insistence of Wilhelm's attorneys on their right to speak of their client as "our kaiser." The defense protested that he should be spoken of as "Prince of Prussia." The court finally ended the word battle by ruling that "there isn't any kaiser any more," and allowing Wilhelm's attorneys to speak of him as they pleased.

An effort of the court to persuade both sides to settle the matter out of court precipitated another clash.

"Our kaiser has been slandered and nothing but complete recantation will satisfy us," thundered Paul Bloch, one of the former kaiser's lawyers. "We want to see those much-heralded proofs."

Proofs Ruled Out.

Mendel's attorneys were equally decisive. They said settlement of the case was out of the question, asserting they would establish the truth of the newspaper's charges unless the case was thrown out of court.

The case ended, however, without the Morgenpost being allowed to present the "much-heralded proofs." The court ruled that it was impossible to determine what conditions were during the pre-war and war days referred to in the offending Morgenpost article. The "proofs," consequently, were not admitted as evidence.

French Flier Sets Record.

Paris, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The French aviator, Jean Laulhe, in a 40-horsepower, 770-pound plane today established a new world's record for distance in a circuit with 2,730 kilometers (1,678 miles). The former record was of the Czechoslovakian, Vicherck, of 2,500 kilometers, made in Prague, June 7, 1928.

STRIKES AND RIOTS SPREAD OVER SPAIN

Many Injured in Political Free-for-All Fights in Cities.

BUSINESS HOUSES CLOSE

Madrid, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Scarcely an important town in Spain remained without some sort of strike tonight, while disorders occurred today at Renteria, near San Sebastian, over a metal workers' strike and free-for-all fights over political issues were reported at Orense, in Galicia.

In neither of these cities did deaths result, but many persons were injured and in Renteria all business houses closed after the strike was unexpectedly proclaimed at noon. Most of those who were hurt were struck by stones from the mob or knocked down by the horses of mounted guards.

With increasing political activity heralding the coming of general elections, which will probably be held in January, with strikes gaining and the peseta slumping in value as the cost of living goes up, the authorities are preparing for further disorders in the principal industrial and political centers.

Among the towns affected by strikes are Zaragosa, where street car motormen and conductors are out as are painters; in San Sebastian and surrounding industrial centers, where metal workers are striking, and in various factories of Barcelona, Bilbao, Granada, Cordoba and Valencia. There are numerous others.

The political squabbles, which are almost equally general, are usually between members of the "Union Partiotica," which was the organization of the former dictator, Primo de Rivera, and other groups which always opposed Primo. Primo is dead, but the old enmities persist.

Rich Diamond Field Discovered.

Capetown, Union of South Africa, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Discovery of a rich diamond deposit on the Komaggas Reserve was reported here today. The reports said it was possible that another prolific field would be opened in that vicinity soon. The property was raided by agents of the Diamond Protective Department, and 75 Negroes were arrested for illegal prospecting.

Du Pont Company President Marries

Ceremony in Wilmington Is Attended Only by Family Members.

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Mrs. Caroline H. Stollenwerck, of Scarsdale, N. Y., and Lamont du Pont, president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., were married today at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Rogers Wilson, in Wilmington.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Frederick T. Ashton, pastor of Christ Episcopal Church. Only immediate members of the two families were present. The bride, who was unattended, was given in marriage by her uncle, Reynolds Wilson. Mr. du Pont's son, Lamont du Pont, Jr., was best man.

After a short wedding trip the couple will reside at Mr. du Pont's home, St. Amour, on Kennett pike, near Wilmington.

Dirigible Los Angeles Undamaged on Flight

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The Navy dirigible Los Angeles returned to its hangar at 7 p. m. today from a trip over upstate New York.

The ship was not damaged in the least, its officers said, contradicting rumors that its rudder was put out of commission on the flight.

Coca-Cola Executive Says Balm-Suit Plaintiff Was Intimate With Others.

New York, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Denial that he ever had promised to marry Annette S. Bracy and charges that she had been intimate with other men were contained today in an answer by Joseph B. Whitehead, wealthy official of the Coca-Cola Co., to a breach of promise suit for $500,000.

Whitehead's counsel, answering Miss Bracy's motion to compel the disclosing in full of the names and addresses of men designated in Whitehead's brief only by initials, said: "She is well aware who the people are referred to by initials and well aware of the acts complained of."

The lawyer argued that even a man who had promised to marry a woman should not be compelled to wed her if he learned she had been intimate with other men. The court reserved decision on Miss Bracy's motion.

Americans Robbed in Paris.

Paris, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The rooms of Theodore Kaufman, of New York; of Mrs. S. Sax, of Brooklyn, and of Melville Marx, of San Francisco, have been visited successfully by thieves who took cash and jewels valued at about $20,000. Police believe the thefts to be the work of expert international crooks who have been operating in Paris and fashionable French resorts for some months past.

SEA MAY FOIL QUEST FOR $5,000,000 GOLD

Safe Taken From Sunken Ship, but Divers Fear Darkness Will Defeat Efforts.

BOWLED OVER BY FISHES

Brest, France, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The private safe of the captain of the sunken liner Egypt was brought to the surface today, but the Italian company which is attempting to salvage the £1,000,000 (about $5,000,000) in gold ingots which went down with the ship in 1922 has about abandoned hope of reaching the treasure this year.

Three divers, Gianni, Bergellini and Franceschi, are reported to have told friends they are finding much difficulty in working in the darkness under terrific water pressure and fear the gold must remain under the sea through another winter.

The few days of good weather which will remain until the equinoctial high tides, strong currents and high winds set in will be spent in clearing the top deck so it can be broken through easily to the second deck next spring.

The gold lies 20 feet below the top deck in a strong room on the third deck and blasting is very slow because the explosive used must be encased in strong tubes to guard it against the heavy pressure at a depth of 360 feet.

The divers have reached certain parts of the second deck, but have been unable to get to that spot immediately over the strong room below containing the gold. The three divers have been going down daily since the wreck was located August 20, and they say that obscurity, not pressure, is their worst enemy.

On their first trips below they carried light, but found what they call "a luminous cloud" thrown by their electric lanterns blinded them, so since August 25 they have been exploring without illumination. When their eyes become accustomed to the darkness they can see objects about 5 feet away. They also are bothered by fish, some of which are large enough nearly to bowl the divers over as they run into them.

The captain's safe pulled up today contained documents regarding the storing of the general cargo, ship's papers and a small sum of money.

12 Injured in Missouri As Train Leaves Rails

Merwin, Mo., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—A dozen persons were injured, two severely, when the engine and four cars of the "Flying Crow," northbound Kansas City Southern passenger train from Port Arthur, Tex., were derailed and piled up across the tracks at a switch here late today.

Several of the injured were taken to Kansas City in motor cars. H. C. Van Inwagon, of Kansas City, baggageman, suffered two broken ribs and other body injuries. An elderly man whose name was not learned was the other person injured severely.

expedition found on White Island reported that no traces of Knut Frankel had been recovered.

Nils Strindberg was identified by an engagement ring found on his body. His body was wrapped in a Swedish flag and sent back to his native land yesterday, the anniversary of his birth.

Among the articles found, which number 200, are an anemometer, two chronometers made by a London firm, a case of mathematical instruments, a tape measure, cooking utensils, a basket of sewing materials, small hooks, wire, thread and clothing. Most of the objects were found in a canvas boat.

Dr. Gunbar Horn today proposed that a Swedish expedition be sent to White Island next summer to look for further evidences of the Andree expedition.

Dr. Horn said it is possible that Frankel's body might be found there, buried in the ice. Many of the things which the Horn party found were dug up from a depth of 18 inches or more. It is considered possible that Frankel's body lies farther down in the ice.

It appeared today from investigation that something happened very suddenly and unexpectedly to bring down the balloon on the ice when it was less than 500 miles from the North Pole 33 years ago.

While the diaries of Salomon August Andree, chief of the expedition, still remain secret, it is known unofficially that one of them contains the information the balloon descended at 12:30 p. m., July 13, 1897, just 48 hours after the start from Danes Island, Spitzbergen.

Earlier on July 13, when the balloon, it was presumed, was nearing the end of its second day out, its occupants dispatched a carrier pigeon containing the message: "Good journey northward," and with the additional information of "north wind 145 miles north and 45 miles east of the starting point."

There certainly was nothing in the carrier pigeon's message, which was received soon afterward, to indicate an approaching descent, or trouble of any sort. There was no mention of formation of ice on the envelope, a gradual process. Since so little time elapsed between dispatch of the pigeon and descent of the balloon, the descent may have been due to a sudden storm, a rapid hydrogen leak, or other sudden, and unexpected cause.

Adolf Hotel, director of the Norwegian Svalbard and Arctic Sea office, said tonight his office had placed 40,000 kroner (about $10,000) at the disposal of the owner of the sealer Bratvaag for distribution among the ship's crew and members of the Gunnar Horn Expedition.

Dr. Horn's Expedition was carried by the Bratvaag to White Island and there discovered the remnants of the Salamon August Andree Arctic Expedition, lost 33 years ago.

Peru Treats U. S. Prisoners Well

(Associated Press.)

Acting Secretary Cotton said yesterday that the State Department was informed that the two Americans held prisoners by the new Peruvian military junta were receiving satisfactory physical treatment but that their cases had not yet been settled.

Ferdinand L. Mayer, American charge d'affaires in Lima, is looking to the interests of the two men. One of them, Harold B. Grow, former naval officer, was imprisoned on a charge that he intended to bomb the city of Arequipa under orders from former President Leguia.

The other, Charles W. Sutton, who worked as irrigation engineer under two Peruvian governments for nearly 25 years, was imprisoned shortly thereafter, charged with irregularities in his former duties.

Mr. Cotton said that the State Department had not ascertained whether either man had taken oath of allegiance to the Peruvian government under which both worked.

Prohibition and Politics

by MAJOR MAURICE CAMPBELL

He Says:

"'The trouble is you've got it too dry in New York. The people up there on these hot days have their tongues hanging out of their parched throats and a little beer won't hurt them.

"'You're doing a fine job—the best that ever was done in New York—but we must remember that this is a presidential election year. We must not do anything to antagonize the voters, and they are complaining in New York that they can't get beer.'

"The speaker was an important official of the Treasury, and the remarks were addressed to me. The date was Aug. 10, 1928, and the place was the office of the Treasury official in Washington. Beside me sat another official of the prohibition department.

"'You must take your men out of the breweries,' I was ordered."*

HERE are the revelations that the whole Nation has awaited—almost with impatience. Major Campbell, for three years prohibition administrator of the New York district, stated, upon handing in his resignation last June, that prohibition "never could be enforced, chiefly because of political interference."

In this series of articles, he tells us why. He names the men in Washington—high in officialdom—who were active in blocking every move toward sincere enforcement. He couples them, backed up by documentary evidence, with the most sinister influences of the underworld engaged in beer running and the illicit withdrawal of industrial alcohol.

He describes how he had to put under armed guard his own force of agents in the prohibition headquarters and cut every telephone wire leading into the offices in order to conduct an important raid without the inevitable "tip-off."

This is by far the most devastating indictment ever penned of the whole farce of prohibition enforcement, and it is the only one thus far published that dares to tell the whole truth about the connivance of government officials in the breakdown of a law to the enforcement of which the Administration stands pledged.

Major Campbell identifies by name the various characters referred to in his articles. His statements are also substantiated by photostatic copies of documents and by pictures of principals.*

TO THE RESCUE!

Detailed reports of Santo Domingo's disaster disclose that its extent and horror were minimized rather than exaggerated by the first accounts. The pall of death hangs over the distracted survivors of that city. They are in the midst of their dead, whose bodies must be cremated to avert pestilence. The living are in need of water, shelter, food and medical attention. Thousands are lying injured in the wreckage. For the time being the rescue forces are pitifully weak. Until help comes from the outside, on a vast scale, the stricken city will suffer indescribable horrors.

The American Red Cross has taken preliminary steps to meet the situation, but these first measures are utterly inadequate, although they are practical and prompt. Immensely larger plans must be made and executed immediately if Santo Domingo's living are not to join the dead. Over 2,500 individuals are suffering from injuries, and 29,000 are homeless.

Although the government of Santo Domingo has given plenary powers to President Trujillo, he can not command the resources necessary to cope with this catastrophe. The country is not equipped with communications, skilled men and supplies sufficient to provide food, clothing, water, medical attention and shelter immediately. The United States is in duty bound to rush to the rescue of its sister republic. Everything needed in Santo Domingo is available here, and fast transportation can be obtained. The first necessity is to enlarge all plans heretofore made, and the next is to act with celerity. Prompt action will save life and relieve the tortures of the injured.

President Hoover is warranted in taking extraordinary authority in this emergency. There is no time for consulting precedent. The country will applaud him if he will take charge of this appalling situation and employ the forces of the United States Government, in any department, to rescue the City of Santo Domingo. He has but to say the word and money for financing the rescue work will be poured in by the public.

WOODCOCK'S TOUGH JOB.

Col. Amos Woodcock, director of prohibition, has started his swing around the administrative districts into which the country is divided for enforcement purposes. Presumably it is his intention not only to tighten up enforcement all along the line, but also to impress upon the administrators the fact that henceforward prohibition is to be enforced without promiscuous shooting, and with due regard for the rights of citizens. No one doubts the sincerity of Col. Woodcock's avowal that he will do away with the practices that have caused prohibition enforcement to fall into such general disrepute. But one may well question the ability of Col. Woodcock to extirpate the abuses that occur when ignorant and venal men are in places of authority.

Prior to his departure from Washington Col. Woodcock directed that the phrase, "Two boys can engage in games near the home of the subject without attracting much attention whereas a man loitering in the neighborhood would soon arouse suspicion," be deleted from the textbook on "shadowing" used in the enforcement college. It was never intended that children should be made tools of enforcement, he said. The offending phrase had been inserted in the course of a general discussion of sleuthing, merely as an example of methods that have been employed successfully. In ordering this passage deleted Col. Woodcock gave evidence of his desire to enforce prohibition according to higher standards than have prevailed in the past, but the mere fact that such a passage was inserted in a textbook by the teachers of field agents proves how difficult it will be to reform the prevailing system.

The prohibition enforcement system has relied too much upon the practice of snooping, on the theory that the end justifies the means. The system still employs men who subscribe to this theory and practice. The suggestion that children be used as decoys in the enforcement of prohibition is indicative of the working of their minds, and shows what Col. Woodcock is up against in attempting to reform the system. The stir that was caused by exposure of the boy spy paragraph of the official textbook will doubtless prevent that detestable practice, but no one can ever tell what an official fool will do next.

HOMES VIOLATED BY POLICE.

Officers of the Washington police force persist in raiding private homes without search warrants, in flagrant disregard of instructions from Maj. Pratt. Arrests were made Thursday in four cases without warrants. It begins to appear that some officers have made such a habit of unlawful entry that they are unable to restrain themselves even after specific instructions have been issued. This deliberate and persistent disregard of a fundamental right of the people can not be tolerated.

Assistant United States Attorney Hart called attention to the common police practice of entering homes unlawfully when he refused to prosecute cases in which raids had been made without search warrants. His insistence that arresting officers shall comply with the law brought from Maj. Pratt a renewal of his former instructions that homes must not be entered without warrants. To make the matter emphatic Maj. Pratt reprimanded officers who had participated in the unlawful raids. Apparently the fear of censure is not sufficient to keep some officers within legal limitations.

This method having failed, Maj. Pratt will be justified in adopting more severe measures of dealing with the overzealous members of his force. The police have no right to invade a private dwelling without a warrant. They are bound by law not to violate the rights of citizens who are presumed to be innocent of any offense. If drastic measures are necessary to make Washington policemen realize that the inviolability of the home is sanctified by law and tradition they must be applied, either by the Superintendent of Police or by higher authority. The public will not stand for invasion of its rights by the police.

MR. HOOVER'S SPEECHES.

There is nothing unusual in the fact that President Hoover will make four speeches in six days early in October. President Wilson spoke frequently during the League of Nations fight. President Harding on his Western tour made a number of addresses. President Coolidge delivered seven prepared addresses in the congressional campaigns. It is quite customary and proper that the President should address the public in election years. He is the leader of the party. He is best fitted to enunciate its principles. He would not be expected to take a hand in State campaigns in behalf of individual candidacies, but he certainly may discuss public questions with all propriety, and acquaint the public with the administration's views thereupon at any time he sees fit.

President Hoover will speak before the American Bankers Association in Cleveland October 2. He will deliver two addresses in Boston on October 6, in the morning before the American Legion and in the afternoon before the American Federation of Labor. The following day he will speak during the anniversary celebration of the Battle of Kings Mountain in the Carolinas. The address delivered to the bankers and that delivered before the Federation of Labor hold the most interesting possibilities. It would be appropriate for the President to discuss finance and business before the bankers and unemployment before the federation.

It is a good thing for the President, on occasion, to go before the people—good for the President and good for the people. The President makes valuable contacts on such occasions, and is enabled to find out for himself how the public feels upon controversial subjects. The public is enabled to learn directly how the man whose hands guide the destiny of the Nation proposes to deal with certain subjects. President Hoover's four speeches ought to be of great value in bringing the Government closer to the people.

FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD HEAD.

The selection of Eugene Meyer, jr., to be governor of the Federal Reserve Board is soon to be officially announced. It is a good choice in every respect.

Mr. Meyer has served the Government already in several important posts, and has demonstrated that he possesses the qualifications that are necessary for the proper supervision of the Federal Reserve system. Among these qualifications the most important is ability to analyze complex problems and to solve them to the best advantage of the entire country. Few men possess this ability, and some of them who do possess it lack the courage to stick to their conclusions in the face of opposition. Mr. Meyer's administration of the affairs of the War Finance Corporation and the Farm Loan Board revealed ability of the highest order. To him, more than to any other man, is due the credit for saving the live stock industry of the United States from disaster. He collaborated with Secretary Hoover in devising the successful plans for the relief of Mississippi flood sufferers. His thorough housecleaning of Federal land and intermediate credit banks was a remarkable achievement redounding to the benefit of the people and the Government.

The administration is fortunate in obtaining the services of Mr. Meyer, after having lost Roy A. Young because of the inadequacy of the salary alloted to the presiding officer of the Federal Reserve Board. A qualified citizen who undertakes this arduous task, with all the vexations that may attach to it because of adverse criticism, and discharges his duties with ability and courage, without regard to the emoluments, is performing a patriotic service.

FREAK LISTS OF THE "GREAT."

Making up lists of the men who rule America has become a fad. Since former Ambassador Gerard announced his roster of 59 "rulers" various others have tried to single out the great and mighty ones that control the destiny of the Nation. The latest list has been compiled by Prof. Robert E. Rogers, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who gained notoriety last year by advising college students to be snobs. Prof. Rogers modestly refers to his chosen few as the "intellectual and spiritual leaders of America," but his list answers the same purpose as Mr. Gerard's hierarchy of financiers.

The notable deficiency of all lists of this kind is in their specialization. Being absorbed in economic affairs Mr. Gerard pictured the country as in the grasp of the bankers and industrialists. Politicians who found the sport amusing erased most of the names symbolic of invested capital and replaced them with those of illustrious lights in their own realm of activity. And so the process went on. No doubt science, religion, jurisprudence, education and labor have lists of their own. But they would be no more enlightening than those that have already been given publicity.

Prof. Rogers comes forth with a strange roster made up mostly of radicals or "liberals." He places the burden of "intellectual and spiritual leadership" upon such shoulders as those of Bishop James Cannon, jr., notorious for his activity in politics and finance; Upton Sinclair, social grouch; Judge Ben Lindsay, champion of companionate marriage; Henry L. Mencken, erratic writer; Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, radio preacher, and Clarence Darrow, criminal lawyer, with Eddie Guest and Will Rogers thrown in for good measure. The list contains a few worthy names.

These efforts to designate the source of leadership in America reveal little of the actual "power behind the throne." They do, however, give the public a key for judging the mentality of those who pretend to know by whom America is controlled. The list compiled by Prof. Rogers puts him out on the fringe of that circle of slovenly thinkers who believe that radicalism and freak theories guide American public opinion.

SHEIKS IN MOTOR CARS

By a Correspondent of the London Times.

Last autumn I was riding with several Beduin in the Syrian Desert southeast of Damascus. Our camels frequently crossed the tracks left by motor cars in the sand. Presently one of my companions said to me, "I wish I had enough money to buy a motor car. If I had a car, by Allah, I would soon become wealthy." I asked him how a motor car would bring him wealth. "I would hunt the ostrich with it," he answered. "The feathers of the ostrich bring much money."

The sons of Nuri Shaalan, sheik of the Rualla tribe, he added, had used a motor car for this purpose with great success. The ostrich can not be overtaken by a horseman, still less by a camel-rider, but with a motor car it can be run down fairly easily, as it always runs on flat ground, in the bottom of valleys and so on. Nuri Shaalan's sons had chased a number of these great birds and shot them from the car while traveling at high speed. They had lassoed one and captured it alive, afterward presenting it to King Feisal of Iraq. A band from the same tribe hired, not very long ago, eight motor cars from Damascus. With these, a machine gun being mounted on one of them, they made a raid on a branch of the Aneyza tribe, with which they were at feud.

To Beduin, the chief thing about the chase is the bag. Their hunting is done principally to fill the pot. They search in the desert for hares, and having found one sleeping among the rocks, they get within about five yards of it and shoot it with a rifle. They also take them on the run with hawk or hound.

Motor cars could be of great benefit to the Beduin. Breeders of camels, their lives are spent in wandering about the desert searching among the stones for pasturage and water for their beasts. There are enormous tracts of the desert in which there are no wells, but where there is excellent grazing for camels. Whether the rain-pools are full or dry can only be ascertained by sending out camel-riders to examine them. This may take many days, whereas by using a motor car all the pools in a very large tract could be inspected in a single day, and the information brought to the headquarters of the tribe on the morrow. This system is already in use among those northern tribes whose territories touch on the settled lands of Syria and Transjordan. The sheiks of some of these tribes now possess cars.

Farther south, however, the tribes continue to live their lives just as their forefathers lived. Firearms are the only possession which their ancestors of a thousand years ago did not have. The reason is not always poverty. A fat camel sells to the butchers in Egypt for about $80 or $85 and many Beduin own 50 or even 100 camels. Moreover, they are prepared to pay for anything they want. As much as $100 is sometimes paid for a good hawk, for instance. No, the explanation of their continued simplicity of life is that they are so isolated among their deserts that they do not come into contact with new things, and so do not acquire the want of them.

Although the Beduin have not yet themselves made much use of modern inventions, they are increasingly coming under the influence of them. Ibn Saud, the king of the greater part of the Beduin nation, travels between the principal parts of his dominions by means of motor cars. His caravan usually consists of some 60 cars of various sorts. He also owns a small fleet of aeroplanes, run by British pilots. Again, some half-a-dozen wireless telegraph stations have been installed at various points in his kingdom. These things can hardly fail, as time goes on, to force a wider outlook on the nomads. Up to the present, however, progress has not carried the Beduin beyond the rifle, and an occasional box of matches.

JUST A MOMENT.

Sentiment is the voice of the soul.

One must escape from reality to realize life.

The gun that announces noon, the bells that beautify it—these, rather than the hideous siren, are in harmony with it.

What is wrung from the exiguous rock of taciturnity delights more than any easy exuberance.

Enjoy as you go. Let us live not like those who are anxious to reach a destination, but like those who have already arrived at it.

MR. HOOVER'S STORY.

It was to be expected that Mr. Hoover, when a little girl wrote him a request to see her and her brother, should accede at once: Public men are invariably vulnerable to such requests and in secret probably like them, observes the New York World. But it comes as a pleasant surprise that the story he told his young visitors when they finally appeared revealed so exact an understanding of the childish mind. The story was this: He had had a dog named Yukon. This dog came from the North Pole and every time the iceman came with a cake of ice the dog would sit on it. That is all; there is no more. And to grown-ups this may not seem like much of a story. But we have an idea that it was a perfect story for two little children from Texas.

A TOWN CHARACTER.

He would not hurry as we said,
But chose to take his time instead
And days went by. The hingeless door
Bothered and fretted as before,
And still our nerves were overstrained
Because a broken shelf remained.

Our city haste he would not share,
Nor rush our trifles to repair.
"'Tis very like him," some one said.
"He soundly sleeps at night in bed,
Wants little; likes to take his ease
And cares not whom he may displease.

"Oh, many a day I've gone to see
If he would do some work for me
And found, because the wind was right,
His little shop door fastened tight,
And on it left a sign to say
That he'd gone fishing for the day."

We think him queer because he asks
No fortune from his daily tasks
And with enough can shut his door
On those of us who offer more.
But sometimes rushed from that to this
I envy him that life of his.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:

Yesterday you told me about meeting a girl of your own age whose stepmother is much like the ones described in sad stories. The old sister maintains a rigid discipline and doesn't hesitate to lay down the law in the presence of strangers.

It seems an unfair arrangement, but you can't judge such cases fairly unless you know the people well. The girl may be the kind that needs a tight rein and a spur.

Liberty is something that must be earned.

Of course, every man has the natural right to be free, and no man has the right to say to another: "Thou shalt."

But this applies only to adults who stand on their own feet and do nothing to deserve restraint.

If I am working for another man, I must accept orders from him. I have agreed to deliver a certain service in return for a certain sum of money, and when he tells me to come or to go he is not imposing on my freedom any more than I am imposing on the rights of the butcher when I tell him how to slice the meat I am buying.

And as the wage earner obeys his employer without sacrificing his natural liberty because he has traded his liberty of action for money, so the child obeys without sacrifice of its rights because nature makes it dependent for a time and the vine must shape itself to fit the oak to which it clings.

In other words, since I must pay for the window glass that little Willie breaks, it is my logical right to tell him not to break windows.

Since the parent is both morally and legally responsible for what the child does, both law and common sense make the child subject to his will.

And since the child is dependent on parents for board and clothes, it is obligated to render obedience just as the wage earner is.

Not until a youth is self-supporting can he claim the natural liberty to which all men are by nature entitled.

I have always given you all the liberty you could stand; but as I said in the beginning, liberty is something that must be earned.

When I give you a little too much rein and you begin to forget who is driving, I tighten up a little to keep you from breaking your neck. But I'll be glad to take the bridle off entirely when you prove that you are qualified to assume the complete liberty that is your heritage.

Love, DAD.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

AN APARTMENT NAMED JERRY.

"Oh, you'll like Harry. . . . He's an informal, cheerful two-room apartment. At the Town House we've given the apartments names, because they're as different and as individual as people. Harry looks on the sunny side of life through great wide eyes. And he gives the most delightful parties in his living room (it has a terrace). His foyer is very large and he uses it for a dining room."—From an advertisement of a New York apartment house.

"Would you like to see Harry?" asked the renting agent.

"Harry's the two-room one, isn't he?" questioned Mrs. Dimmock, who was having major trouble finding what she wanted.

"Yes, Harry's the one with the large foyer."

"Possibly you would like to look at Gus," suggested the agent, pointing to a diagram.

"No," said Mrs. Dimmock flatly. "My last apartment was named Gus and I hated him."

"But this is a different Gus. He really has everything," argued the agent.

"No," sighed Mrs. Dimmock; "the name kills him."

"Suppose you examine Jasper?" suggested the agent.

"Which is Jasper?"

"Jasper's really the talk of the apartment house world," explained the agent, beaming. "There's nothing like him to be found. Glutz, Buxbaum & Glutz claim their Oswald is more attractive, but they're silly."

"What's Jasper got that Oswald hasn't?" asked Mrs. Dimmock.

"Personality," declared the agent. "The certain something that makes it pleasant to live with him. He's cheerful and expansive, you know, and looks out over the river through the loveliest big eyes, as it were. His pantry, for example, is one of the roomiest in the city."

"He sounds quite interesting," agreed Mrs. Dimmock. "How many baths has he?"

"Two baths."

"That's good. Gus only had one bath. It was one of his bad features."

"We'll take a look at Jasper, and while we're at it we might drop in and inspect Walter. He's not as attractive as Jasper, but he has some features you may like."

"I have a friend who has a Walter. She's been most comfortable. Before that she lived in an Ignatz. You know how terrible they are."

"Everything's going very fast," said the agent as he led the way to the elevator (Its name was Albert) through an imposing corridor by the name of Maximillian. "Just an hour ago we rented our de luxe penthouse apartment of eleven rooms and five baths."

"What was its name?" asked Mrs. Dimmock.

"Napoleon," replied the agent.

OH, YEAH?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Washington's Left-Hand Turn Safest for Pedestrians and Motorists.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There has been quite a lot of argument pro and con in reference to the continuation of the rotary left-hand turn in Washington.

Whatever is said for or against the turn, it must be acknowledged that at least one point of danger to the pedestrian is eliminated by it. A car approaching an intersection is a potential danger to pedestrians using the crossing which it is approaching, as also to a person using the crossing to the right of and parallel to the street on which the car is proceeding.

These points of possible danger are present whether the rotary or the Hoover turn is in effect. With the Hoover turn displacing the one now used there is an added danger in event of the car making an uncontrolled left-hand turn, thereby jeopardizing persons on the opposite crossing who have no warning of the driver's intention to turn. Another consideration is that a car making the left turn is cutting a line of traffic, and many drivers are under more nervous strain, causing them to make a more rapid turn than under less trying circumstances.

Many advocates of the Hoover turn contend that it is standard in other cities, and that the rotary turn hinders some traffic in making the right turn. These points are conceded. Washington, however, holds a unique position as Capital of the Nation and has its own traffic problems. I consider it the height of folly to discard a proved safety measure simply because other cities do not recognize it.

The fact of it impeding the right turn is purely a matter of personal convenience and should be subservient to the factor of safety.

Coste and Bellonte Thrifty as Well as Gallant—Their Paying Load of Ads.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Aviation stimulates business, and it offers to pilots and crews opportunities to win a fortune.

Airmen working on a straight salary basis receive, on an average, above $500 per month. With the possible exception of airmail pilots there are many opportunities open to airmen in the course of each month to increase their incomes. All that is necessary is that they be endowed with a certain amount of vision, such as that exhibited by Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte.

That these two intrepid fliers, who are now in Dallas to collect a $25,000 prize, had an eye to business was shown only a few minutes after their landing at Curtiss Field on Tuesday night. They brought along four seven-column newspaper advertisements, and a smaller one, boosting two French cities and the "tourisme" industry of France. They also brought a model dress created by an eminent French designer and consigned to a large department store in New York.

Already it is reported that orders have been placed with the store for copies of the frock, while in all probability the other advertisements have served their purpose. Thus, in this one instance of vision, business has benefited and the pilots have been financially rewarded.

District Building Declared to Be Disgracefully Dirty, Inside and Out.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: What is the most disgracefully dirtiest building in Washington? Even the District Building, the city hall of the Capital of the Nation. The structure cost several million dollars to build, and, if not of white marble, is very nearly so; but who would suspect it? It has not been cleaned inside or out since constructed some 20 years ago. It shows this so that all who run may see, and it is the more a grievous matter since it is apparently a pretentious building with some show of ornamentation, although a bit dowdy. The building has been sold to the Federal Government and, presumably, some time will be razed, for it does not fit into the Government's building program. But this will not occur for some years, and so it is all the more imperative that the structure should be cleaned.

It would be amazing to see how much dirt the District Building would peel off. Its filthiness will show more by contrast when the adjacent new and resplendent Department of Commerce Building is completed.

Nor must one forget the interior. I had occasion to walk up the grand marble staircase the other day and was astonished by the dirtiness in evidence everywhere. Evidently the caretakers like dirt and the supervisors, too, or they are asleep. The Capital of the Government is disgraced inside and out in this city hall.

It would be a fine thing if all of the articles written to The Washington Post by Mr. Coolidge could be compiled in a book at the close of the year and sold at a reasonable price. I would buy the first copy.

Trio Teased As Result of Fishing Trip

Capital Matrons Make Small Catch But Are Amused.

By JEAN ELIOT.

"FISHERMAN'S luck" may not always hold, but going fishing is always good fun. At any rate so contends Mrs. Leonidas C. Dyer, Mrs. Oscar Bland and Mrs. Everett Sanders, who have been companions on many a fishing trip this summer. With Mrs. John Connolly, Miss Helen Bland, Miss Dorothy Barnes and two beaux to pair off with the girls of the party, they set forth on Thursday to try their luck in Chesapeake Bay. They returned yesterday without a single fish—the bay was too rough for them even to go out—but they had a perfectly corking time.

Spending the night at Mrs. Dyer's cottage near Point Lookout, Md., they succeeded in one of the major objects of their trip, if not in demonstrating their skill as fishermen, for they attended a performance on the show boat, which is anchored in the Potomac not far from Point Lookout and brought back memories of a thrilling performance of "The Girl Who Left Home," presented in a most picturesque setting.

One of the last of a fleet of vessels, which plied the rivers of the country bringing entertainment to the backwaters, this show boat was one on which Edna Ferber cruised in search of material for her glamorous "Show Boat," which as novel, musical show and movie, has brought a vivid picture of river life of a bygone day to the entire country.

Presumably the trio of ardent fishermen, Mrs. Dyer, Mrs. Bland and Mrs. Sanders, have undergone a bit of razzing about their "catch" on this occasion. But they have proved their skill so often before that they have a ready comeback.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanders, who seem to know how to get a good deal of enjoyment out of Washington in the summer, are planning a picnic for tomorrow with Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Shutts, of Miami, Fla., who are at the Mayflower for a short visit, accompanied by their daughters, Miss Marion Shutts and Miss Elinor Shutts Mr. and Mrs. Shutts were formerly residents of Indiana, the home of the former secretary to the President and his wife, and the two couples are old friends. PROBATE GRANTED TO BROWNLEY WILL

TRUST PLAN SET ASIDE

Coincidentally with the setting aside of a trust agreement which contradicted his will, the last testament of Walter Brownley, wealthy candy manufacturer and real estate owner, was admitted to probate yesterday in District of Columbia Supreme Court. The action of the court permits administration of the estate, which, according to the petition for probate, amounts to more than $1,200,000.

The action of the court participated in by two of the justices—Justice Jesse C. Adkins signing the order setting aside the trust agreement, while Justice Joseph W. Cox admitted the will to probate.

Setting aside of the trust agreement, which specified that the widow, Mrs. Emma Brownley, be paid $12,000 a year for life, and also provided annuities for Carrie Bailey, a sister, and William C. Brownley, a brother, resulted from a friendly suit to which trustees under the agreement and beneficiaries consented.

Attorney Frank J. Hogan, who, with Attorney Edmund Jones, filed the petition to set aside the agreement, explained that Mrs. Brownley and relatives of the deceased named in the paper will enter into a new trust agreement with the same trustees. Mr. Brownley in the original agreement specified that at the death of persons named the income of the estate should go to hospitals and orphanages of the trustees' selection and Mr. Hogan said that under the new agreement to be drafted Mr. Brownley's wishes in that regard will be carried out.

BUENOS AIRES WILD AS IRIGOYEN RESIGNS

disperse crowds in public thoroughfares, which had been in evidence most of the day.

First anouncement of Mr. Irigoyen's delegation of his powers to Dr. Martinez came through the newspapers. The Associated Press received it from the great Buenos Aires daily La Nation, whose correspondent at the government palace had previously put the Buenos Aires bureau on the alert.

New York Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Worldwide economic depression furnished the added heat which boiled over Argentina's steaming political cauldron today, representatives of Argentine commercial interests here said, in commenting on the resignation of President Hipolito Irigoyen.

Resignation of the president of the powerful South American republic is interpreted as the effect of an economic Frankenstein, built largely by the president through his zeal for assuming all governmental responsibilities.

Lack of ambassadors in ten of the world's principal nations, including the United States and Germany, is charged with the shrinkage in Argentina's foreign trade. This shrinkage is general throughout the world save in the United States, from which Argentina in 1929 purchased $210,300,000, selling $117,000,000.

Inherited Political Power.

President Irigoyen, leader of the radical party since 1893, inherited the toga from his Uncle Alem, who founded the organization in 1890.

Under Alem, radical elements tried unsuccessfully in 1890 and in 1893 to revolt against the, then ruling government. With the collapse of the latter attempt Alem slew himself.

Another unsuccessful attempt to overthrow the government was made in 1905. Seven years later the radicals were able to control the Argentine house of representatives and in 1916 Irigoyen was named president.

Served as War President.

During his six-year term President Irigoyen served through the days of the World War with its attendant high prices. He relinquished the presidency because constitutional bars prevented him from succeeding himself.

With his inauguration to the second term in 1928 elements of his own party began a campaign of political sniping, aiming particularly at what they termed a "do nothing" policy of the president.

(Copyright, 1930, and all rights reserved by the Associated Press.)

New York, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Observers agreed tonight that Mr. Irigoyen's decision to resign had been foreshadowed for some time.

Resignation Often Sought.

His resignation was said to have been repeatedly requested by a group of prominent leaders. This group insisted that the only way to avoid bloodshed was by his abandoning office.

He had tried, it was said, to compromise with his recalcitrant assistants and had appointed Dr. Pueyrredon, former ambassador to Washington, as minister of foreign relations, Dr. Pueyrredon was known to be a political foe of Irigoyen's.

He also appointed Gen. Elipidio Gonzales, minister of the interior, as minister of war. Also this appointment did not please the opposition, Gen. Gonzalez being a stanch supporter of Irigoyen's.

Retirement Was Foreseen.

The retirement had been foreseen by political experts in Buenos Aires. The opposition had been claiming that Irigoyen was violating the constitution. Among these violations were cited the outbreaks of violence at San Juan and Mendoza, where the government was reported as being too "lenient" with violators of law and order.

(Associated Press.)

While embassy and State Department officials received the report of President Irigoyen's resignation with great interest, well-informed financial circles last night predicted that his withdrawal would have a favorable effect on Argentine credit and business in this country.

Observers in official circles recalled that the former president has been repeatedly criticized in the Argentine press for a "notoriously antagonistic" attitude toward the United States.

U. S. EXPORT TRADE SHOWS SHARP DROP

Decrease for Six Months in 1930 Put at 20 Per Cent by Government.

MARKETS ARE SPECIFIED

Declines in American exports to foreign countries during the last fiscal year were revealed yesterday in figures presented by Grace A. Witherow, of the division of statistical research of the Department of Commerce.

"Examination of statistics for the first and second halves of the fiscal year 1929-30," said Miss Witherow, "shows that the value of exports in the period of July-December, 1929, fell but 5 per cent, as compared with the same period in the preceeding year, while the decrease for the six months ending June, 1930, was as much as 20 per cent.

"The value of exports, including reexports, in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1930," Miss Witherow pointed out, "was $4,694,000,000, a decline of $680,000,000, or 12½ per cent from the preceeding year. This was the first break of major importance in expansion of exports during successive fiscal years since 1921-22."

Other Statistics Cited.

Excess of merchandise exports over merchandise imports in 1929-30 fell far below the high figure, $1,082,000,000, of 1928-29, it being $845,000,000.

Par value of foreign loans floated in the United States during 1929-30 totaled $1,032,000,000, an increase of $114,000,000 over 1928-29. Exports of cotton, corn, barley and apples showed a heavy falling off last fiscal year.

Wheat, the leading crude food export, declined only 5 per cent from 1928-29, a heavy export year, but 40 per cent as compared with the average for 1924-25 to 1928-29.

European Market Weaker.

Miss Withrow points out that 1929-30 exports to Europe from the United States amounted to $2,173,000,000 or $224,000,000 less than in 1928-29. There were decreases in xports to all leading European countries except to the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics (Russia) in Europe.

Exports of wheat to all leading countries of Europe except France and Italy increased over 1928-29, but shipments of corn, barley and rye to the Netherlands, Germany and the United Kingdom declined considerably. Exports of motor vehicles to Europe showed marked decreases, while those of gasoline and lubricating oil increased.

Increase in exports to the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics resulted chiefly from larger sales of electrical apparatus, machinery, and agricultural implements; exports of agricultural implements alone (mainly tractors) totaled $43,000,000—an increase of $33,000,000 over 1928-29. The value of cotton shipments to Russia declined $138,000,000.

Exports to Asia totaled $566,000,000—a decrease of 17 per cent from 1928-29. Although there were decreases in sales to most countries, major declines occurred in exports to Japan and China. Japan purchased smaller quantities of cotton, copper, motor vehicles, tobacco, and electrical appliances but larger quantities of wheat than in 1928-29, and in the trade with China there were decreases in exports of leaf tobacco, cigarettes, cotton and kerosene.

Exports to Latin America totaled $412,000,000, about 1½ per cent less than in 1928-29. A smaller decline than was shown for exports to any other continent. Exports to Mexico increased 16 per cent over 1928-29. Exports to South America declined.

TWO ARE INDICTED IN DOUBLE KILLING

HEAD OF POLICE GRILLED

Detroit, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The special grand jury called as a result of the slaying of Jerry Buckley, radio political commentator, today returned indictments in a double slaying which Buckley witnessed from a window of the La Salle Hotel, 20 days before he himself became the victim of gunmen, on July 23, in the lobby of the hotel.

Buckley saw William Cannon and George Collins, Chicago gangsters, shot to death at the side entrance of the hotel in which his radio station, WMBC, was located. The grand jury today returned two indictments, but withheld the names of the accused men because they were not in custody.

Slayings Were Linked.

The slaying of Buckley had been linked by investigators with the shooting of Collins and Cannon, because he saw it and consequently evidence in the Collins-Cannon slaying was presented early in the investigation of Buckley's death. The motive for the slaying of the Chicago men has not been revealed by police.

After returnnig the indictments and hearing several witnesses the jury adjourned for its second weekend recess. It will reconvene Monday on the eve of a special mayoralty election made necessary by the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles ni a special election on the eve of the Buckley slaying.

Were on Opposite Sides.

During the last two days the grand jury has shown an interest in the political occurrences preceding the killnig by questioning John Gillespie, former commission of public works and campaign manager for Bowles in the recall election. Gillespie and Buckley were fiery speakers on opposite sides of that contest, and Gillespie often used the microphone of Station WMBC.

Other witnesses heard today included John Klein, motion picture operator, who was in the lobby when Buckley was kille and who has appaered before the jury several times; Superintendent of Police Patrick J. O'Grady and several other police officers. Several new witnesses were ordered summoned during the weekend recess.

Tiny Golf Course Owners Organize

Association Will Fight Order Closing Games at Midnight.

At a meeting of the Miniature Golf Owners Association held yesterday at noon at the Ambassador Hotel Milton A. Bradley was made president for the coming year.

Other officers who were elected at this meeting were H. A. Hollins, vice president; Samuel Bel Vecchio, secretary, and Julius Wolf, treasurer.

The avowed intention of the association is to get the ruling cast aside that the courses may not be kept open later than 11:30 each night. A ruling to that effect was recently made by District officials, acting on the complaints of persons who lived near these courses, which have become so popular during this spring and summer.

Real Estate Man Held Sane in Slaying Case

Los Angeles, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Frank D. Keaton, Inglewood real estate man, was found sane today by a Superior Court jury in his trial on a plea of not guilty by reason of insanity for the slaying of Motley H. Flint, financier. Keaton will be sentenced either to death or life imprisonment.

Flint was shot in court on last July 14, after he left the witness stand in a civil case. Keaton blamed the banker for his alleged financial losses.

Youth Sentenced in Theft.

Frank Mathews, 19 years old, colored, of Seventh street near O northwest, was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail or pay a fine of $25 by Judge Schulte in Police Court yesterday for stealing newspapers from a rack at Massachusetts avenue and Twelfth street northwest. The youth was arrested by Policeman R. M. Kesselring, of the Second Precinct.

Playground Row Ends in Stabbing

Youth, 16, Is Accused in Death of Boy, 12; Father Will Surrender Lad.

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—A playground quarrel today resulted in the stabbing to death of Edward Atwood Saunders, 12, by a youth police identified as Lester Weldon, 16. Young Weldon's father, police said, advised them he would surrender the boy.

Playmates of the slain boy told police a quarrel arose between young Saunders and the youth, whom they did not know, and that the latter drew a butcher knife.

Saunders was stabbed through the heart and died within a few minutes. Before older persons attracted by the screams of the boys could reach the scene the slayer had fled.

Disorders in Brazil Denied by Government

Rio de Janeiro, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The government issued an official statement today saying there were no indications of disorder in any part of Brazil.

The action was brought about by rumors of trouble in the State of Santa Catherina, and the departure of three destroyers during the night for Florianopolis. The minister of marine said these destroyers had been under orders for several days to participate in joint maneuvers with the army along the Santa Catherina coast.

wood, whose father, an Army officer, had served many years at Fort Dearborn, where Chicago now stands. A year later the family moved and settled in Chicago.

Her father became one of the pioneer developers of the city, but the Chicago fire in 1871 destroyed the business block he owned in the center of the city, and much of his residential property. He later recovered his losses.

Although members of the Episcopalian Church, both daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Honore, the elder of whom afterwards became Mrs. Potter Palmer, were educated at the Georgetown Visitation Convent. From this school the future Mrs. Grant was graduated with signal honors and was awarded all the first prizes by Gen. William T. Sherman.

Upon returning to Chicago she met and married Lieut. Col. Frederick Dent Grant, the eldest son of President Grant, who was serving on the staff of Gen. Sheridan in the city. She later visited her parents-in-law at the White House, and while there became a favorite in the society of the Capital.

Her brilliancyand magnetic charm made friends for the couple wherever the husband's duties called him. While he was stationed at Vienna (1889-1893) as American Minister to Austria, she endeared herself to the Viennese society as no other American had before her.

Mrs. Grant was always a favorite with her father-in-law and mother-in-law and showed her devotion to their memory by treasuring such mementoes and souvenirs of their lives as were inherited by her husband.

On the death of her husband in 1912, she purchased her late residence and settled there as they had planned to do upon his retirement. In this home, the contents of which are so intimately connected with the history of thi country for two generations, she renewed old friendships and gathered about her a host of new friends.

Until her illness she entertained extensively but on a modest scale and was to be seen at virtually all White House social affairs. She is also remembered as one of the last residents to abandon the fashionable horse and carriage for the automobile.

In recent years she donated a reredos of sculptured stone for the altar in the chapel at West Point as a memorial to Gen. U. S. Grant and her husband. Funeral services will be held at St. Johns Church here. She will be buried at West Point, N. Y.

She is survived by two children, Princess Cantacuzene and Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, and six grandchildren, Princess Cantacuzene's son, Prince Michael Cantacuzene, the younger, and one daughter, Mrs. Bruce Smith, of Louisville, who was Princess Bertha, were called to their grandmother's bedside this week. Mrs. John C. Hanbury Williams, who was the Princess Ida Cantacuzene, lives in London.

Col. Grant has three daughters, the Misses Edith, Clara and Julia Grant.

NATIONAL CHURCHES BEAUTIFY CAPITAL

HISTORY IS OUTLINED

By DAVID RANKIN BARBEE.

Every denomination which has a church in Washington has fallen in line with the program of building national churches here. Some already have them, others are projecting them, and still others are planning for such an edifice. This splendid program has resulted in giving Washington a number of very beautiful and some genuinely classic structures.

There are two of these churches that have been some years in building and will take a long time to complete—the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception at the Catholic University and Washington Cathedral. These structures probably will be the most costly and among the stateliest in the Nation. Of them more anon.

Before the National Shrine or the Cathedral came into existence as a project there were already two national churches here, the Metropolitan Methodist Church and Luther Place Memorial Church. Readers of the church page no doubt are somewhat familiar with the history of Luther Place Memorial Church, which was erected as a memorial to peace between the North and the South. But long before Dr. Butler, its founder, conceived that grand idea, there was a national church here, and it was the Metropolitan Methodist Church, John Marshall place northwest.

Founded in 1852.

It was founded in 1852, a memorable year in our national history. Eight years before its founding, the Methodist Church had amicably divided over the slavery question. While much bitterness grew out of the action of the 1844 General Conference, the great controversy in that conference over the removal of Bishop James O. Andrew, one of the saintliest men ever elected to the episcopacy, was carried on by men with breaking hearts and tear-dimmed eyes. Let any one read those debates now, nearly a century later, and see how the Methodist ministers, North and South, loved each other and their common Methodism. What a pity they ever fell out!

In the year that the general conference authorized the erection of a national Methodist Church here, and provided the ways and means for constructing it, a great national political campaign was on between Gen. Winfield Scott, of Virginia, the Whig candidate, and Gen. Franklin K. Pierce, of New Hampshire, the Democratic candidate. This was practically the last throw of the great Whig party in a presidential election, for in 1856 the Republican party was organized and supplanted it.

A greater political event than this, however, was taking place, for Henry Clay was dying and soon was to pass from the scene of life in the city which for almost half a century had been his home. It seemed to his followers as if the world was coming to an end when Harry of the West closed his eyes on the long sleep.

Political History Interesting.

This political history is interesting, for it submerged the importance of the establishment of a national church, the first in existence, in the Nation's Capital.

When the Metropolitan Methodist Church was completed it instantly became a force in the community and has continued to be a force to this day. It was the first church to have chimes in its belfry and the brilliant and witty Don Piatt, editor of the Washington Capital, always referred to it as "the Metropolitan Methodist Church with the chimes." Mrs. John P. Newman, wife of the pastor, collected the money for those chimes.

A number of able ministers have served it, the foremost of them probably being Dr. John P. Newman, who became one of the most prominent of Methodist bishops. While he was pastor, President Grant and Vice President Colfax were among his parishioners, besides numerous prominent members of Congress and others high in official life here. The Metropolitan had supplanted the old First Presbyterian Church, in the same neighborhood, as "the" church of Washington, though it had only one President, while the first had numbered a long line of Presidents among its pewholders. Vice President Charles Curtis joined the Metropolitan when the new administration came in and is a constant worshiper there.

Program of Rebuilding.

In the rebuilding program now under way, all the buildings in the area occupied by the Metropolitan Church have been taken over by the District government and will be torn down. This has necessitated the location of the National Methodist Church in some other place, and a site has been selected on Massachusetts avenue, Nebraska avenue and Newark street, opposite the American University, which also is a Methodist institution.

Ground was broken there last spring and the corner stone laid in the presence of a large crowd with imposing ceremonies, conducted by Bishop W. F. McDowell and the pastor, Dr. James Shera Montgomery.

Plans for the new church are going forward slowly. When completed it will have an auditorium that seats 650 persons, with a religious education building that is in keeping with the importance of the enterprise. Among other things, the church will have a new Skinner organ of the best construction.

Many Relics to Be Saved.

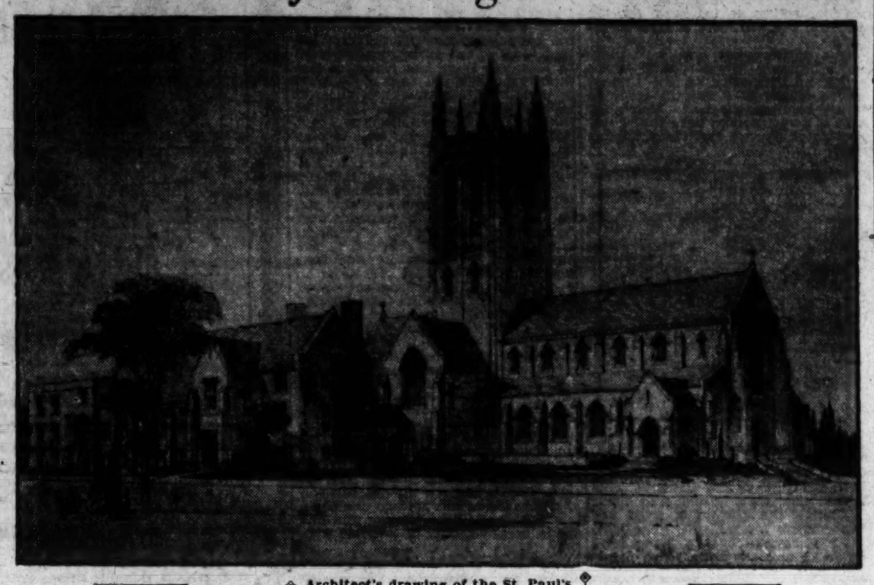
There is so much of historic interest in the old church that many of its relics no doubt will be moved and incorporated in the new church. The ivy on the old church came from slips that Mrs. J. P. Newman brought from the tomb of Martin Luther. This ivy can not all be removed, but cuttings will be taken surely and set against the walls of the new church. If some dark night a number of very cultured and very religious people should be seen with garden scissors and trowels making a trek to the old Metropolitan Church, you will have no trouble placing them. They, too, want some of that Luther ivy.

The marble tiles in the vestibule at the east entrance to the church were brought by Bishop Newman from the ruins of Solomon's Temple. If the Methodists do not want them, Rabbi Abram Simon can find a niche in his synagogue in which to set them up.

The pulpit and altar rail in the auditorium were made of olive wood brought from the Garden of Gethsemane and the Mount of Olives, and from cedar brought from Mount Lebanon. This wood came over from the Holy Land in rough logs and was worked up in Washington mills.

Over the pulpit is an arch whose keystone was cut from a stone also brought from the ruins of Solomon's Temple and has on it the inscription: "Jehovah Jired."

New St. Paul's English Lutheran Church To Be One of Washington's Show Places



Architect's drawing of the St. Paul's English Lutheran Church and parish buildings under construction on Connecticut avenue, at Ellicott street. The plans are by Frohman, Robb & Little.

Gothic Cathedral Hailed as Distinct Asset to Capital.

Out on Connecticut avenue at Ellicott street a group of church buildings is going up that will one day be one of the show places of Washington. It is the St. Paul's English Lutheran Church, of which the Rev. Henry W. Snyder is the able pastor.

The church itself is a replica of a famous European church of the middle ages, and plans for it were drawn by Frohman, Robb & Little, the architects of Washington Cathedral. It is a rarely beautiful Gothic cathedral.

St. Paul's is the oldest English Lutheran Church in Washington. It is interesting to learn that the oldest church of any sort in the District of Columbia is the Georgetown Lutheran Church, of which the Rev. Harold E. Beatty is minister.

This congregation (St. Paul's) was organized Easter Sunday, April 15, 1843, in Odd Fellows Hall on Pennsylvania avenue, with 40 communicant members, 6 teachers and 61 scholars in the Sunday School. A lot at Eleventh and H streets was secured by donation from Gen. John P. Van Ness, and on it was erected the first St. Paul's Chapel.

The corner stone of the church was laid June 12, 1844, with an imposing parade led by former President John Quincy Adams, a Unitarian, and Gen. Van Ness. The Grand Lodge of Masons and the Sons of Temperance, in full regalia, were in the line. An immense crowd was present. Rev. Dr. John G. Morris, of Baltimore, president of the General Synod, delivered the address.

Frederick William IV, King of Prussia, sent a silver chalice to the congregation as a token of the good will of himself and Queen Elizabeth, and it has been in use at every communion service since then. There is just one older communion set in this general community, and it was given to the Upper Marlboro Presbyterian Church by Queen Anne in the early years of the eighteenth century and is kept in a vault at the Hyattsville Bank. It is now the property of the Hyattsville Presbyterian Church, which is the lineal descendant of the mother Presbyterian Church on this continent, and the mother of the first Presbyterian church in Washington.

When the church was dedicated on Sunday, October 1, 1848, President James K. Polk and his lovely wife and their household, James Buchanan, the Secretary of State, and many other high officials in the Government were present.

From St. Paul's at various times have come as daughters, the Church of the Reformation, in 1869; St. Mark's, in 1887; Luther Place Memorial Church, for which St. Paul's bought the lot on Thomas Circle and contributed $30,000 toward the edifice, and Epiphany, in 1909. In 1926 St. Paul's and Epiphany merged, took over the site on Connecticut avenue which the Epiphany congregation had bought, and laid plans for the beautiful cathedral now under way.

When completed, St. Paul's will have cost $750,000. It will be one of the best equipped churches in the city for carrying on modern church and Sunday school work.

A long line of prominent ministers has served St. Paul's, and its present pastor, Dr. Henry W. Snyder, came here in 1929 and in one year has won the hearts of his people. More than that, he has energized them with his own enthusiasm. They did not know until he came that a minister had so much energy, so much organizing ability, so much business acumen and such varied pulpit talents.

Uncle Sam, who belongs at all the churches and plays no favorites, has set apart a triangle at Ellicott and Everett streets as another Lutheran park, and St. Paul's and the Lutherans generally are going to erect on that triangle a statue of Gen. John Peter Gabriel Muhlenberg, the fighting parson of the American Revolution. He has his statue in Statuary Hall, and his monuments all over Pennsylvania, and now he is going to do like old Martin Luther is doing at Luther Place, stand guard over a church he loved much and gave his life for.

With all this church building going on in Washington in all denominations, and the calling of new pastors and so forth, and the shifting of priests at the various Catholic churches, the devil is going to be kept mighty busy for the next few years catching up with his work in the Nation's Capital.—D. R. B.

CUBANS WILL SEEK COFFEE LEADERSHIP

Crops Would Cure Sugar Ill Is Feeling Entertained on the Island.

SEE 55,000,000 POUNDS

Havana, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Cuba, greatest coffee-producing nation in the world until it gave up dominance of this market for intensification of sugar production, is on its way back to leadership with an anticipated coffee crop exceeding 55,000,000 pounds for 1930.

This represents a great increase over last year's production and will be more than two-thirds of the total Cuban consumption, according to Eugenio Molinet, secretary of agriculture, who believes Cuba will not find it necessary to import any coffee next year.

Sugar Slump Foreseen.

That Cuba must have foreseen the present slump in the sugar industry as far back as 1925 is evident in a report by the department of agriculture which shows Cuba to have been quietly developing the coffee industry for five years with a view to having something to fall back upon should its sugar foundation be imperiled.

As the drop in cane output is felt throughout the republic, there is evidence of a continued boom in the coffee industry. Comparison of statistics for the last two years strikingly illustrates this development.

Coffee Crop Increased.

In 1928 Cuba produced 43,094,400 pounds of coffee; in 1929, 44,828,100 pounds. The total number of Cuban coffee plantations in 1928 was 3,574; last year there were 4,067. There were 22,465 more acres of Cuban land planted last year than in 1928. In its anticipated 1930 crop Cuba will have succeeded in increasing its annual production by more than 21,000,000 pounds over 1926.

The development of the coffee industry reflects the quiet but determined effort Cuba has been putting forth in its crop diversification plan. In the eastern provinces, notably Oriente and Camaguey Provinces, huge tracts of land, once under sugar cane, are being converted into coffee plantations. Pinar del Rio Province, at the western extreme of the island, also is growing coffee extensively.

SENTENCE SERMONS

By the REV. HAROLD E. BEATTY

(Pastor of Georgetown Lutheran Church.)

THERE IS MORE THAN ONE WAY TO STEAL.

A STREET RUNNER one night called up to the second-story window of a little hotel: "Mr. Lednas! Mr. Lednas! Your house is on fire!" Mr. Lednas came to the balcony window and said, "Is that so?" He then turned back to his room and went to bed.

The next day it was observed that the tongues of flame had nicely cut off only the roof of the one-story vacant house, and in its place, a month or so later, there stood a nicely painted two-story house, into which Mr. Lednas moved his family.

"And the insurance company made no kicks"—but Sinai did. "Thou shalt not steal!"

But, good readers, you and I, and all of us, are thieves, more or less—in time, in talent, as well as in things I have stolen from myself, my neighbor and my friends.

"Will a man rob God?" asked the Prophet Malachi. Yes, he will! O wretched man that I am! What shall I do? Can there be any hope?

"The blood of Jesus Christ, God's Son, cleanseth us from all sin."

MEXICO TO SOLVE TWO CHIEF PUZZLES

Questions Relating to Labor and Agarian Problem Are Poignant.

PEONS PROMISED LAND

Mexico City, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Competent observers here forsee an early solution, or at least amelioration, of the two principal problems in Mexico's path to permanent stability.

These problems are the agrarian and the labor questions, both born of the revolutionary movement which followed the downfall of the Porfirio Diaz regime almost two decades ago.

There already is a noticeable tendency by the country's leaders to give guarantees to large as well as small landowners that their land titles will remain intact, a tendency which is expected to grow into a well-defined policy and bring with it a confidence permitting renewal of agriculture investments.

The government can not, however, go back on its pledge to give land to the peons, a disturbing factor in the title question. The way to settle the problem, as a man prominent in the country's guiding forces recently said, is to set a time limit for the distribution, after which the agrarian pledges would be considered fulfilled. This solution, observers say, is likely to be adopted.

Another of the government's pledges obliged it to give industrial workers certain concessions. These concession grew out of hand, until the then president, Emilio Portes Gil, a dyed-in-the-wool laborite, admitted that the pendulum had swung from a domination by capital to a domination by labor and that it would have to settle back to a resting point.

AUSTIN R. COOPER DIES.

Employe of Post Succumbs to Hurts Received in Accident.

Funeral services for Austin R. Cooper, 25 years old, who died Thursday from injuries received when he fell from a truck Saturday, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Austin M. Cooper, 816 Twenty-first street northwest. Burial will be at Congressional Cemetery.

At the time of the accident, Cooper was delivering papers for The Post. He fell from the running board of the truck, suffering a fracture of the skull and other injuries. He has been connected with the delivery service of The Post for the past three years. He was a native of Washington, and served in the Marine Corps for two years during the World War. He is survived by his parents, two brothers and two sisters.

He was born in Lima, Peru, and lived there for many years. He had often lived in Washington, but came here for the last time last fall from Porto Rico. He made his home here with his uncle, S. H. Kauffman, president of the Evening Star Newspaper Co. His nearest survivors are the widow, a son and daughter, of Porto Rico, and four sisters, three living in Peru and one in Wales.

CRUSADERS KNOWN AS M'NAMARA UNIT

Catholic Students Organize Mission Movement in Washington.

OTHER ITEMS OF NOTE

"The McNamara Unit" is the name given to a new unit of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade, which has just been organized in this city. It gets its name from the Right Rev. John M. McNamara, Auxiliary Bishop of Baltimore and pastor of St. Gabriel's Church, who has taken a great interest in the crusade movement.

Following the plan of the crusade to extend the scope of mission activity among Catholic graduate students, this unit follows the program adopted by the Vaeth unit.

Mr. Cook is acting chairman, Miss Spates and Mr. Downey, acting secretary.

The first regular meeting will be held September 19.

Cardinal Marchetti.

Catholics in Washington and throughout the Nation, for that matter, have taken a keen interest in the elevation of Dr. Francisco Marchetti Selvaginai to the Sacred College. Cardinal Marchetti served for a number of years at the Apostolic Delegation in Washington, and was very popular in official, social and clerical circles.

Women's Retreat.

Catholic women who made the recent retreat at Holy Cross Academy received quite a spiritual blessing, according to reports from some of them.

Strict silence and earnestness of purpose characterized the followers of the meditation given by the Rev. Charles G. Herzog, S. J., professor of theology at Woodstock College.

The hospitality of Mother Diego and the kindness of the members of the community who were designated to take care of the retreatants, will long be remembered by them.

Mrs. Margaret A. Talty, president of Nazareth Social Service Center, was in charge of registrations.

Luncheon to Bishop Mooney.

A luncheon important in Catholic circles was given last Tuesday at Foreign Mission Seminary to Archbishop Edward A. Mooney, apostolic delegate to India. His host was the Rev. Michael A. Mathis, C. S. C., superior of the seminary.

Among those present were Bishop McNamara, the Rev. Dr. Heinrich Schumacher, professor of sacred Scripture at the Catholic University; the Rev. Louis C. Vaeth, director of the propogation of the faith of the archdiocese of Baltimore; the Rev. John B. Delaunay, C. S. C., editor of the Bengalese, and the Rev. Christopher Brooks, C. S. C., a missionary from India. The last named was attacked by a tiger in India and narrowly escaped with his life.

After the luncheon his excellency visited the Foreign Mission Convent of the Holy Cross and the offices of the Bengalese.

To Mother Seton's Tomb.

One of the great Catholic women of this general section was Mother Seton, long head of "The White House" at St. Joseph's College, Emmitsburg, Md. In honor of her memory the Ladies of Charity of St. Peter's Parish, Washington, made a pious pilgrimage to her tomb the other day.

They visited, among other places, the room in which Mother Seton died. It had been unchanged since the time of her death. There, in that home, one sees the altar with the vases which were upon it the day Mother Seton died, Mother Seton's spinning wheel, her chair, her kerosene lamp. There, as she lay upon her deathbed, Mother Seton could see and hear the priest as he said mass.

There was no water near the home when Mother Seton lived in the "White House." The home did not have a roof sufficient to keep out the snow and rain. On occasions of especially severe snowstorms cartloads of snow were taken from this home, in which the members of the original band of the Daughters of Charity, and their immediate successors lived. These sisters had to walk a quarter of a mile to the river to do their laundry work and to get drinking water.

Prof. Richardson, who is widely known throughout the churches as a theologian and preacher, also will preach at the 11 a. m. celebration of the Holy Communion and sermon in the Bethlehem Chapel.

Mass Meetings Set By Christian Endeavor

The Christian Endeavor Union, at its last board meeting, made plans for three great mass meetings to be held in November of this year and in February and June of 1931. These will mass together all the Endeavor societies of the District of Columbia and a strong program will be carried out.

Arrangements were also made for two annual picnics to be held at the reservoir on Sixteenth street on Saturday afternoon, September 20. Vesper services will be conducted by William Bond, of Wallace Memorial Presbyterian Church

ROCKVILLE TO SEE CHURCH DEDICATION

New Presbyterian Edifice to Be Scene of Solemn Ceremonies.

PIPE ORGAN IS FEATURE

The beautiful new edifice of the Rockville Presbyterian congregation, located on West Montgomery avenue, will be dedicated with impressive ceremonies and addresses appropriate to the occasion tomorrow morning. The pastor, Rev. Henry K. Pasma, will preach on the subject, "Beautifying the House of God." The Junior Choir, directed by Mrs. E. W. Rogers, will sing the anthem, "Lift up Your Heads, O Ye Gates," by Nolte, with Miss Lucy N. Smith presiding at the pipe organ.

At the 8 o'clock evening worship, which is a union service of the Protestant churches in Rockville, Mr. Percy N. Cox, of McLain, Va., will render pipe organ selections, and Mrs. Harry A. Dawson will sing a solo.

The dedication sermon is to be preached by the Rev. W. J. McMillan, pastor of the Maryland Avenue Presbyterian Church, of Baltimore, Md. The congregation is to join in the reading of the impressive Dedication Form.

Old Property Sold.

Just a year ago the Presbyterians disposed of their church property located on Court street to the commissioners for Montgomery County, to make place for the new court house now in course of construction. The church then purchased a choice lot on West Montgomery avenue, upon which has been erected a modern house of worship.

The main building, drawn up in twelfth century Gothic style, is constructed of Montgomery County variegated stone, at a cost of $25,000, exclusive of lot, furniture and pipe organ.

A pipe organ has been installed by a Washington firm at a cost of $3,000. Financing of the organ project was made possible through the generous donations toward the organ fund by the many friends of the Presbyterian Church and former members, and from the present members of the congregation.

Congregation Free of Debt.

A happy feature of the completed undertaking is that at the time of dedication the Presbyterian congregation will be without any debt.

The building committee is composed of Harold C. Smith (chairman), Judge Robert B. Peter, J. Garnett Ward, John G. McDonald, Mrs. Edwin Smith, Mrs. Theodore S. Mason and the Rev. Henry K. Pasma, ex officio.

The lot committee includes Joseph Reading Mrs. Almus Speare, W. S. Joliffe, and the pipe organ committee, the Rev. Henry K. Pasma (chairman), Miss Lucy N. Smith, Mrs. Harold C. Smith and W. S. Joliffe.

Aber, patron; Gavel Chapter, No. 29, Miss Nora M. Heim, matron; Donald G. Kessler, patron.

Stone Laying Set At Church School

The Rev. F. F. Holsopple to Conduct Exercises Tomorrow.

The Rev. F. F. Holsopple, pastor of the Washington City Church of the Brethren, Fourth street and North Carolina avenue southeast, is enlarging his plant, and tomorrow will lay the cornerstone of the new church school building. The Rev. Minor Miller, of Bridgewater, Va., will preach the sermon.

The new structure adjoins the church in the rear. It will be three floors in height, constructed of cement, hollow tile and brick. On the first floor are the social rooms, auditorium and kitchen. Above that is the primary department, and on the third floor are the senior and intermediate departments.

In keeping with this improvement the main auditorium of the church is being enlarged and redecorated. Watch these Dunkers grow.

Blind Minister to Talk At Service in Capital

Dr. Robert A. Blair, the celebrated blind minister of Parnassus, Pa., will fill the pulpit of the Church of the Covenant tomorrow.

This is the last supply for the pastor, Dr. McCartney, who returns next week from his vacation and will occupy his pulpit immediately thereafter.

PASTORS ARE READY TO RESUME PULPITS

DR. RASMUSSEN IS HOME

Sunday will find most of the holidaying pastors of Washington back in their pulpits, refreshed from the outings, in mind, body and spirit, and ready for the work of the Lord in the tasks. He has set them to do. Most of them have not been idle during their absence from their parishes, for a preacher who has had a real baptism of the Holy Ghost is never so happy as when telling others about it. Preaching and saving people from their sins is his business, and he does that whenever he gets a chance, if he is on his job.

The Rev. Carl C. Rasmussen, the able young pastor of the Luther Place Memorial Church, will break the bread of life for his people after an absence of a month or more. He has been no idler or fisherman while away from his post, for he has been busy teaching in the Lutheran Training School at Biglerville, Pa. Those who have tried both are uncertain which is a heavier drain on one's faculties and strength—teaching or preaching.

The Rev. John E. Briggs, the popular pastor of the Fifth Baptist Church, comes home refreshed from a revival in Richmond, Va., and begins his twenty-second year of this pastorate with a new resolve. First, he has given his church a new name. Now it is, "The Church That Cares." Next, he writes the Church Page, he desires "to dedicate himself anew to the service of those in need of sympathy and help, regardless of race or creed." Third, he wants his church "to be true to its Divine mission."

Rev. H. L. Collier Returns.

The Rev. Harry L. Collier, pastor of the Full Gospel Tabernacle, has been at the seashore for a full month, imbibing some of the great truths which Jesus taught by the waters of the Sea of Galilee, and comes back prepared to give them to his people in a series of special sermons. He will not neglect his regular healing service on Tuesday night.

The Rev. Edward O. Clark, pastor of Chevy Chase Baptist Church, is home from the wilds of Maryland, full of enthusiasm and prepared to extend the activities of his church.

The Rev. Henry W. Snyder, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, has been spending his vacation at two assemblies, the Lutheran Chautauqua at Lakeside on Lake Erie, and at the United Lutheran Assembly, Susquehanna University, Selinsgrove, Pa. He is on the faculty of both assemblies, and his time was spent in hard work. Now that the summer is over, he is back with his people and will preach for them at the Metropolitan Theater as usual.

Right at the present moment Dr. Snyder is passing through the deep waters. His wife has been seriously ill and his son is in the hospital in Baltimore, where he has just undergone a very serious surgical operation.

The Rev. B. H. Melton, pastor of the Ninth Street Christian Church, who is also president of the Protestant Ministers Union of Washington, has completed his rest term and will be on his job tomorrow morning. He brought a guest preacher with him, who will preach at the evening hour.

The Rev. Thomas W. Cooke, rector of Ascension Church, has returned from his summer trip, which included some time spent at "Shulfield on the Potomac" and Atlantic City, and will occupy his pulpit tomorrow. His church school opens September 21.

Man From India Plans To Speak at Mission

Mr. Seth J. Edwards, of India, will be the speaker tomorrow night at services in the Central Union Mission Chapel, 613 C street northwest. Special music will be furnished by Miss Helen Carter, violinist.

Monday night, and each suceeding night next week at 8 o'clock, services will be conducted at the mission by delegations from the following churches: Monday night, the Christian Endeavor of the Columbia Heights Christian Church; Tuesday night, the B. Y. P. U., of Bethany Baptist Church; Wednesday night, Hoge class of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church, South; Thursday night, Luther League of St. Mark's Lutheran Church; Friday night, the Men's Bible Class of Eastern Presbyterian Church, and Saturday night, Vaughn Class of Calvary Baptist Church.

Dr. Cooper to Preach On Congress of Church

There is probably no layman in Washington, except Dr. William Knowles Cooper, who can preach as well as a preacher. He has had a lot of experience in this work, and as Y. M. C. A. secretary he had an audience all the time to which he could talk on a wide variety of subjects. They always heard him gladly.

Dr. Cooper was a lay delegate to the recent international congress of the Congregational Church, of which he is a member. In England he heard many grave and important subjects discussed—in the forum, at round tables and over the beefsteak pies. Much of this good talk he will translate in a sermon tomorrow morning in the pulpit of the First Congregational Church.

Some Striking Sermon Subjects

Jane Claire INTERPRETS the MODE

Two smart new evening wraps for winter, one a coat with the newest in sleeves, which are huge, the other a new cape-coat. (Dahray Designs.)

Paris, Sept. 5.

WHILE it is still quite all right to wear your little short jacket to informal dinners and cafe dancing, more formal evening wear requires the long coat or cape that is of undeniable elegance. The newest note in these coats is their sleeves, which have become large and wrappy again, and this looseness and amount of material at the top really proves very graceful when the rest of the garment, quite to the knees, is straight and slim. And below the knees only a gradual flare, sufficient for walking or wrapping.

Capes are also new for this winter, evening capes which really are new, since they have no resemblance whatsoever to the shapeless capes of old. They are especially constructed to be easy to handle, and this construction comes in the cut of them, you understand. For instance, the cape-like wrap illustrated at the right, which depends upon two yokes for this comfort in carrying, one which comes to just over the shoulders, and the other which comes to just below the hips. From the shoulders to the waist bias material is employed to give the necessary fulness for elbow comfort. Note that while this bias material is gathered onto both yokes, the skirt part of this garment is not gathered onto the straight hip yoke, but cut in a way to give it plenty of flare below without necessitating gathers.

Nor do these two evening wraps I designed and illustrated for you require as much material as you would think, to look at them! Of course, it's all in the way you cut your material, but then that's what I'm for—to tell you how to cut materials to the best advantage, no?

If you are interested in either the coat with its new sleeves, which are really very easy to make, or the cape, which is really very easy to wear, and likewise surprisingly easy to make, Dare will be glad to tell you how to make either one. Just send her a stamped, self-addressed envelope in care of The Washington Post and be sure to cut out today's illustration and keep it. You will get an illustrated leaflet in a few days, which tells you how to make both these wraps. One takes only three yards of material, the other four and a half yards—long and everything.

Want to know what to do to give your old fur coat a very new touch? Why, a leather belt! That is, of course, if it is of a sports type, the coat, I mean. And then, if this leather belt has a wooden or silver modernistic buckle, it will be smarter yet—and your old fur coat will look as though it had just made a trip back from a grand couturier in Paris.

That new Russian fur called gallack (Monsieur Heim says flippantly it's a new kind of rat the Bolshevists caught) is very good looking. It's soft and pliable and very shiny, and particularly beautiful in gray and black. Ask to see it before you buy a new fur coat this winter.

And be sure to read the Dare weekly fashion letter that appears weekly in The Sunday Washington Post. It keeps you abreast of the styles.

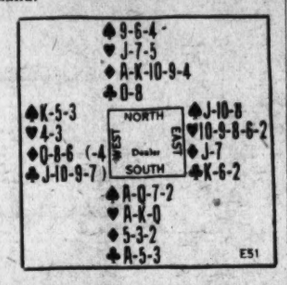
WORK ON BRIDGE

(This article is intended for the Auction and Contract Bridge beginner.)

One of the most important plays for a beginner to understand is the giving up of a trick on the first or second round of a suit in order to assure running the suit. Combined with it we sometimes have the "hold-up," as illustrated by the following hand.



South would be the Declarer playing an Auction Bridge contract of one No Trump or a Contract Bridge contract of three No Trumps, and in the play West would lead Jack of Clubs — the top of a head sequence in his longest suit. The Jack would be covered by the Queen second hand and the King third hand. Declarer can see that his hope of game depends upon his establishing his long Diamonds in dummy and that to do so one Diamond trick must be lost. If West has led from five Clubs game can not be made if West be permitted to obtain the lead after he has his Clubs established; if he has led from four Clubs it will not matter, but it is always well to play upon the basis that the lead has been from the more harmful combination.

Declarer therefore should hold up his Ace of Clubs until the third round of the suit when he will note that the lead has been from a five-card suit and consequently that it is essential to keep West out of the lead in the future; but he must lose one Diamond and the way to play it is to lead a small Diamond from the closed hand and play the Nine from dummy if West plays nothing higher. If West plays a higher Diamond, it will be essential for dummy to cover and to put closed hand in with a Heart to lead another Diamond.

With the Diamond passed, as it would be, and won by the Jack in the East hand, East would lead a Spade up to dummy's weakness. South should not risk the finesse; he can not tell whether it would succeed or not, but he should not take a chance of losing the game merely for an extra trick. With a normal division of Diamonds he has assured one Club, four Diamonds, three Hearts and one Spade, and he should be satisfied with that.

What Today Means to You

VIRGO.

IF September 6 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m.

From an astrological standpoint there will be no important barriers on this date to either happiness or success. There will be a contented feeling within your heart and a recess from worries. Delightful social times.

The child born on this September 6 will have a strong but harmonious nature, patience and faithfulness. It will have an industrious and practical mind and will be a doer and not a dreamer. It will have a flair for finances.

You have a blithesome, genial nature, but not a profound or analytical mind. You are as a rule content with superficial knowledge and are willing to accept things in good faith, without further bother on your part. You can go into ecstacies over a field of wild flowers without desiring to know their botanical classification, or you can lose your soul to music, caring not for its classical value or the name of the composer. You are guided by your material senses and the sympathies of your heart more than by logical or intellectual reasoning.

You have no self-consciousness, and in your sublime outlook you see the world as a show staged at your expense, which sometimes pleases you and other times bores you. You will never take the trouble to place yourself above that of an amateur in any of life's games or more serious bouts. You are not envious, jealous, nor overly ambitious. Creature comforts and congenial companionship mean as much to you as anything, and if these are supplied you are content. You are fond of light reading and popular amusements. You are a democratic mixer and a ready talker, and somehow give an impression of greater intellectuality than you possess. You never dig for knowledge, but you pick up a great deal through your bird-like powers of observation. Many acquaintances, a pleasant home life and a probably happy marriage are indicated.

Successful People Born September 6.

2—James H. Gillis—Astronomer.
3—William H. H. Miller—Attorney General under Harrison.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE give some pointers on the filling of a coldframe. I want to know something about the manure to be used. The frame is finished as far as construction goes, but I don't know how to go on with it from this point. MRS. HOWE T.

In making up the coldframe, while the formation is much like that of a hotbed, there is no manure used—in fact, no heating material of any kind. It is usually a little deeper than the usual hotbed, as it is intended to put in it plants that will endure a certain amount of cold. The protection is supplied by means of glass sash. A coldframe should be, when possible, located on the south side of a building. Shelter from the winds is always advisable.

My nasturtiums are not doing very well this season. I am growing them in a new garden where the soil is very rich. I seem to have blossoms in large numbers, but their colors are not up to standard. I keep them well watered, they are in the sun and have not been molested by insects. Why do you think the colors have been so muddy? FLORENCE T. K.

The dwarf varieties bloom more freely and the flowers are of better color in rather poor soils. You evidently have used too much fertilizer.

If I sow some bignonette seed at this time, will I have blooming plants for a small conservatory in winter?

HELEN B. P.

Yes.

Do lupines need any winter protection? If so, what material is best for this purpose? EMILY M. H.

Lupines must not be covered in winter, but rather should be exposed to natural conditions.

I have three Chinese primroses which have become attacked by thrip. What shall I do?

MRS. WILLIAM S.

Spray with nicotine solution or dip the plants in a solution of lemon oil and water. Use a tablespoonful of the oil to a pail of water.

My phloxes have become very much crowded this season. I shall move and divide them this fall, but I have been wondering if it would have improved them any if I had thinned out the shoots in the early part of the season. Some one recently told me that crowded plants are prone to mildew. Do you agree with this?

ALICE P. T.

Yes; it would have been better to have thinned them out considerably when they were about five inches high. Plants that are crowded are likely to become mildewed. In order to avoid this trouble it is well to make thinning phlox plants a matter of annual routine.

Must I transplant hardy asters every two years? THOMAS T. R.

Clumps of asters should really be lifted and reduced each year. Only about six strong shoots should be allowed to remain to each root. These remaining shoots should be outside shoots. Before resetting these plants it would be better to incorporate some well-decayed manure with the soil.

Please tell me whether you feel the kudza vine will cover a small arbor in one season. Also, is this vine hardy? I want it to plant on an arbor at my summer cottage in Ontario. SUSAN B. T.

Yes, this vine is a rapid grower and will cover many feet of space in one season. It is perfectly hardy, so should do well in Canada.

How to Keep Well

CAUSES FOR ECZEMA.

OUR correspondents sometimes write for a list of substances capable of causing dermatitis, sometimes called eczema. In replying, we commonly give about a dozen of the more typical and suggestive, leaving it to the reader to construct groups around those given and to find an offender somewhere in a group. It sometimes happens that the correspondent comes back with a letter asking for a longer list of potential causes.

A specialist in skin diseases, recognizing the wide range of causes of occupational eczema and dermatitis incident to the exposures of life, adopted the plan of making a classified list of causes. Whenever he encounters a case with a cause not on his list, or reads of one, he adds it. He published the list as it stood after several years' growth in the Archives of Dermatology and Syphilis for April, 1930. At the time of publication his list included the following, by groups:

15 hair tonics not hair dyes.
4 skin bleaches.
7 face creams.
5 face powders.
3 rouges.
5 miscellaneous toilet articles for the lips, skin and hair.
14 miscellaneous substances.
113 plants grown in the United States.
40 tropical plants.

This physician has collected nearly 450 substances capable of giving a person occupational skin diseases, or housewife's eczema, or a skin disorder by some other name. Since some of the causes named are really groups with subheads, we may say there are 500 individual items. Furthermore, as the result of experience and reading he adds to the list from time to time.

A person who starts out to run down the cause of a given case of eczema has a good many to choose from. His search may be long and arduous. However, he is used to that. If he is an old sufferer he has spent years reading advertisements of eczema remedies, running to drug stores buying cures and trying them. He is not as liable to chase the cause half as laboriously and patiently as he has done in chasing these vaunted cures.

He might begin by starting his own list. If he is a physician he might buy a copy of this journal and start with Dr. Weber's list.

PLAN ADVOCATED BY SOME.

J. J. M. writes:

1. Should a bowel evacuation occur for every meal that is eaten? In the case of the normal individual this would be three eliminations a day.

2. Is the bran sold on the market too coarse and rough, and will it cause intestinal cancer if its use is persisted in?

3. How may I best obtain an implantation of the acidophilus bacillus?

REPLY.

1. This plan is advocated by Dr. J. H. Kellogg, of Battle Creek.

2. No.

3. By drinking acidophilus milk, or eating acidophilus blocks, and at the same time eating freely of lactose and sparingly of meats and eggs.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

PARKER HOUSE ROLLS.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

1 cup milk.
1 cake (½ ounce) yeast.
1½ tablespoons butter or other fat.
1½ teaspoons salt.
1 tablespoon sugar.
About 3¼ cups sifted hard-wheat flour, or 4 cups sifted soft-wheat flour.

The straight-dough method is perhaps the most convenient when only rolls are made. Allow the dough to rise the first time in the same way as for loaf bread. The dough may be permitted to rise again before it is shaped into biscuits, or the second rising of the dough may be omitted. Roll the dough out thin and cut with a biscuit cutter, or cut off small pieces from the dough, roll them into balls, and flatten with the palms of the hands. Brush the top part lightly with butter, crease through the center with the handle of a table knife, fold over, and press down the top. Brush the top with butter if a soft crust is preferred. When they have again doubled in bulk bake them quickly in a hot oven (425°f.) for ten or fifteen minutes.

TODAY . . . FOR WOMEN

Paris adds a bit of Turquoise to Black Satin

Black satin is wonderfully smart. Paris says so! It fits in with the richness of the mode. Its slim, flowing lines are vastly becoming to women.

Then add a touch of turquoise and its smartness is complete. The cowl neckline and jeweled buckle of the dress sketched carry out the turquoise note...the intricate cut of the skirt gives the slot, Grecian lines. Women's sizes, $49.50.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Disillusioned.

DEAR Miss McDonald: I hope that writing this letter may bring me help—and decision. I am afraid to marry the man I love. It has gone on from year to year. Yet when I think of the future I seem to think of him and of marriage, and no man means to me what he means. We have gone through everything, quarrels and misunderstandings, and now we are temporarily not seeing each other. But we will, and, oh, how I hope you or some one who can advise will help me decide!

It seems that I should marry him—or no one. Because several years ago—in fact, when very young—we made one very grave mistake. No one knows of it, not even my people. It was just one rash act, but I can not forget it. Yet I am afraid to marry him. Again I feel different when I stop to think that if any one ever knew I would be friendless. When I talk that way he always says he is ready to marry me if I say the word. Should I marry and get this terrible burden off my mind? Or do I really want to marry him? This is what I really want to know. He says he will never marry any one but me, but I do not know what to do. Our mistake seemed to turn me against him. PAULINE.

You are a bit unjust in blaming the man for what was as much your fault as his. Stop being morbid and unfair and marry. Life is a series of experiences. Learn as early as possible what to remember and what to forget. You can poison the future for yourself and this man you love if you persist in dwelling upon an incident that should be forever wiped from the slate.

As to your doubts, every intelligent mortal has doubts about marriage. Who wouldn't? A percentage of one divorce for every three marriages would make any one do a little doubting. But who on earth would want to live without some element of chance? Who would want to be sure of what tomorrow would bring forth? Any girl who has known and cared for one man several years may be reasonably satisfied that their chances are as good as the other "two out of three." So make a start. The world belongs to the brave!

This column is for you! Your experience, opinions and suggestions will help those who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

"America—We are Here!" That was the message of the humming Hispano motor as the "Question Mark" gracefully landed on Curtiss field at twilight Tuesday. ☆ Coste and Bellonte did it—the feat which no one had ever before accomplished—a non-stop flight from Paris to New York! Undaunted courage, a thorough knowledge of navigation, unsurpassed skill in airmanship—these—plus an unfaltering motor—were the qualities which brought them through. ☆ It was natural that Coste—noted for his extreme care in preparing for all of his many air ventures—should use Stanavo Aviation Gasoline for this flight as he did in setting the world's distance record (Paris to Manchuria). ☆ This successful flight of the "Question Mark" is but another practical demonstration of the reliance which experts place on "Standard" products. People who know motors and recognize real performance whether it be in an airplane engine or in an automobile rely on "Standard." Every "Standard" product is made according to rigid specifications. There is a "Standard" product for your every automotive need.

FOREIGN WAR ORDER URGES DRY REPEAL

Demand That Prohibition Be Abolished Passes by 266 Majority.

WOLMAN IS NAMED HEAD

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Paul C. Wolman, of Baltimore, was elected national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Kansas City chosen for the 1931 convention today when the thirty-first national encampment here came to a close with a demand for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and its enforcement laws

Mr. Wolman was advanced to national commander from the post of senior vice commander, to which Harold D. de Coe of Sacramento, Calif., was advanced from the junior commandership. Rear Admiral Robert E. Coontz, retired, of Washington, was elected junior national commander in his absence. Mr. Wolman succeeds Hezekiah N. Duff, Lansing, Mich.

Dr. Guy Seyward, of Fremont, Nebr., was reelected surgeon general; George A. Henderson, of Newark, N. J., judge advocate general; R. B. Handy, of Kansas City, quartermaster general, and Rabbi Emmanuel J. Jack, of Yonkers, N. Y., national chaplain.

Pandemonium on Floor.

The demand for dry law repeal was adopted by the convention by a vote of 873 to 637, after it had set aside an adverse report by the resolutions committee. When the adverse report was returned, the convention floor became a scene of pandemonium.

Several parliamentary moves were made in an effort to have the resolution tabled, the committee report reversed or the question changed to place "retention" of the prohibition law before the States in a referendum. All were defeated and the direct question of repeal placed. It carried by a majority of more than 200.

Other resolutions adopted by the convention today were those petitioning the President and Congress to have the "Star-Spangled Bannér" made the national anthem, protesting the admission to citizenship of any person unwilling to take the oath of allegiance as at present outlined, requesting national authorities to deport all habitual criminals and undesirable aliens and urging the immigration officials examine more stringently aliens seeking entry into the United States.

Favor Philippine Independence.

The veterans also went on record as favoring the granting of independence to the Philippines through passage of a bill pending in Congress to that effect.

Earlier in the day Mrs. Ada E. Harrison, of New York, was chosen national president of the ladies' auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. She succeeds Mrs. Bessie Hanken, of Revere, Mass., who has headed the organization for the last two years. Other officers of the auxiliary elected today were Mrs. Dora Raffensperger, of Harrisburg, Pa., senior vice president; Mrs. Edna Arnold, Tulsa, Okla., junior vice president; Mrs. Amber B. Christie, Seattle, chaplain; Mrs. Grace Davis, Nutley, N. J., treasurer; Miss Helen Shanahan, of Waterbury, Conn., judge advocate.

All of those made ill by a mixture of food and exhaustion on the excursion to Annapolis yesterday were reported practically recovered. The convention of the two organizations will come to a close tonight with the installation of the newly elected officers.

Rescue Ship's Master Commended in Letter

(Associated Press.)

Lieut. Comdr. William Robert Meyer, U. S. N. R., master of the Matson liner Ventura, which on August 18 removed 317 passengers from the S. S. Tahiti an hour before it sank in the South Pacific Ocean, yesterday was awarded a letter of commendation by the Secretary of the Navy.

"The department notes with pleasure," the citation said, "the highly efficient and seamanlike manner in which this rescue was accomplished and takes great pleasure in commending you for your prompt decision in the premises, your efficient carrying out of your chosen mission and the successful issue of this humane undertaking, which is in keeping with the highest traditions of the Navy and of the American Merchant Marine."

U. S. Plans Prosecution In Mine Bombing Case

(Associated Press.)

Plans for Federal prosecution in the case of the airplane bombing of a mine at Providence, Ky., recently, were discussed at a conference here yesterday between Department of Justice officials and District Attorney Sparks, of Kentucky.

Solicitor General Thatcher, who is acting Attorney General, declined to disclose the results of the conference or the plans for prosecution. It was conceded, however, at the Department of Justice that questions of Federal law were involved and it was assumed the Government intended to prosecute. Mr. Sparks had a general conference with Solicitor General Thatcher and other Department of Justice lawyers.

President Undecided About Week-End Trip

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover abandoned his plans to leave late yesterday for his Virginia fishing camp and is still undecided whether he will go to the camp this week-end at all.

The Chief Executive had planned to make his customary week-end trip, leaving after his conference with newspapermen late yesterday. He still is considering going to the camp sometime today and remaining until Sunday or early Monday.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

WHILE waiting for the Motion Picture Theater Owners of Washington and the Musicians' Union, Local No. 161, to make up their minds, the thought has occured to me that in case of the abolition of the theater orchestras, these recorded recesionals that some of the houses have been using from time to time will hardly do as a substitute.

Half of the fun—well, a good deal of it, anyway—in listening to an orchestra of living artists lies in observing the technique, if any, of the individual instrumentalist at work plying his trade. You are apt to find yourself watching to see whether the strings all bow together, or each man for himself; whether the brasses blow their trumpets, trombones, sousaphones, and the like, or tongue them as they should without distention of the cheeks; whether the double bass viols are being sawed or picked, and whether the tympanist seems likely to get his kettle drums tuned in time, or not.

Much of this innocent pastime can still be pursued without the living orchestra, provided pictures of the recorded band are thrown upon the screen synchronously with its music. But pictures have not been shown on the screen of late under these circumstances. The recorded music used for preludes, interludes and postludes comes through the proscenium drapes from no visible source. As I say, that will hardly do as a substitute for an orchestra.

Invisible music of this character is not theater. It is merely phonograph.

Mr. Hubbard Keavy, chief of our West Coast ear-to-the-ground department, rises to celebrate a craft that falls something short of the recognition to which it is entitled. Stage carpentering as it has been developed in the studios, it seems, is quite a calling.

The motion-picture carpenter must be something of an internationalist.

Monday he comes to work to build a Chinese pagoda for Warner Oland.

Tuesday will bring the need of a Mexican dance hall for Raquel Torres, Lupe Velez, Armida or some other hot tamale from below the Rio Grande.

Wednesday he constructs a Rhenish castle for Lawrence Tibbett; Tuesday, the Casino at Monte Carlo for William Powell; Friday, a village of Navajo hogans, and on Saturday a penthouse apartment in the modernistic manner for a millionaire who next week will be playing a chauffeur. Hollywood's studio carpenters are an aristocratic guild, a closely organized clan of artisans who know more of far lands and their architecture than the average Cook's tourist.

The speed with which a trained crew of movie carpenters can work is one of the marvels of the colony. For example, a crew of less than 50 men in 48 hours duplicated the interior of the gambling Casino at Monte Carlo. Not only was this huge setting built in that time. It also was decorated and completely furnished with carpets, drapes, roulette tables, chandeliers and hardware fixtures on doors, windows and walls.

There are other speed records equally startling.

An entire courtroom was built for one picture in 12 hours. A rush call for the interior of a submarine was put in at noon. Carpenters got the job because it was to be made of wood. It was completed and ready at 6 o'clock.

An Alaskan village of three blocks of stores and homes was constructed for "The Spoilers" in less than a week from the time the first hammer blow fell.

A month of planning preceded construction of the complicated set in "The Isle of Lost Ships." The carpenters built it in a week.

By the way, that blue haze and all that noise out Gallatin street way last night was caused by this department's smashing its thumb while trying to drive a nail straight!

The powers that be in the movie industry do many inexplicable things, one of the most recent being the termination of the run of "Manslaughter" at the end of its first week at the RKO-Keith Theater. Mr. Sheild confides that the Claudette Colbert-Fredric March vehicle has rung up lookout business throughout the week—much more, as a matter of fact, than many other pictures that have been retained for a second week of profitable patronage. However, New York said take 'er off, and off she is!

You also may have noticed that those movie moguls are very thoroughly sold, indeed, on the word "flesh" as a titular aid to obese box-office grosses. There already have been "The Way of All Flesh" and "Flesh and the Devil" and now comes along "Call of the Flesh," first known and widely publicized as "The Singer of Seville."

The Fox Film Corporation, not that it matters, has announced the acquisition of a substantial interest in Hoyt's Theaters of Australia. The circuit consists of more than 100 of the finest theaters in the antipodes.

The dropping from its rolls of Alice White, who as a screen star is still a swell script clerk; elevation of Loretta Young to stardom, the signing of Dorothy Peterson and Joe Donahue to long-term contracts and the decision to star Douglas Fairbanks, jr., in four pictures next season was about all that went on around First National this week—except, maybe, the making of a few fillums.

The premature announcement that the Rialto was going to reopen today with "Little Accident" seems to have been one!

Lieut. Gov. T. B. Butler Accused in Shortage

Spartanburg, S. C., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—A dispatch to the Journal from Gaffney this afternoon said a warrant had been sworn out charging Lieut. Gov. T. B. Butler with breach of trust with intent to defraud in connection with his reported shortage of more than $29,000 as receiver of the defunct Bank of Blacksburg.

The dispatch added that a constable was on his way to Union to serve the warrant, which was sworn out by J. S. Cooksey, of Blacksburg, a creditor of the bank.

PANZRAM HANGED, SCORNFUL TO END

TOUGHEST IN DISTRICT

Leavenworth, Kans., Sept. 5 (A.P.). Carl Panzram, self-declared slayer of 22 persons, was hanged at the Federal prison early today for the murder of W. G. Warnke, civilian laundry foreman at the penitentiary where Panzram was serving a sentence for burglary imposed by a District of Columbia court.

President Hoover last night denied a plea for clemency.

The slayer was pronounced dead at 6:19 a. m.

Jeering the crowd as he walked to the gallows, Panzram noted two chaplains present. He asked the warden that they be removed. The chaplains left in accordance with his will.

First Hanging in Years.

Panzram, serving his sixth prison sentence, struck down the laundry foreman with a heavy iron bar June 19, 1929, in a frenzy of rage.

The hanging was the first legal execution in Kansas since 1870, with the exception of that of a Federal prisoner at Wichita in 1888. The Kansas law provides capital punishment only for treason. Panzram, however, was prosecuted under Federal statutes, his crime having been committed on Federal property.

Before his trial for murder at Topeka, Kans., the prisoner wrote a letter to the trial judge demanding justice, which he described as "that I be found guilty of murder in the first degree and sentenced to die."

Sentenced in 1928.

Panzram was pronounced sane by a sanity board before which he boasted of committing 22 murders. He identified one of his victims as George Henry McMahon, of Salem, Mass.

Carl Panzram had the name of being the toughest character who was ever lodged in the District Jail. A confirmed misanthrope, he threatened to kill guards, fellow-prisoners and even Col. William L. Peak, warden of the jail.

He was sentenced to 25 years in the District Jail on a burglary charge in the District Supreme Court on November 12, 1928, but he proved so uncontrollable that he was transferred to the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth a few months later.

Had Promised Vengeance.

During his trial he startled the courtroom by declaring that he would like to murder every one in the room. Several times he vented his bitter hatred of mankind on the officers and he threatened Walter Shea, Assistant United States Attorney, who was prosecuting him.

After he had been sentenced, he told Chief Justice Walter T. McCoy that he would serve his sentence and "then come back" to reap vengeance.

Col. Peak, who accompanied Panzram to Leavenworth, said yesterday that he had never known a more sullen or bitter man. He recalled that during his trial at Topeka, Kans., for the murder of the prison laundryman, he boasted that he had committed 22 murders.

FOUR ARE INDICTED IN BOND ISSUE FRAUD

USED VARIOUS NAMES

Philadelphia, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Four men were indicted by the Federal grand jury here today on charges of conspiracy to defraud corporations and others by pretending to float bond issues for them.

The indicted are Melville S. Lewis and Frank Brady, of Philadelphia; J. Clyde Heath, Lancaster, Pa., and Edward R. Foote, New York.

Lewis is awaiting trial in the Philadelphia County courts for alleged fraud in obtaining an advance fee to float a bond issue, and is also under $10,000 bail awaiting a decision by the higher courts of Washington, D. C., on his conviction with Edward Fell Lukens, of Philadelphia, and several others for another alleged advance fee operation.

Worked Under Several Names.

Postal Inspector A. T. Hawksworth said that Lewis and Brady operated under various company names and offered to examine the properties of mining companies that needed refinancing and underwrite bond issues. Before they undertook any work, he said, they insisted upon advance fees and then did nothing to carry out their promises.

Heath's part in the alleged scheme, the indictment set forth, was that of "title examiner," while Foote, who operated in New York, was designated as the "appraiser" of properties.

Among the corporations the indicted men are alleged to have defrauded, or attempted to defraud, are the Alloy Steel Corporation, Inc.; Central Missouri Barytes Co., Great Western Development Co.; Crater Mines, Inc.; Hamma Hamma Power & Paper Co., Inc.; Livingston Gold Mining Co., Inc.; Western Noranda Mines, Magna Gold Mines Co., National Tin Corporation, Neal Mining Co., Pacific Gold Placer Corporation, Universal Royalties Corporation, Vanderbilt Mines, Inc., and E. H. Wood, Inc.

Melville S. Lewis, who, while in Washington, went under the name of Frederick E. Lewis, was indicted here several years ago, tried and convicted last year, and last February was sentenced to serve two years and pay a fine of $5,000 in a fraud similar to that for which he was indicted in Philadelphia.

He appealed from the District Supreme Court, however, and was released under $10,000 bond. He then went to Philadelphia.

Lewis' scheme in Washington was to represent himself as acting for a large and old company whose business it was to float large bond issues. From 40 to 50 contractors attempted to do business with him and his associates, but it was claimed that flaws were found in each case after applicants had paid advance fees, and so no bond issues were floated. The fees, it was charged, were retained.

The hall, which has accommodations for 500 children, was constructed at a total cost of $48,231.28, or $91.28 more than the contract figure of $48,140 at which the job was allotted to Arthur L. Smith & Co., the contractors.

BICENTENNIAL RAIL RATES TO BE CUT

Trunk-Line Agents Will Be Consulted on Plan for Reduction.

COMMITTEE IS CHOSEN

Reduced railroad rates during the year 1932, when the George Washington Bicentennial is to be held, is to be the objective of a committee of railroad men formed yesterday.

The committee will confer with trunk line representatives this month with the view of agreeing on the special rates. The plan of the railroad committee, at present, is to establish excursion rates to Washington from every part of the country throughout the year of the bicentennial. Rates, even lower than these, are contemplated for the days when special observances are to be held in the National Capital.

Frederick V. Fisher, executive officer of the District of Columbia Commission of the George Washington Bicentennial, predicts that with these special low rates travel to Washington will be within the reach of almost everyone. W. H. Taylor, passenger traffic manager of the Southern Railroad, has been named chairman of the railroad committee and C. A. Kline, assistant passenger manager of the same railroad, vice chairman.

The other members are: A. B. Smith, of the Pennsylvania Railroad; D. A. Moorman, of the Baltimore & Ohio; James Edmonds, of the Chesapeake & Ohio; R. O. Rudd, Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Co.; J. P. Mordecai, Richmond, Frederick & Potomac Railroad; W. Hugh Donny, Seaboard, and George J. James, Atlantic Coast Line.

David Belasco, Roxy and two well-known lecturers and writers, Herbert Adams Gibbons and Tom Skeyhill are among celebrities who have written the District of Columbia George Washington Bicentennial Commission offering their services for part of the year-long celebration to take place in 1932.

Hotel Employes Robbed.

Thieves yesterday entered two lockers in the employes' clothes room in the Capitol Park Hotel and stole clothes valued at $30. The owners of the clothing are Leo M. Sullivan, of 767 Gresham place northwest, and William A. Patterson, 229 C street northeast.

Boy Snatches Woman's Purse.

A colored boy about 8 years old yesterday snatched a pocketbook containing $9 from Mrs. Minnie Devine, of 49 Bryant street northwest, while she was walking through an alley in the rear of her home.

Impassable Roads Halt Medical Aid

Victims in Santo Domingo Will Be Succored by Ship and Plane.

(Copyright, 1930, and all rights reserved by the Associated Press.)

Port au Prince, Haiti, Sept. 5 (A P.) (7:30 p. m.).—Two truck loads of medical supplies dispatched from here to hurricane-stricken Santo Domingo today failed to reach the city owing to impassable roads. Seven airplanes are leaving tomorrow with supplies.

Twenty thousand dollars worth of supplies will be sent by ship tomorrow night, contributed by Haitian subscription.

Red Cross Will Accept Hurricane Donations

The District of Columbia Chapter of the American Red Cross has issued no general appeal for contributions to aid the Santo Domingo sufferers, it was asserted yesterday, as the emergency appropriation of the national organization has taken care of the need.

Volunteer subscriptions will be gratefully received, however, at the District headquarters, 1730 E street northwest, officials said.

Autoist Says He Gave Lift To Judge Crater Week Ago

Man's Story About Jurist, Who Disappeared August 6, Investigated; Aid's Reports of Cashing of Checks Vary; Wife Reported Near Collapse.

New York, Sept. 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Out of more conflicting evidence today about the disappearance of Supreme Court Justice Joseph F. Crater four weeks ago with $5,000 in his pocket, came a report from a motorist that he picked up the jurist a week ago in a dishevelled condition and dropped him at New Rochelle, N. Y.

L. G. Boegker, a Port Chester sales man, identified a newspaper photographer of Justice Crater as the man who rode with him. He said his passenger identified himself as "Judge Crater" as the two rode along the Boston Post road. Police tonight were investigating Boegker's report.

In the meantime Mrs. Crater, wife of the missing jurist, was reported near a breakdown in Maine, preparing to be taken to a sanitarium. Her cottage at Belgrade Lake was closely guarded. Her physicians said she did not know where her husband was.

Another outstanding development of the day in the Crater mystery was that despite information given to police that only $500 in cash was given to Justice Crater August 6, the day he disappeared without a trace, two checks bearing his signature and totaling $5,150, were cashed about noon, on that day.

One check was on the Empire Trust Co. for $2,150. The other was on the Chase National Bank for $3,000. Each was a counter check, cashed at the bank on which it was drawn. Each was made out to "Cash," and each bore the indorsement, "Joseph L Mara," with no period after the middle initial.

Joseph L. Mara, confidential attendant of Justice Crater, called at police headquarters this morning for an unannounced appointment made the preceding night at the request of a detective. After the conference Commissioner Mulrooney announced that Mara had told him he had cashed only two checks for the jurist August 6, for $500 and $2,150. In the afternoon Mara told reporters in Justice Crater's chambers that he had cashed only one check for $500.

Allegany Drought Committee Named

Estimated Loss in County From Dry Weather Is $308,850.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 5.—The Allegany County drought committee organized last night by electing David F. Kuykendall chairman, Albert O'Neal vice chairman, and Ralph F. McHenry, county agent, secretary.

A report on the crop injury in Allegany County was submitted to Thomas B. Symons, director of Maryland Extension Service, College Park. The hay crop loss is placed at $57,500; pastures, $56,250; corn, $67,500; apples $23,000; potatoes, $45,500; milk, $54,000. Total estimated loss is set at $308,850. Regarding railroad rate concessions the report says affidavits are being required of those seking the emergency half rates, but the committee is of the opinion that emergency demands for rough feeds, hay in particular, will not be made to a large extent until the first of the year and continuing until the spring pasture season.

The committee believes the establishment of an agricultural credit corporation is needed, as "the money is already here if the man and the security are right."

NATS POUND YANKEE PITCHERS FOR 14-5 VICTORY

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Rumors of football are beginning to arrive in the mails, including the bright annual announcement that the New York University band of 165 more or less musical young men will spend a week at the football training camp at Farmingdale, learning to horn sweet winds and spell out the names of their opponents of the season in marching maneuvers.

This department of football is not as highly developed along the Eastern seaboard as it is in some other sections of the country and the problem of covering band practice comes under the head of new business, the football experts contending that band practice isn't football and the musical experts insisting that, whatever it may be, music is distinctly what it isn't.

Isolation of Band Fine For Neighbors.

A compromise opinion holds that band practice is a terrible thing of which the least said the better, and the officials of New York University probably are to be thanked for sending their band to a section where the nearest neighbors are far away to hold their exercises.

At its best, or loudest, New York University's band can hardly be compared to the spectacular lion tamers with the spaulets, the flowing capes and the high knee action who go down the fields blatting alma mater songs at the University of Illinois and certain other schools, between the halves of big games. However, it is undoubtedly the loudest and gaudiest school band in this region and therefore Eastern champion. The boys generally point for their contest against Carnegie Tech as the big engagement of the season, but Carnegie Tech uses the Scotch bagpipe, an instrument commonly held to be outlawed by the rules of civilized band competition, and it is almost impossible for an orthodox band to win.

Other College Bands Go in For Modesty.

Yale, Harvard and Princeton go in for modesty in band apparel and numbers and, while it is practically impossible for any band to efface itself, still the boys have a tradition that band should be heard and not seen. They march in demure outfits, consisting of white pants, jerseys and small white caps, and seem to be of the opinion that shakos and patent leather boots are the trappings of the mentally immature and therefore collegiate and thus unsophisticated and consequently to be avoided. Notwithstanding which reserve, it was Yale that gave Rudy Vallee to the world and vice versa, proving what?

There are 42 athletes of various degrees of certainty or promise consuming official rations and occupying official quarters at the New York University camp at Farmingdale, 24 of whom saw action as members of the regular squad last year. As an additional power on his team, if he cares to employ him, Chick Meehan, the coach, has an absent member who is capable of great influence, the late Al Lassman, once captain of New York U., who was permanently crippled playing the game and lost his life on July 7 trying to save three boys from drowning at a camp in Maine. Lassman's death was first misrepresented as a suicide and the subsequent disclosure that he gave his life to save three boys established him as a hero of the school who will be remembered long after any mere football performer.

Lassman May Deserve an Assist In Posthumous Score.

Some coaches might deem it permissible to go in for deliberate dramatics between halves, using the spirit of Al Lassman for emotional effect on the athletes, but I don't believe that is Mr. Meehan's style of appeal and, anyway, Lassman was too close to him for that. But football players are not all blase and Al Lassman may deserve an assist in many a posthumous touchdown this year and in seasons to come.

At the United States Military Academy, Maj. Ralph Sasse, the cavalryman who assisted Biff Jones until the big artillery officer quit coaching to get on with his career, has taken command of the football team, intending to imitate the Glenn Warner style of play which became so popular on this coast when Warner's team came on from Stamford two years ago and gave the Army a spectacular

U. S. POLOISTS OPEN TITLE SERIES TODAY WITH BRITISH STARS

40,000 Expected to Witness International Clash.

Hopping Wins No. 2 Post; Americans Favorites.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—For the tenth time since 1886, Great Britain and the United States will send their foremost riders galloping into action tomorrow for the International Cup, emblem of polo supremacy and one of the world's classic trophies of sport.

AMERICA.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Gerald Balding, No. 1; Lewis L. Lacey, No. 2; Capt. C. T. I. (Pat) Roark, No. 3; Lieut. Humphrey Guinness, back.

Team Selections No Surprise.

These selections came as no surprise, but confirmed the belief that the 22-year-old Hopping, youngest member of the American team, had won the No. 2 position in a hot four-cornered contest, involving the two Texans, Cecil Smith and Rube Williams, as well as another Californian, Elmer Boeseke, jr. There had been no speculation about the remaining three positions, which mark the inclusion of a Californian, Pedley, for the first time.

Capt. Hitchcock, ace of the defending forces, nevertheless, specifically reserved the right to make any changes he considers necessary after the first match. Except as a result of the injury or incapacitation of a player, no substitutions can be made once a team takes the field.

There had been even less doubt about the British line-up, which represents the extent of the available Anglo talent with the exception of Capt. Charles H. Treymayne, the nonflying leader and only remaining spare. The challengers were beset by a series of ailments, forcing three No. 1 candidates out of action and compelling a rearrangement of the team made effective only last Sunday.

This switch, regarded as strongly improving the chances of the British, involved sending the famous Anglo-Argentine veteran, Lewis Lacey, to No. 2 and installing Lieut. Guinness at back in Lacey's place. Lacey has never played No. 2 before in international competition.

40,000 Gallery Expected At Match.

Unless rainy weather interferes, a capacity crowd of 40,000 spectators is expected to watch the opening match of the three-game "world's series" of polo. Play is scheduled at 3 p. m. (Eastern standard time) and the teams will play eight periods of 7½ minutes each, unless a deadlock requires extra chukkers.

The Americans, supreme in the galloping sport since the war, have been installed as odds-on favorites. The defending team is much younger, averaging about 27 years of age to 33 for the challengers, and has the advantage of being led by the one and only Tommy Hitchcock, sole ten-goal player in the world. Hitchcock will have a battle of wits with one of his foremost rivals, Lacey, riding against him, as well as a tussle of tactics with the British field leader, "Pat" Roark.

The British, swamped in their last two challenges for the historic cup in 1924 and 1927, unquestionably present the strongest line-up since they last were victorious in the series of 1914.

British prospects have been bolstered by the effective line-up shift as well as an indication that the Americans, after a severe and high speed series of test matches, had gone somewhat stale in thier hitting. For

Cubs Bow to Pirates On Paul Waner's Homer

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—A home run by Paul Waner in ninth gave Pittsburgh its second victory of the series over Chicago today, 8-7. The Pirates fought an uphill battle all the way against the league leaders.

Three-run Buccaneer rallies in both the seventh and eight innings brought a deadlock and sent Pat Malone to the showers in the latter frame. Waner's circuit swat came with one out in the ninth to decide the issue.

Gabby Hartnett, Cub catcher, hit his thirty-second home run of the season with Cuyler on base in the fourth.

Ervine Brame went the full route for Pittsburgh, while Osborn finished the game for the visitors. Each club made ten hits.

Giants Drop to Third, Bowing to Braves, 6-4

Boston, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The New York Giants suffered their third straight defeat at the hands of the Braves today by a 6-to-4 score and dropped into third place a half game behind the idle St. Louis Cardinals.

Three of the four Giant runs were scored after an error by Rollings in the first inning on what should have been the third out. Bruce Cunningham pitched effectively, and the only earned run off his delivery was made by Mel Ott, who doubled and scored on Jackson's single in the sixth. Cunningham allowed seven hits.

The Braves, led by Berger and Spohrer, made 13 hits for a total of 20 bases off Hubbell and Heving. Hubbell was the victim of most of the hitting, while Heving allowed only one single in his two innings on the mound.

Tilden Choice To Win U.S. Singles

Borotra Is Second Favorite as Play Opens Today.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 5 (A. P.).—One of the most open tournaments in the 49-year history of national championship tennis in America will get under way tomorrow at the West Side Tennis Club with 31 first-round matches scheduled.

Many of the 95 contestants for United States supremacy in singles have drawn byes and will not play until the second round on Monday, but both Bill Tilden and his old rival from France, Jean Borotra, are to perform on the opening day.

Tilden opens against C. Lincoln Halberstadt, of New York, and Borotra against Berkeley Bell, a formidable young opponent from Austin, Tex. The Borotra-Bell match has been advanced to 2:30 p. m. (Eastern standard time), with the Tilden affair an hour later.

The eve of the tournament found Tilden a favorite to capture the title for the eighth time. Borotra rated as second favorite, but if either of the veterans falter a flock of young players, including Wilmer Allison, George Lott, Sidney Wood, Cliff Sutter, John Doeg, Gregory Mangin, John Van Ryn, Ellsworth Vines and Frank Shields, stood ready to leap into the breach and give America a new king of the courts.

Jablonowski's Hurling Subdues Chisox, 6-1

Chicago, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Pete Jablonowski turned in another excellent pitching performance for Cleveland today and the Indians scored a 6-to-1 victory over the White Sox to make it two straight in the series and seven straight in Comiskey Park.

Jablonowski permitted four hits, one more than Willis Hudlin gave yesterday, and, but for an error by Montague in the third, would have had a shutout. Dick Porter, with a double and three singles, and Johnny Hodapp, who cracked out three doubles, led the Indian attack.

MACKS DOWN RED SOX BY 5 TO 1

Earnshaw Wins 21st; Simmons Gets 34th Circuit Clout.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The world's champion Athletics won their third game in a row from the Boston Red Sox here today by a score of 5 to 1. George Earnshaw, who had the better of Jack Russell in a game that was close until the eighth inning, received credit for his twenty-first victory of the season.

The Mackmen held an edge of only 2 to 1 until the eighth inning, when they scored three runs. Al Simmons clubbed in two of these counters by hitting his thirty-fourth homer of the season with one on base.

Carnera and Uzcudun Sign for 10-Round Fight

New York, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera, Italian giant, and Paulino Uzcudun, of Spain, signed articles today for a ten-round bout somewhere in Europe the last week in October or the first week in November, Jeff Dickson, European promoter, announced here. The bout probably will take place either in France or Spain, Dickson said.

Schwartz Trains Hard For Bout With Barry

That "Baker Boy" Billy Schwartz, pride of Alexandria, is taking his coming fight with "Reds" Barry seriously is indicated by Schwartz's preparations for the match Schwartz and Barry are to mix it for eight rounds or less in the feature event of the Front Line Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, ring show Monday night at Fort Washington, Md.

Schwartz has been putting in many hours of training. He arises each morning at 6 o'clock for his road work and a few minutes of work in his own gym in Alexandria. Then at night he comes over to this city and continues his daily routine in Frankie Mann's Gym.

Manager Patsy Donovan sends Barry through a stiff workout every night in the Mohawk Gym. He has been sparring with Sailor McKenna, Harry "Kid" Groves and Frankie DeAngelo.

Roesch Wins D. C. Title By Stroke

Washington Club Ace Shoots 300 for 72 Holes.

Shorey Loses Following Gallant Try for Honors.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

FRANK K. ROESCH, of the Washington Golf and Country Club, yesterday won the District amateur golf championship play on the course of the Burning Tree Club, 72 holes, medal score. His score for the four rounds of eighteen holes each was 148—152—300. John C. Shorey, Bannockburn, finished second with 150—151—301, while William P. DiEste, Argyle, was third with 154—149—303.

The result was in doubt until the last of the 72 holes had been played and Shorey would have tied the winner if his putt for a birdie 3 on the seventy-second green had dropped in the cup.

When the third round started yesterday morning Roesch, who had started with an indifferent 78 in the first round, followed by a phenomenal 70 in the afternoon for a total of 148, led the field by two strokes as against Shorey's 150, but lost this lead as the result of the forenoon play, the medal strokes of both players totalling 224.

Roesch Draws Away in Afternoon.

DiEste was in third place with 227, while Dr. L. S. O'Tell, Indian Spring, and Everett Eynon, Columbia, were still in the running with 230 each. Gradually, however, Roesch drew away from Shorey in the afternoon and when the first nine had been played was three strokes ahead of his opponent. With an eagle 3 on the par 5 tenth hole, 465 yards, he had a lead of 5 strokes with only eight holes to play.

When the thirteenth hole had been played Roesch was still five strokes in the lead, and then began to falter. He lost one stroke on the fourteenth when his tee shot encountered a trap; lost another stroke on the fifteenth, when he chipped short of the pin, and still another stroke on the seventeenth, when his second shot was badly hooked. On the eighteenth tee he had, therefore, still two strokes to his credit, and when he played his second into a trap guarding the green the outcome was still uncertain. Then he holed out in 5, to Shorey's par 4, and won by the narrow margin of one stroke. "I always lose out by one stroke or one hole," said Shorey, regretfully, as he walked into the clubhouse. "If you look at my record you will find I am right."

Poor First Round of 82 Hurts DiEste.

Except for an unfortunate first round of 82, DiEste would have finished as the winner for his three successive rounds thereafter of 72—73—76 brought him into third place. Eynon, who was fourth when the procession started yesterday morning, ended in the same position, although when he started the last nine in 5—2—4—3—2 he was at that time even with Shorey's card. Then came his Waterloo on the fifteenth hole, for his second was in a trap, out of which he did not emerge with his third. With his fourth across the green, reaching the green in 5 and holing out in two putts for a 7, his chances went glimmering. The cards of the three leaders:

Freeman Defeats Taylor, Gains Welterweight Title

LEAGUE PARK, Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Tommy Freeman, Cleveland, won the world's welterweight championship tonight when Referee Patsy Haley awarded him the decision at the end of fifteen rounds of fighting over Young Jack Thompson, of Oakland, Calif., defending title holder.

Haley did not deliberate a second after the last punch went flying through the air. Thompson appeared to be stunned when Haley grabbed Freeman's arm, raising it in victory. The crowd gasped in the excitement of the situation and then cut loose with tremendous cheering, greeting the new title holder.

WASHINGTON TAKES 11 TO 0 LEAD BEHIND CROWDER'S HURLING

Ruth's 45th Homer in 9th Futile; Macks Also Score.

By G. W. MONITOR DALEY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The only thing that saved today's slaughter of three Yankee pitchers by the wild-swinging Washington Nats at the Ruppert Stadium from being the most painful game of the year for a house full of fans was the forty-fifth homer of Master Babe Ruth's blasting year. This came, almost three weeks behind schedule, in the ninth inning with a man on base. Otherwise, the afternoon was just a parade of Nationals across the plate and a parade of Yankee pitchers from the bull pen. The score was 14 to 5.

The Babe made his forty-fourth homer on August 17. He's never had such a slump before. But that one in the ninth was a real smack, far up into the center-field bleachers, well past the spot marked "429 feet." Also, he drove a long one in the sixth, but a few feet foul. And in the eighth he whaled a triple to left center, and scored the first Yankee run a moment later. There's no chance of beating the 1927 record of 60 homers now, but it looks as though the Babe will give Hack Wilson a battle for the honor of finishing first in the big leagues, after all.

Crowder Blanks Yanks For 7 Innings.

"General" Alvin Crowder spiked the Yankee guns pretty well. He allowed them no runs for seven innings and then, with an eleven-run lead, he eased up a bit. After Ruth hit his three-bagger in the eighth Lazzeri, Dickey and Chapman contributed hits and scored two more runs. And Lyn Lary was on base when Ruth hit in the ninth.

The ineptness of the three Yank pitchers, Pipgras, Ken Holloway and Lou McEvoy, both in pitching and fielding, was the primary cause of the downfall of the house of Shawkey. The Nats collected fifteen hits and had five passes thrust on them, and the New Yorkers chipped in a mass of five errors.

The Hon. Pipgras pitched five innings, three good, two not so good. He allowed one hit, a three-bagger by the demon Joe Judge, in the first three innings. Joseph didn't score, being run down by Lazzeri. In the fourth you couldn't pick out anything really bad about Pip's playing. He was just the victim of several breaks.

After catching Rice's long drive, Lary failed in a dive for Manush's bounder and it went as a hit. Cronin dropped a Texas Leaguer in short center and Judge hit a liner down the left foul line which hit the chalk mark and went for a double. On the next play Lazzeri threw away Harris' scratch hit and Judge crossed the plate.

GALLANT FOX AFTER MONEY-WINNING MARK TODAY

$313,000 Zev Record in Danger

Victory in Realization Would Give "Fox" $316,000.

Questionnaire Expected to Extend Woodward's Star.

By GEORGE DALEY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—William Woodward's Gallant Fox, monarch of the 3-year-olds, will go after Zev's money-winning record, with a royal chance to climb to the peak at Belmont Park tomorrow afternoon. He also is out to beat Questionnaire, Spinach and Yarn in the historic Lawrence Realization over 1 mile and 5 furlongs.

If he wins the rich prize of close to $30,000, he will accomplish the double purpose. Harry F. Sinclair's Zev now stands alone in the diamond circle with $313,000 in round figures. Victory will send The Fox, of Belair, over the top to $316,000, making him the biggest winner in the history of the sport, not only of this country, but of England as well.

Questionnaire Seeking Eighth in Row.

Questionnaire, the pride of James Butler's stable, ran third to Gallant Fox and Whichone in the Belmont Stakes last June, but since then has won seven straight races including the Empire City Derby. The son of Sing is a rugged fellow and a fast one. Some question of his ability to stay the long journey against a horse like The Fox, but he has a host of followers who will back him with confidence to do what Jim Dandy did in the Travers at Saratoga Springs. His last public trial a few days ago testified to his readiness.

William Ziegler's Spinach also is ready. He ran a striking race in his last start and sems to be a fall horse. Yarn appears to be outclassed.

The Fox, with only one defeat in eight starts this season, and that through the sticky mud of the Travers, must take up 126 pounds, giving away three to Questionnaire and seven to Spinach. Recalling the way he won the Wood, Preakness, Kentucky Derby, Belmont, Dwyer, Arlington Classic and Saratoga Cup he should have no trouble in doing so and so adding to his fame and prestige.

Race Advanced to Avoid Polo Conflict.

The Realization has been advanced from the fifth to the third race and will be run about 3:30 o'clock, so that many who want to see him in action can get to Meadowbrook by 4 o'clock for the first international polo match.

The ancient Champagne Stakes and the Brook Cup Steeplechase also will be decided tomorrow afternoon. H. P. Whitney's Equipose will start in the former under 132 pounds as a public trial for the Futurity.

—Lincoln Fields Selections—
By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE outstanding feature of the Lincoln Fields race meeting is the $25,000 added Lincoln Handicap, to be decided today as the fifth race, at a mile and a quarter, for 3-year-olds and upward. The Reichert entry of BROWN WISDOM and MY DANDY seems to have this rich stake at its mercy. Each of the entry has up 119 pounds, top-weight. They were given their final workouts Thursday.

The track was heavy and holding. MY DANDY galloped a mile and a furlong in 2:01 4-5, while BROWN WISDOM went seven furlongs in 1:30. With the track fast today, these seasoned campaigners between them should gather in the prize money. Both geldings are in the best condition, as their recent racing shows.

The greatest obstacle in their way probably is Rodgers Caldwell's extremely fast mare, LADY BROADCAST, which set a track mark at Arlington, and has won many races this year in the West. She has 112 pounds up. The other contender seems to be TYPHOON, which is lightly weighted, and has worked fast for this stake. MISS BESS also is very fast. VICTORIAN has a chance, but the distance is a trifle far for him and he has a heavy weight. PIGEON HOLE and IRON SIDES are others that may figure in the race.

FIRST RACE—The first race is for 2-year-olds, claiming. FLAGG PORTER is rated best. TOWN LIMIT'S last race was a good one, and this one may give trouble. INHERITOR is a show probability. FLAGG PORTER is a seasoned 2-year-old, with plenty of early speed, and should be the favorite.

SECOND RACE—MAIDEN'S TRYST, a consistent winner, is selected in the second, a 7-furlong race. She will have DR. PARRISH to conquer, and should with her early speed be hard to catch. BLOT can not be overlooked in a race of this kind. He is Whitney bred and has shown enough to have a chance.

THIRD RACE—The third is a purse for 2-year-olds, and MIS CHEYENNE has the call. They go 7 furlongs in this, quite a distance for juveniles. She is bred for a route. THE DUKE is rated next best, over BROAD A. GUNFIRE, on races in the East, may be a surprise horse, but prefers mud.

FOURTH RACE—The Oakland Purse has a small field. BEST MAN, scratched Thursday, seems to be looking for a favorable spot. This is not the best in the world, for there will be some stiff opposition in ESKIMO and ELLICE, but the price will be all the best. ESKIMO can do best in the mud. ELLICE is a fast Camden filly that has beaten some good ones also, but BEST MAN can win on his best race.

SIXTH RACE — THEORIST JANE looks best in the sixth, a mile and a furlong for platers. She will have FORT DEARBORN as the most dangerous rival. PAT FIELD has an outside chance and should be in the money.

SEVENTH RACE—FINLAND may be best in the seventh race. HY SCHNEIDER is at his best and needed his last. MY SCOOP should be glad to get third. There is no outstanding horse in this race.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MISS COMET, $13.78, $7.58, $6.24; SCALA, $11.04, $7.26; FLYING PLUM, $6.66.

MISS COMET displayed speed from the start, raced on the outside while disposing of FLYING PLUM and weakened after drawing clear in the stretch, but lasted. SCALA, well up and strongly ridden, was forced to lose some ground through the stretch, but closed resolutely and was getting to the winner. FLYING PLUM worked her way to the front on the inside, saved ground while alternating in the early pacemaking and faltered in the final drive. ENGLEWOOD, never a good effort, MODERN MAIDEN began fast, was in close quarters for five-sixteenths and, dropping back, never recovered. BUBBLE WEIGHT had no mishaps. SCOTLAND WISE appeared to suffer mild early interference and quit after a half mile.

SECOND RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:51. Off at 2:55. Winner, Miss B. Watson's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUPREME SWEET, $17.54, $6.50, $2.56; CHEERS, $3.82, $2.32; PRINCETON, $2.18.

SUPREME SWEET, favored by the fast pace, and lucky to save ground throughout, responded strongly after reaching the stretch and, working her way to the front on the inside won drawing out. CHEERS had keen speed from the start, was much used racing and, after reaching the stretch fairly well in front, when beaten back then approaching the turn lost ground thereafter, moved up courageously when nearing the final eighth, but weakened thereafter. BLACK DIAMOND closed resolutely. FLAG BEARER made the pace in hand, but swerved and faltered badly when put to a drive.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:27. Off at 4:32½. Winner, R. Gellat's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—EASTER, $14.22, $7.06, $4.80; MARY ELOISE, $14.86, $8.54; DACITE, $7.46.

EASTER began slowly, but was lucky to save ground while improving his position, headed BLIND LOVE quickly while slipping through on the inside on the stretch and, continuing well, outstayed MARY ELOISE. The latter began very slowly, was far back for a half mile, came to the outside for room when moving up and finished fast. DACITE was never far back and held on fairly well. BLIND LOVE gained the lead under energetic riding, saved ground to the stretch and swerved when tiring. SCHLAP WOHL had no mishaps. GOLDEN COLNA lost much ground. PARTICIPATE stopped badly after showing speed for five-eighths.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:25. Off at 3:27½. Winner, E. B. McLean's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PORTOCODINE, $16.84, $5.88, $4.10; ALBAZANO, $4.38, $4.04; GRASSLAND, $11.24.

PORTCODINE began fast, saved ground while rated along under strong reserve during the middle stretch, at mile and, drawing away into a safe command, held the lead safe. ALBAZANO had speed from the start, was forced to race wide and weakened in the drive, but stalled off GRASSLANDS. Latter, forced back shortly after the start, saved ground and closed gamely. SEGURO was under hard pressure throughout. MAID OF HONOR quit. CAMP PRINCE began after showing speed for a half mile and swerved in the stretch. TIGER PRINCE broke well, but dropped far out of it and, going sluggishly, was always outrun.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,400; allowances. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:56. Off at 3:57. Winner, R. W. Selden's ch. f. CALVARY NINE ELIMINATES TILE SETTERS IN SERIES

Church Team Wins Easily By 13 to 2

Davidson Master of Foes; Calvary and Pullmans Play.

THE Calvary Church baseball team, champion of the Georgetown Church League, earned the right to meet the Pullman Co. Nine, pennant-winner of the Terminal Evening League, for the championship of the weekday baseball series on Monday, when it eliminated the Tile Setters, Industrial League champs, by a 13-2 victory yesterday on the Terminal Y diamond.

Calvary and Pullman will meet on Monday. Should Pullman win, the series would be all over, but a victory for the Churchmen would leave them in a tie with the Railroaders and necessitate a play-off. Pullman is undefeated in three games, while Calvary has lost one.

Calvary Swatsmiths On Warpath.

The inability of the Tile Setters to produce a pitcher capable of stopping the Church team's sluggers, and the stellar pitching of Ray Davidson, of Calvary, is the complete story of the game. In the first place, Frank Di Nenna, scheduled to hurl, was late in arriving at the field and the industrial League winners were forced to send Joe Freschi, who only the day before had pitched nine innings, to the mound. The Church players climbed all over Freschi for six hits and five runs in the first inning and, by the time Di Nenna reached the scene of action, were in no mood to be stopped.

DiNenna assumed the hurling burden in the second inning, and a burden it turned out to be. Not content with five runs, the ultimate winners continued their barrage on the first relief hurler and clubbed him for seven runs in less than two innings. At this stage, Mel Anderson took up the pitching duties and did remarkably well for the duration of the game, but one run being made off of his delivery in six innings.

Davidson Proves Puzzle To Tile Setters.

All the while, Ray Davidson, Calvary ace, was mowing down the enemy with precision, pitching hitless ball for the first four innings and granting five bingles in all—all singles. Davidson issued but two walks during the contest and struck out 10 Tile Setters. The little hurler also starred in a hitting role, smashing out a triple and single which drove home two runs.

Bowman, his battery mate, was the leader of the winners' attack with three hits, but Buscher, Taylor, Kilroy and Darnes all collected two hits. Ball and Demarest alone went hitless.

Departure of College Players Jolts Calvary

Alton "Bucky" Buscher, local sandlot star and former Western High School ace in basketball and baseball, left last night for Fordham University to start training with the football squad today. Buscher's departure will strike a hard blow to the championship aspirations of the Calvary team which is a contender for the week day title.

Judy Forrest and W. Demarest, also members of the Calvary team, will not finish the season with the churchmen as they left yesterday for Williams and Mary College. Lewis Berger left the team a few days ago to train with the Maryland University squad.

Soccerists, "Broke," Back From Europe

Havre, France, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Sore of mind and body and financially embarrassed, the Fall River, Mass., professional soccer team, which has been touring central Europe for the last few weeks sailed for home, third class, today on the Calgaric.

Manager Quinn said the team had been treated "shamefully" from both financial and sporting points of view by the Hungarians. Quinn asserted that suit for damages was contemplated against the Perendvaros Football Club of Budapest, which arranged the trip and guaranteed Fall River 50 per cent of the receipts. The money, he said, was not forthcoming.

Only for the fact that the players had funds of their own they would have been left stranded in central Europe, Quinn said.

U. S. Senior Golfers Trounce Canadians

Toronto, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The team representing the United States Seniors Golf Association retained possession of the Duke of Devonshire trophy here today by defeating the Canadian Team by 24½ points to 10½, the largest margin of victory since the United States won at Apawamis in 1924 by 16 points. It was the eleventh victory of the Americans in the thirteen years the match has been played.

Five of the United States players scored the full three points in their matches—Dr. G. P. Gregg, F. W. Newton, F. A. Hoyt, Hugh Halsall and R. Griscom. F. H. Ecker was only half a point under the possible.

Three of the fifteen individual matches were played without adding to the total points of either team. J. Dix Fraser and Findlay Douglas, G. L. Robinson and D. M. Tallman, J. M. Lyle and Dr. C. Wallace all being on even terms with their opponents at the end of the first nine holes and also at the end of their respective matches. Fraser was two down to Douglas with as many to play, but threes on both the seventeenth and eighteenth enabled him to halve the match.

George S. Lyon, A. A. Beatty and C. E. Beatty and C. E. Thomson were the most successful of the fifteen Canadians, the latter picking up two points without losing any and Mr. Lyons and Dr. Beatty each winning two and losing one.

Marlowe Sisters Win Girls' Tennis Doubles

Philadelphia, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Helen and Mercedes Marlowe, of Los Angeles, Calif., today won the 1930 girls' doubles championship by defeating another Los Angeles pair, Dorothy Workman and Carolin Babcock, 7—5, 6—2, in the final round at the Philadelphia Cricket Club.

The Marlowes succeeded Sarah and Marine Palfrey, of Brookline, Mass., the sisters who held the title in 1928 and 1929. Among the spectators at the girls' doubles final was Betty Nuthall, new American women's tennis champion, and successor of Helen Wills Moody. Miss Nuthall was expected to compete in an exhibition match later.

U. S. Six-Meter Yachts Easily Defeat British

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—America's six-meter yachting team has scored an overwhelming victory over Great Britain in the second competition for the British-American Cup.

The American team won its fourth successive race of the best-four-out-of-seven series in Long Island Sound yesterday. The Americans scored 20¼ points to 15 for the Britons and an aggregate of 89 to 55 for the entire series.

Great Britain won the inaugural series for the cup on the Clyde in 1928.

Farms of Cards-Tigers Meet for Three-I Title

Chicago, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Danville, Ill., a St. Louis Cardinal farm, and Evansville, Ind., operated by the Detroit American League club, will meet next week for the Three-Eye League championship.

Danville won the first half of the split season, while Evansville yesterday clinched the second half title by winning a double-header from Springfield.

LANDIS CALLS CLUBS TO DISCUSS SERIES

CHICAGO, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—First rumblings of the 1930 world series were officially heard today. Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis began making arrangements for the big baseball classic by inviting six clubs in both major leagues for preseries conference in his office next Monday.

Every club with a chance for the two pennants was invited to the conference, which will decide dates, shares and other details. Chicago, New York, St. Louis and Brooklyn were invited in the National League, and Philadelphia and Washington were invited from the American League.

American League City Stages Opener.

In accordance with the policy of alternating locations for the opening games, Philadelphia or Washington will open the series in their home parks. The series opened at Wrigley Field, home of the Chicago Cubs, last fall.

No dates were even hinted by Commissioner Landis, but the best guess was that the first game would open either September 30 or October 1. Last year the first game was played October 8, but the major league season closes earlier this year.

An interesting feature in today's world series invitation was that the New York Yankees failed to be included for the first time in five years.

De Leo Breaks Record For Wash. C. C. Course

Joe DeLeo, former Georgetown University and Notre Dame athlete and prominent local attorney, yesterday broke the course record of the Washington Golf and Country Club, when in eighteen holes of play he scored a 67, 1 better than the score made by Morris McCarthy two years ago. Par for the course is 70. DeLeo, who maintains a driving course on Wisconsin avenue, was medalist in the Chevy Chase and Indian Spring tournaments in 1928.

DeLeo's drives, according to Dave Thompson, professional of the club, were the longest ever witnessed on the course, averaging 320 yards. The former Hilltopper, who held the championship of that school in 1925, 1926 and 1927, went over par but once, on the twelfth hole, and made four birdies. He was accompanied by Ed Thackwick, Dan Freshman and Joe Baldwin.

Police and Firemen Nines In Annual Contest Today

SOMETHING more than the ordinary "hatlesque" should take place at Griffith Stadium this afternoon when the baseball teams of the Fire and Police Departments clash in their annual battle at 3 o'clock.

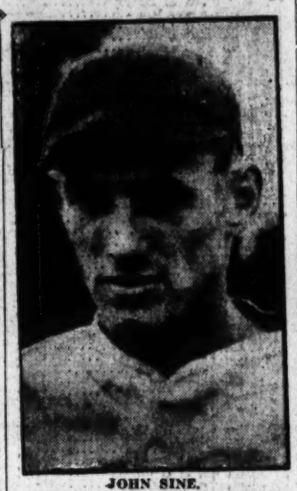
Both departments are boasting capable teams, which have taken their places with the leading sandlot nines of the city, and promise to put up an exhibition that should prove interesting as well as amusing to devotees of the sport.

For each team it will be a crucial game, with each having a logical excuse for more than the normal desire for victory. Since the series was started seven years ago the Policemen have won four times and the Firemen three, but those trio of wins of the latter aggregation have come during the last three years. For the Firemen, therefore, today's game presents an opportunity to deadlock the series; for the Police a chance to stop the consecutive streak of their deadliest foe.

Fortunately for the Firemen, Calvin Hull, crack pitcher, is again ready to climb the mound. Hull has been almost singly responsible for those three wins of his team, having stopped the Cops' streak in 1927 and utrned in wins ever since. Hull, apparently, is in top form again this year. A no-hit game over the Tile Setters several years ago is his major bid to fame.

However, Officer John Sine, who has been designated to pitch for the Cops, has been going great guns this year and offers to make things hotter than the worst fire for the flame-fighters.

Willie Watt, Bottle Cox, Shorty Hughes and Bill Betts have been selected as umpires for the big game. A slip on their part might result in a quick "run-in" to the nearest station house or the negligence of the firemen to keep them from being "burnt up" should the roasting become severe.



JOHN SINE.

Firemen—Catcher, Brown or Burthe; pitcher, Hull; first base, Peterson; second baseman, Clark; third baseman, Snow; short stop, Ritnour; left field, Walters; center field, Jones; right field Watt. Utility, Witkoski, Clark, Finan, Hoper, Bunton, Brown, Burthe.

the first time, the challangers have built up a slashing, aggressive type of attack, designed to cope with the long range, rapid fire game that has kept the Americans supreme for ten years.

Teams Appear to Rate About Even.

There is little to chose between the teams on handicaps and experience. The Americans have a 4-goal rating, the British 3, but all cup matches are played "on the flat." Balding and Guinness are newcomers to international play, but Roark and Lacey have weathered many a big campaign.

Hitchcock is the only American veteran of previous play against England, but Hopping and Guest received their baptism with the big four in the international competition of 1928 against the Argentines. Pedley was a substitute in 1924, but this marks his debut in the internationals.

SAYS PEGLER

lesson in speed and illusion. Harry Wilson, the last great Army back before Red Cagle, has returned as a lieutenant of the air force, to assist in the coaching of the backs. Cagle has taken up his job as back field coach at Mississippi A. and M. at $5,000 for the season, the best paid novice assistant coach in the game and a very serious and ambitious young civilian now. He was much upset over the manner of his leaving the Military Academy last spring when he first tried to resign and, that failing, disclosed that he had been a married man for two years, contrary to the regulation forbidding all cadets to possess any horse, dog, mustache or wife. Cagle worked through the summer in New York and progressed so well that he intends to live here between football seasons henceforth.

Army Seems to Be Well Off In Man-Power.

The Army seems quite well off in football man-power, despite the disappearance of Cagle and his close friends, Johnny Murrell, the full back, and Buster Perry, the tackle, both of whom also played four years. The two regular ends who played through the Notre Dame game last fall, Carlmark and Messinger, are still on hand; Polly Humber, the captain, was a regular tackle last year, and Miller and Hillsinger will be side by side at center and guard again.

Two good quarter backs with varsity experience, Bowman and Carver, remain to work with the 1929 plebe back field, now eligible for the varsity. This plebe back field, including Fields, Letzelter, Herb Elliott, Kilday and Sebastian, was famous in a small way last fall, and the young men will carry the burden of great expectations in their first year as freshmen at the Point. Aside from Cagle's loose and lonesome excursions, few of which achieved any appreciable progress, the Army's back field played an unhappy season last year. The new talent, coached in some new figures and playing behind a substantial line, should be able to do at least as well, if not better.

Anyway, football is rife and becoming rifer, and if the golfers, the sailors and the ball players want much attention they may be advised to get going and do their routines before the autumn Saturdays begin to show big on the calendar.

TWO INJURED IN CATHOLIC GRID DRILL

O'Brien and Oliver Hurt in Practice Scrimmage.

TWO injuries cropped up in the Catholic University football training camp yesterday, Ed O'Brien and oJhnny Oliver being the ones to suffer slight casualties. Both were hurt in the scrimmage ending the day's workout, Oliver receiving a badly twisted ankle and O'Brien a bruised knee.

While neither was of a serious nature, it was enough to keep both on the bench for a couple of days, according to word received last night.

Several New Plays Tried Out.

Several new plays were given the Cardinals yesterday by their new mentor, Dutch Bergman, while fundamentals continued to be stressed. The entire squad went through to two-hour drills, and all were sufficiently ready for bed when the curfew bell rang last night.

The squad, now numbering less than two dozen, is expected to receive an increase on Monday, the new men being reported on the way to the Brokland Stadium. Benny Collins, varsity guard; Fred Guarnieri, half back; Ted Bonetti and John Callahan, sub half backs, and Bryan Couroy, freshman half back are those scheduled to make their apeparance the first of the week.

Cubs Rout Vance Bogey Six Times This Season

Season after season, the Brooklyn Dazzler has been a bogey man to the Chicago Nationals. His shredded shirt sleeve and speed ball blinded the Bruins completely. The strike-out toll was frightful and the Dazzler whipped them without much ado.

This year it's different. The Cubs have downed Vance six of the seven times they opposed him. Hack Wilson, his former victim, has had a field day at the Dazzler's expense.

Football Team Creates New School for Boys

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 6 (A.P.).—A school that grew out of a football team is Virginia's newest educational institution.

It is the Charlottesville School for Boys, which reversed the usual order of establishing a school first and letting the athletic teams follow.

Robert S. Osborn, head of the school, conceived the idea last year while coaching his "Charlottesville Fives," a boys' club football team, which won the national 100-pound championship.

He managed to keep up the boys' school work while coaching them.

More than 50 boys have enrolled for the initial term, which will open in the old University Inn, remodeled for use as a dormitory. Every student will be fitted into the athletic program.

LOSSES CANCELED AS STOCKS RALLY

2 to 3 Point Net Advances Appear While Only One Slump Mars Rise.

WHEAT, COTTON IMPROVE

New York, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The stock market outdid itself today by advancing with only one minor interruption. Net gains of 2 to 3 points eliminated most of the week's earlier losses, and there was a small increase in the volume of trading.

Wheat, cotton and bonds also improved, so that it was a reasonably satisfactory day for the optimists. Corn eased and crude rubber futures touched a new low for the fourth consecutive day, but Wall street was more encouraged than discouraged by the general action of the speculative markets.

The rally in stocks was largely based on technical considerations, for the shorts apparently preferred to take their profits, if any. Liquidation had encountered resistance in the previous sessions of the week, and the more promising reports from wholesale and retail trade satisfied the bears that little was to be gained for the moment from further selling.

The market made most of its rise by noon. Earlier buying covered the merchandising, industrial, amusement and specialty shares, neglecting the utilities, oils, coppers and rails. At the appearance of profit taking around the start of the final hour, however, operators for the advance brought forward the utility and food stocks as new leaders, and bullish interest in the entire list was revived, although not all of the closing prices were the day's best.

More Promising Aspects Seen.

The weekly trade reviews found conditions fairly satisfactory and noted a maintenance of the better trends that marked the last part of August. Dun's referred to "more promising aspects, more tangible reasons for encouragement and a further strengthening of sentiment." Bradstreet's said there had been more confident buying of staple cotton goods, a better demand for coal and further evidence of relief from the dullness of July and August.

Car loading reports for the final week of last month, made public by two or three important carriers, revealed gains, and there was cheer in the statement of Woolworth's president that the week ending August 9 had marked the turning point in that chain's business. Every week since, he said, had shown considerable gain.

The rally in wheat ranged from 1¾ to 2⅛ cents and was based on covering inspired by reports of a better export demand. Corn's losses were only nominal; the September future closed unchanged. Cotton gained 90 to $1.15 a bale on this market.

So amiably was the stock market disposed that even Curtiss-Wright's report of a first half deficit exceeding $5,000,000 failed to affect the shares. Omission of Bullard's dividend proved to be only temporarily depressing and the stock closed fractionally higher.

Rubber Shares Advance.

Rubber shares were among the day's speculative favorites. The Kelly Tire and U. S. Rubber stocks, as well as Goodyear and Goodrich, all rallied, some to the extent of several points. New York City Tractions also advanced.

U. S. Steel came within a point of its post-June high, reacted to 168 and closed at 170⅜ for a net gain of 3⅛. American Can, Loew's, American Water Works, Baldwin Locomotive, Coca Cola, National Biscuit and Westinghouse Electric also gained about 3 points. Brisk covering in Vanadium brought a rally of nearly 5 points, while Auburn Auto shot up 9¾, Case 7¾, Diamond Match 8 and Eastman Kodak 5½. American Telephone, Loose-Wiles, Beatrice Creamery, Johns-Manville, Radio, General Electric and General Motors were up 1 to 2 at the close. Canadian Pacific and Gillette were heavy. Checker Cab and Parmelee Transportation responded to merger rumors, the former advancing 5 and the latter 2.

Foreign exchanges were easy. European rates sagged again, led by the French franc, which dropped 5-32. Latin-Americans also turned downward.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Pessimism vanished from the Chicago wheat pit today as future deliveries wheeled into line behind an excellent demand for cash wheat and began a counterassault against the onrush of lower prices. With European countries taking 1,500,000 bushels of cash wheat for export and domestic interests buying 1,000,000 bushels more, most of it destined for mills, traders on the board of trade took heart and started buying. The result of this activity was a sharp advance in prices, with closing quotations generally 2 cents or more a bushel above yesterday's finish. Unexpected strength in Liverpool, largely because of active covering by professional sellers and also because of dry weather complaints from Argentina, helped to return confidence to traders. Corn was less fortunate and had a hard time staying above yesterday's close.

Wheat closed firm at almost the topmost figures reached, 1⅛ to 2 cents a bushel net higher than the previous close. Corn finished unchanged to ⅞ cent lower; oats, ⅛ to ⅜ cent up; Rye, 1⅜ to 2¼ cents higher, and provisions showing a 15 to 35 cent advance.

Sentiment here was more favorable to the buying side from the start, when it became apparent that Liverpool quotations were definitely on the upgrade for the day. Prospects of a big increase in domestic consumption and the fact that many traders believed wheat prices were too low were factors in bringing about the change of attitude.

Brokers said the general character of the buying was the best seen in some time, and the market had a firm undertone most of the day. The holding tendency of the producer who is regarded as wanting the wheat for feeding purposes has brought interior mills into the terminal markets after supplies at an unusually early date.

Corn strove to keep above the previous closing level. There was some realizing of profits, and the trade saw little urgent buying. Country offerings to arrive were larger, and the cash market was weaker. Oats reflected the firmness in wheat, as did rye.

Provisions showed sustained buoyancy, with offerings light.

THREE-YEAR HIGH HIT BY BONDS' AVERAGES

Few of Lower Yield Issues Dip, But Prices as Whole Continue to Rise.

NEW OFFERINGS SCARCE

New York, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The almost steady flow of investment funds into the listed bond market swelled again to volume reached before Labor Day today, and lifted the average price of 30 leading issues to the highest level since 1927.

The weekly Federal Reserve condition statements, showing that the September 1 settlements had been handled smoothly with very slight release of credit by the reserve system was regarded as a sign that low credit rates might be expected throughout the autumn months, despite the seasonal demands. If there is to be any liquidation of fixed income bearing securities to pay September 15 income taxes, there has been little sign of it as yet.

New offerings, as usual on Friday, all but dried up, but bond dealers are planning substantial issues later in the month. An offering of $23,735,000 of Chicago tax anticipation warrants is expected next week, by Halsey, Stuart & Co. This week's offerings have totaled $67,159,000, only $745,000 less than last week.

Few European Issues Ease.

Some irregularity persisted, as some of the lower yield issues were sold, but in general the trend continued upward. In the foreign dollar bonds, the Latin American issues, in the main, rallied further. A few of the European issues eased a little. A feature of the public utilities was a strong demand for the New York tractions, reflecting rumors that the Brooklyn Manhattan Transit management has acquired control of Interborough, which may speed unification. Several of the second grade rails joined the upturn in the prime carrier obligations. Industrials were largely quiet.

Boston and Maine 5s D, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Sinking Fund 6s, Chicago, Great Western 4s, Erie 5s of 1975, Interborough Stamped 5s, Missouri, Pacific Adjustment 4s, and Western Maryland 4s all advanced fractionally in large-scale buying. St. Paul 5s and Baltimore & Ohio 5s D each gained about a point. In the Pennsylvania group the Panhandle issues rose a point or more to new highs in a few sales. The 4½s of the Fonda, Johnstown & Gloversville Railroad, a New York State traction, jumped 4 points.

International Telephone Drops.

Among the convertible issues Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s were active, rising more than a point. International Telephone Convertible 4½s, however, lost a point. Warner Bros. convertible debentures held steady.

Among the industrials International Match 5s rose a point in a fair turnover. Armour Real Estate 4½s and Cuyamel Fruit 6s were firm in fairly active trading. A wide mover was Parmelee 6s, which advanced 7 points to 65, reflecting merger prospects. Marion Steam Shovel 6s were weak, dropping 3 ponts. Pocahontas Consolidated Coal 5s and Porto Rican American Tobacco 6s sagged more than a point to new lows in a few sales.

United States Governments moved rather narrowly, but the more active issues were inclined to ease. The Treasury 4s and 4¼s were under pressure.

DYING BUNCO CHIEF ASKS PEACE OF LAW

WANTS TO "WIPE SLATE"

Atlanta, Ga., Sept 5 (A.P.).—Floyd Woodward, head of Atlanta's 1919 bunco ring that fleeced victims of more than $1,000,000, now fighting tuberculosis in Arizona, wants to return to Atlanta and pass the remainder of his days "at peace with the law."

The Atlanta Journal today said local friends of Woodward were making every effort to have the bunco chieftain's long list of pending indictments arranged so that his desire "to come back home and wipe the slate clean" might be realized.

Woodward, facing charges in State and Federal courts here from vagrancy to murder, "with a price on his head," has eluded officers for more than ten years.

Originally there were six indictments against Woodward in Federal court. One was nolle prossed and five are still outstanding. These charge use of the mails to defraud.

Ten of the seventeen indictments pending in the State courts charge Woodward with larceny after trust, involving the bunco ring's fake stock and race track schemes. One charges larceny from the person, three charge vagrancy, cheating and swindling, and another alleges murder.

The murder indictment charges Woodward, Holtzman, alias "Black Mike," W. Clyde Smith and W. W. (Swifty) Kline with the slaying of Ed P. Mills, shot to death in a downtown hotel at a card game.

Woodward is not the first member of the notorious ring to seek a reconciliation with the authorities by surrendering and accepting the sentence of the courts "to square accounts," the Journal said. Seven members of the ring, during the past few years, have taken this method to end the hunt for them.

Pardon Is Granted To Patricide Lifer

Gov. Pollard Frees Brown After 15 Years in State Prison.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Sept. 5.—William J. B. Brown, who fifteen years ago killed his father, John W. Brown, and was sentenced to a life term in the State Penitentiary after pleading guilty, has been pardoned by Gov. Pollard, and has returned to his old home near here, it was learned today. It was said that certain extenuating circumstances entered into the case, and the governor acted on the strength also of numerously signed petitions in behalf of Brown.

The father and his family were more or less estran ed and evidence brought out at the trial showed that young Brown, then 19 years old, dug a shallow grave near a stream of water, lured his father to the spot and shot him. While the fath lay on the ground begging for mercy, the son admitted, the boy shot him again, and after he died dragged his body to the grave and covered it up with dirt and leaves.

Young Brown always said he killed his father because the latter had mistreated the boy's mother.

MEYER IS APPOINTED RESERVE BOARD HEAD

PLATT RESIGNS HIS POST

(Associated Press.)

Appointment of Eugene Meyer, of New York, as governor of the Federal Reserve Board, to take office immediately, was announced yesterday by President Hoover.

Edmund Platt, the vice governor, who comes from the same Federal Reserve district as Mr. Meyer, cleared the way for the appointment of the new governor when he submitted his resignation yesterday to the President.

Mr. Hoover still must find a vice governor to take the place of Mr. Platt. Mr. Meyer succeeds Gov. Roy A. Young, of Minneapolis, who resigned recently to become head of the Boston Federal Reserve Bank.

Mr. Meyer, with the exception of the past year, has been continuously in Government service since 1917 as manager of the War Finance Corporation and in reorganization of the Farm Loan Board as its chairman.

Waterloo, Iowa, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, promised today to lead a fight on the floor of the Senate against the confirmation of Eugene Meyer, of New York, as president of the Federal Reserve Board.

Senator Brookhart has been outspoken in his opposition to Mr. Meyer during the latter's service in the Federal Farm Loan Board, from which he resigned a year ago.

"I feel it my duty to oppose his confirmation," Mr. Brookhart said. "I feel confident that I will have considerable support in such a move."

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Edmund Platt, vice governor of the Federal Reserve Board, will become a vice president of the Marine Midland Corporation about September 16, George F. Rand, president, announced today.

MISS MYSTERIOUS

By LARRY LAWRENCE

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

A sorority girl, affectionately called Babe, is given a terrific emotional shock by a letter from her guardian, Clement Forseith, saying that he has lost all her money, and is going to commit suicide. He adds a greater shock by saying that her real name is not Thelma Townley, as she always believed, and predicts that she will never learn her true identity. Babe tries to harden her heart to face the world without money or name. She determines to learn the truth of her parentage at all costs. A man from the West Coast comes to see Babe, says his name is Reuben Morgan, boldly announces that he knows of her trouble, and proposes marriage as a way out of her difficulty. While talking to him she is warned in a telegram from Tacoma against Morgan. She promises to see him at 11 a. m. the next day, and then goes to a dance with Peter Jones, who is in love with her. He tells her that he has heard two men talking about her andacting suspiciously. That night she is kidnaped, but Peter follows the kidnapers, captures them and drives to his father's summer home. One of the criminals escapes and takes Pete's car. After a battle with Gus, the kidnaper, who stayed to guard Babe and Pete, they learn that the "brains" of the kidnaping party is a man called "The Duke," who comes from the West Coast. Knowing that the kidnaper will return with reinforcements to make them prisoners, Babe and Pete escape and hide in a shack. Here they spend the remaining hours of the night, Pete sleeping on the floor.

CHAPTER VII.

"Here you are, m'lady," Pete called as he came to the door with a bucket of water.

"Thank you, kind sir," Babe replied. "Is it good to drink, too?"

"Certainly. Direct from my private spring."

Babe drank, then splashed her face while Pete found a clean rag that would serve as a towel.

"For breakfast—well, they say you can live on love," Pete remarked and added, "I believe I could live a long time on love, Babe, but I'll bet you're hungry."

"Yes, I am hungry," Babe responded. "And it's a good sign, too. I'm glad I am. I suppose with all the dreadful things I have to tell I shouldn't even remember that I have to eat now and then—and, Pete, we must not speak of love. It is a forbidden subject between us."

Pete started to protest, but she stopped him with a look that meant, "Hear me before you speak." He saw it was no time for joking and his heart missed a beat or two as he waited in fearful anticipation of what she might tell.

"Pete, you have been wonderful to me. If I had listened to you I would not have been in this scrape and you would not be mixed up in most unpleasant, not to say darned dangerous, business.

"But I didn't listen and I've got you in it. Now I must tell you all about it and then I want you to help me get to town and then—well, forget me. You've got a family. You've a future.

"I have no family. As for my future, God only knows what it will be. I'm on my own. Pete, I am a nameless person without a cent in the world. I don't have any idea who my parents are or what they were. I don't know why I have always been led to believe that there was an endless amount of money that belonged to me. I know nothing of myself, except that I am supposed to be 20 years old and supposed to have a birthday and be 21 years old in just ten more days.

"Now you know why I can't let you talk of love to me. I have to face the world alone, prove that I can make my own way, then know and what I am before I can let any decent man make love to me. Don't you see?"

"No, I don't see," Pete broke in. "You are talking nonsense. Gee, Babe, I'll admit I was afraid for a time that it was something far worse. Some man or something. I feel relieved, happy. What's a name? Bah! Name be darned. I've got a name, and what a name—Peter Jones. Did you ever hear of a commoner name?"

"Oh, Pete, you don't understand! I was afraid you wouldn't. It's not just a name, but what it stands for. You know your father and mother, you know they are fine, true people. Me! Why I haven't the slightest idea whether my father was a burglar or a blackguard, a prince or a pauper. I might not feel this way now if I had known all along that I was a nameless nobody, but I always had such a pride in the father and mother I had somehow managed to love without ever having seen. That is, as far as I can remember, I had such a picture built up in my mind and now— Well you, in your security of parents and position just can't know how I feel." She was dangerously near to crying and Pete longed to take her in his arms and comfort her, but somehow managed to hold himself in check.

In a more conventional setting he might not have been able to resist the temptation, but here in this isolated shack he felt that an attempt at a caress would be the act of a cad. Babe saw the desire in his eyes, saw his determination not to act. The look that passed between them, for that second was compensation enough for Pete. He glorified in his will power then.

They were silent for a few moments and the silence was more eloquent than words. Then Babe started on talking again. She spoke rapidly, telling about her life as a sheltered child, ever treated as if she were born to luxury, but strangely shifted from one home to another, from one boarding school to another. Babe tried to tell everything in detail, but she saved the story of Forseith's suicide, his strange letter and the story of Morgan's proposal to the last.

"The rest you know, Pete. Can you guess what it's all about"

"No, Babe, I can't make it out, but one thing seems very clear. There are two rival gangs that want you for some sinister reason. Well, maybe not gangs. More probably just two rivals, but at least one of them has a gang at his command.

"You must avoid them. One of those gangs is probably hunting these woods for you right now and to get out of it will be dangerous. For that matter it is dangerous to stay in it and we can't stay long anyway. We would starve to death in time."

"My mind is made up, Pete. We must escape from here and get to Milwaukee. I'll get in touch with Violet and she can send me my things. I'll cash a check for all I have in the Madison bank, all I have in the world—then go back to Seattle. That must be the right place to start my search. I'll find Forseith's friends or enemies. He must have had both. Surely some one out there has the key to all this mystery."

"But, Babe, the key may be right here. Morgan may have it. The duke may have it. Why go away?"

Babe didn't answer at once. She was thinking. If he could have read her thoughts he would have realized that she was agreeing with him, but he would have suffered to know that she had deliberately outlined that plan of flight to the West Coast to throw him off the true explanation of her plans. She felt that she had no right to impose on him, let him help her further. What she really meant to do was to get a job in Milwaukee and try to work out the solution of the mystery from the base. Just how, she did not see clearly, but it was certain that she had to get a job. That was becoming her first obsession. She couldn't live off the charity of her acquaintances. Babe knew that her bank balance was small. Probably not enough to pay her fare to Seattle. Of course, she had several diamonds, seldom worn, that she might be able to sell. And she had clothes that would serve well.

"I must not let Pete know my plans," Babe was thinking. "He has to go back to the university, and that right away. I would never forgive myself if I got him into any more trouble." Aloud she said, "But, Pete, I have a feeling. I must go back to the Coast. I can't wait until I get started."

"The thing to do now is to get by these men," Pete insisted, as if resigning himself to her plans. He, too, had made some mental reservations. You stay here. I'll duck through these woods and see if the coast is clear."

"I'd rather go with you," Babe answered, ashamed that she was afraid to stay alone. Then she suddenly changed her mind. "No, I'm leaning on you again, Pete, and I must stop it. Go alone." When he left she closed the door of the shack and tried to wait patiently. This was impossible. The seconds dragged. It seemed that he was never coming back. Fears assailed her. "What if they had taken him?"

Just as she was beginning to believe that he had been captured Pete whistled a low signal and called, "Oh, Babe." Her heart gave a leap for joy.

"Good news, honey," Pete exclaimed. "We're in luck. At least, I think we are. They abandoned my car. I saw it standing behind the cottage. I sneaked as close as I could, trying to see if it was left there as a bait to trap us. I couldn't see a soul in the place or any evidence of them being there. They probably cleared out in some other car after we escaped. Maybe they thought we would bring the police down on them. They certainly are not common burglars. I'll bet the duke gave his hired gunmen something to think about, the way they bungled your capture."

Babe and Pete came down the winding path toward the cottage. When they got fairly close Pete cautioned. "Be very still now. They may be in hiding, waiting for our return." But there was no one near the place and, after coming into the open space, they raced to the car, leaped in, and Pete started it.

In a short time they were in Milwaukee and Pete drew up in front of a restaurant on Wisconsin avenue. They ate a huge meal, a sort of combination breakfast and lunch.

"And where do we go from here?" Pete sang out as they were finishing.

"You are going back to the campus and I am going to stay at a hotel here until I get my things. Then I'm going straight to Seattle," Babe said.

"Come on, ride back with me to school. You can get your things and leave from there," Pete begged. "I don't feel right about you staying here alone. That gang is still hanging around, you may be darned sure. And if they were desperate enough to kidnap you they will not stop at anything to get you in their hands again."

"They don't grab girls off the streets of Milwaukee in broad daylight, Pete. I'll watch my step from now on."

"And don't forget I love you." Pete looked Babe squarely in her eyes. love you. And names mean nothing to me. If you ever want help, any kind of help, Babe, just call me."

"I won't forget, Pete." Babe dropped her eyes. He drove away. The sidewalks were crowded with girls hurrying back to work in offices. Babe looked at these well-dressed, seemingly happy girls and envied them.

"They know where they're going and what they're going to do. They know how to earn their own way, too. It's funny how a little turn of fate can change your whole life, your whole line of thought. The last time I noticed working girls I was just a little sorry for them." So her thought ran as she walked aimlessly up the street. Seeing a hotel sign she crossed the street and entered. It was the first time she had ever attempted to register without an assortment of baggage. Now she had nothing but her handbag.

There were several bills in it, she recalled, and was thankful. The clerk looked at her with a questioning scrutiny. She picked up a pen and started to write Thelma Townley, then hesitated, the pen posied.

"I wonder what my real name is?"

She felt that the clerk was inspecting her with unnecessary diligence. She had never felt as completely alone and forsaken in her whole life. She must hasten with the signing of the book. But what name would she use? She definitely decided then and there not to use the name she had always thought her own. She started to write without making up her mind and the first letter she wrote was a T, with a flourish. She finished, writing more slowly, Theodora Thomas. "Theodora, gift of the gods," was the thought that flashed through her mind, and she laughed a short, mirthless little laugh.

"No baggage?" the clerk asked as he whirled the book around.

"No. I'm sending for it."

"Would you please pay in advance then?" The question was a demand.

"Certainly," she said with what dignity she could muster, and withdrawing a $10 bill tendered it. He gave her change and tapped a bell.

The bellboy conducted her to the elevators and to a room on the tenth floor. She tipped him a quarter and wondered as she did so how soon she would be in need of a quarter.

As soon as she had removed her coat she picked up the phone. "Please get me Violet Rimmel at Madison." She gave the number of her sorority home.

In a few minutes the connection was made. She heard Violet's voice saying, "Oh, Babe, I was worried about you. Something terrible has happened here."

CAPT. PECK RETIRES; LIEUT. HOLMES WILL RECEIVE COMMAND

LATTER'S POST GIVEN TO PRIVATE WINSHIP

Changes by Commissioner in Police Force to Become Effective Sept. 15.

Three promotions in police ranks were ordered yesterday when the District Commissioners approved the request of Capt. Charles T. Peck, of the Eleventh Precinct, to be retired after more than 36 years service.

Lieut. William E. Holmes, of the Third Precinct, was raised to a captaincy to succeed Capt. Peck, whose retirement is to become effective on September 15.

The lieutenancy left vacant by promotion of Lieut. Holmes is to be filled by promotion of Sergt. John W. McGinness, of the Tenth Precinct, while Private Archie M. Winfree, of the Twelfth Precinct, was made a sergeant to succeed Sergt. McGinness.

Capt. Peck is 63 years old, having been born December 29, 1866. He was appointed a member of the Metropolitan Police Force on January 1, 1894. This qualifies him for retirement under the retirement law passed by Congress in 1916. He is to receive a pension of $150 monthly.

In Detective Bureau.

Six years after he joined the force, and after he had served as a "pavement pounder" in the Eighth and Fourth Precincts, Capt. Peck was assigned to the Detective Bureau, and during the following year he was promoted to the rank of detective sergeant. His elevation to a captaincy came in 1902, when he was assigned to the Second Precinct where he remained until 1914.

His next assignment was the command of the First Precinct, in the business section, the most coveted post of all the fourteen precincts in the city. Capt. Peck remained in command of the First Precinct for two years, after which he returned to the Second Precinct. In 1925 he was assigned to the Ninth Precinct, remaining there until 1927, when he was made commander of the Eleventh Precinct.

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, yesterday paid high tribute to Capt. Peck, who, he said, had an enviable career in the Police Department and has been "an efficient, courteous and conscientious officer."

Lieut. Holmes' promotion comes in his twenty-eighth year of service in the Police Department, where he has been a lieutenant for more than ten years. He came to the police force from the Fire Department in 1903, leaving a place at that time known as assistant foreman, which corresponds to the lieutenancy at the present time.

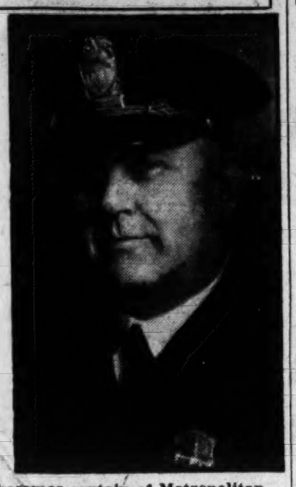
Service as Sergeant.

Previous to his appointment as lieutenant, Holmes served as sergeant, enforcing the Shepherd law in the Eighth Precinct, and since his promotion to his present rank he served at the Tenth and the Third precincts, where he was last stationed. His work has been commended numerous times.

Sergt. McGinness has been in the department since 1902, and was made a sergeant in 1917 while serving as a member of the White House guards. He has been assigned, successively, to the First, Third and the Tenth precincts.

Pvt. Winfree has been a member of the department for nine years, being appointed in 1921. His work has several times been called to the attention of his superior officers because of his devotion to duty and conscientious application to his work. He is from Silver Point, Tenn.

POLICE GIVEN PROMOTIONS



Lieut. William E. Holmes (left) becomes captain of Metropolitan Police, and Sergt. John W. McGinness is elevated to lieutenancy following promotions announced by District Commissioners yesterday.

After this list had been forwarded to the Commissioners by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, they ordered the promotion of Private Winfree to a sergeancy as one of the promotions necessitated by the retirement of Capt. Charles Peck, of the Eleventh Precinct.

Whether Winfree now will receive also the $5 raise, or whether he will have to be satisfied with his salary as a sergeant, had not been decided last night.

SMITH FIRM SUED BY NAVAL OFFICER

Plaintiff Asserts He Invested Life Savings in Bonds of Company.

HE WANTS RECEIVER

H. K. Taylor, chief petty officer, United States Navy, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to appoint a receiver for the F. H. Smith Co. and the Properties Investment Corporation, a subsidiary.

Taylor, who says he read about the Smith company in a service magazine and was impressed by the slogan: "No loss to any investor in 52 years," declares he invested his life savings in seven $500 ten-year bonds of the company. His suit is one of many which have been filed in the court since criminal charges were preferred against G. Bryan Pitts, former chairman of the board of directors, and other officials.

Others Named in Suit.

In addition to the Smith company and the subsidiary corporation, Taylor names Pitts, Samuel J. Henry, C. Elbert Anadale, John H. Edwards, jr., Henry C. Maddux, Representative Frederic N. Zihlman, Daniel R. Crissinger, J. Maynard Magruder and Pearce P. Smith as codefendants.

Taylor relates in detail the method by which officers of the company are alleged to have induced him to invest his money in Smith company bonds and also relates details of his unsuccessful efforts to collect interest on the bond coupons. He also attaches the advertisement from the service magazine.

Crissinger Answers One Action.

Crissinger, who formerly was Comptroller of the Currency, yesterday answered the suit filed recently in the court by J. E. Sexton, of 121 Twelfth street southeast, for the recovery of bonds which he alleged he had been induced to exchange for Smith company bonds. Crissinger, through Attorney Harold J. Pack, states he does not know Sexton, that he never induced the man to exchange his bonds and knows nothing of the alleged transaction.

In addition, Crissinger explains that "the executive committee during the time he was chairman performed no acts whatsoever and did not hold a single meeting."

COOLIDGE ATTACK AROUSES CRITICS

M'CORMICK AIDED, HINT

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Former President Coolidge's ears must have burned yesterday from what the Progressives and Democrats said about his attack on the campaign expenditures investigation committee.

Mr. Coolidge's statement, appearing in The Post, in that column he writes, caused quite a ripple in local political circles because, for one thing, it constituted an attack on the body over which he used to preside, and again, because it recorded him on the side of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick in her bitter controversy with the investigating committee.

Reports here are to the effect, too, that things are going so badly for Mrs. McCormick—with her longtime enemy, Mrs. Lottie O'Neill, planning to run against her and split her vote—that the helping hand extended by Mr. Coolidge is not to be discounted.

The impression has been in Washington that Mrs. McCormick, knowing the prospects of her entering the Senate are not so good, is making her play to the women of the country as much as she is to those of Illinois, and that it was with this end in view that she provoked a quarrel with the committee.

If this is true, it is readily seen how Mr. Coolidge's article, published throughout the country, assisted her.

Both Statements Attacked.

The Progressives and Democrats here attacked both Mr. Coolidge's statement that the Supreme Court had decided that the Senate had no jurisdiction over primaries and that the Nye committee was pursuing this inquiry only under the "fiction" of studying possible legislation.

On the question of the Supreme Court having ruled that the Senate has no jurisdiction over primaries it is a fact that there exists a widespread misapprehension and it is easily understood how Mr. Coolidge could have erred. The statement has been frequently made in the Senate and in the press.

The Supreme Court dealt with the question in the Newberry case. It set aside his conviction for violation of the corrupt practices act, enacted in 1910, on the ground that it obviously did not apply to primaries because there were no primaries at the time. The seventeenth amendment had not been adopted in 1910.

The decision was by a 5 to 4 vote. Now of the five justices deciding in favor of Newberry four went further and said that even the seventeenth amendment did not give the Senate jurisdiction over primaries.

The fifth one, however, the late Justice McKenna, rendered a separate opinion on this phase, saying that he maintained an open mind.

Question Never Decided by Court.

The result is that the court stood four to four on the question of the seventeenth amendment extending the Senate's jurisdiction over primaries. There the question stands now. It has never been decided.

As it stands, there is no Federal law covering primary expenditures and practices, but the Senate is working toward enactment of one now. There are many bills pending on the subject, notably a set by Senator Cutting, of New Mexico.

There seems to be a quite general opinion, in fact, that Congres must enact some legislation on the subject. Mrs. McCormick, for example, in admitting expenditures of $250,000, later revealed to be more than $300,000, said that something had to be done and sort of offered her experience as a study.

It is because of this that the Progressives and Democrats were provoked by Mr. Coolidge's statement that the Nye inquiry was only in "fiction" pursuing its inquiry as a basis for remedial legislation.

5,118 CURB TREES PLANTED IN CAPITAL DURING PAST YEAR

Report of Lanham Shows Total of 112,374 on District Streets.

PURCHASES AND WORK COST CITY $40,554.17

1,500 Norway Maples Are Set Out; $9,254.68 for Spraying.

With the planting of 5,118 young trees on the streets of the District during the year ended June 30, the total of curb trees in Washington was brought up to 112,374, it was shown in the annual report submitted to the District Commissioners yesterday by Clifford Lanham, superintendent of trees and parkings.

A total of $40,554.17 was spent for these plantings, this amount covering labor and other materials in addition to the purchase of 1,500 Norway maples, 500 pin oaks, 300 American elms and 200 European linden trees from private nurseries.

During the year 1,844 trees were removed for various reasons, which made the net increase in trees 3,615 during the year. The number of new plantings showed an increase of 860 over the previous year. Mr. Lanham calls attention in his report to the fact that a special effort was made to replace trees in the vacant spaces in the established lines, resulting in 1,791 trees being planted at the curb line.

Suburban Area Plantings.

An effort to extend the tree system along the streets in suburban areas and previously unplanted sections resulted in 3,246 trees being planted along many improved thoroughfares. Of the total of 5,518 trees planted, all except four were placed at the curb line, the four exceptions being set between the inner edge of the sidewalk and the building line.

Of the 1,844 trees removed, 636 were decayed and dangerous, 14 condemned varieties, 11 inferior specimens, 5 to relieve excessive shade, 25 because they interfered with parking improvements, 154 for street improvements, 63 for driveways, 43 for alley improvements, 41 were destroyed by automobiles, 88 by storms, 8 interfered with traffic, 5 interfered with building entrances, 6 were too close to buildings, 16 interfered with building operations, 13 interfered with proper development of curb trees, 15 interfered with the construction of sewers, 6 interfered with railroad construction and 1 interfered with construction of a water main.

Thirty-nine of the trees removed were damaged by private individuals, and it was ascertained, Mr. Lanham reports, that 56 were killed by illuminating gas, 5 by salt water, 109 by abnormal moisture, 47 by being filled around, 6 by being girdled, 2 by insects, 3 by oil, 12 by fire, 28 by root mutilation, 2 by sewer gas, 1 burned by electric wires. The causes of death of 383 were undetermined.

It cost the department $8,907.81 to remove 1,492 of these trees, while removal of 175 others was paid for by other departments, 111 from whole cost deposits, and 66 by private individuals. The sum of $10,914.82 was reported as spent for nursery work at the Fort Dupont and Poplar Point nurseries.

6,009 Trees Trimmed.

Although many individual requests for the trimming of trees throughout the city were given attention by the two foremen, each with two small forces of men, who were kept busy constantly throughout the year, Mr. Lanham declared that "it has been impossible to undertake any systematic trimimng of trees during the year." A total of 6,009 trees were trimmed at a cost of $6,807.66.

The spraying of tres has become an annual necessity, Mr. Lanham said, and in the period until August 15 last year 57,862 trees were sprayed, while from May 17 to June 30, 1930, a total of 67,893 were sprayed, making the total of trees sprayed for insect extermination during the year 125,755. The cost of this work was $9,254.68, of which $992.51 was the cost of the arsenate of lead used to destroy the insects.

Another detail of tre care which was given special atention was surgery, particularly in filling cavities in trunks and limbs of trees. Cavities were filled in 29 elm, 2 sycamore, 2 Norway maple and 213 linden trees at a total cost of $2,871.06, Mr. Lanham reported.

Capital Man Honored In Death by Stranger

The story of how a man worked more than eight months to obtain a military funeral for a Washingtonian he never saw became known yesterday.

The dead man was Edwin R. Nairn, a former Navy wireless operator, whose relatives now reside at Capitol Heights, Md. His post-mortem discoverer is Oscar Foy, 39 years old, now a radio operator in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. Foy's interest was first enlisted in finding the missing man in 1922 when he came to Washington as a wireless operator in the Government air Service and lodged at 207 Rhode Island avenue northeast, where Mr. Nairn had formerly roomed. Mrs. Anna Lois Graves, operator of the house, asked Mr. Foy to try to locate Mr. Nairn if he ever went back to New York, as that was where the latter was supposed to be at the time.

Six years later Mr. Foy returned to the metropolis and immediately recalled his landlady's request. Rumors were that Mr. Nairn had died, but neither the police department nor any of the hospitals had any record of his death.

Even an examination of more than 10,000 photographs on file in the New York Bureau of Missing Persons failed to disclose any one by that name. Later, upon learning that Mr. Nairn had once been in the Navy, he came to Washington again and had copies of the man's fingerprints sent throughout the country, but to no avail.

One night while wandering in the Bowery district of New York Mr. Foy encountered a man in a corner speakeasy who claimed to have known Mr. Nairn. Together they went to the Bureau of Missing Persons and the man, picking out a photo, assured Mr. Foy it was that of Mr. Nairn, though the name was not that of the man sought.

EDWIN L. NAIRN.

The photograph was of a man who had been found on the streets in a semiconscious condition and had died in Riverside Hospital without regaining complete consciousness. He had mumbled a name, and one of the attendants had interpreted it to be Edward Leary. After being held at the city morgue for 21 days, he was buried in potter's field on October 21, 1927.

Other marks of identification were forwarded from Washington and the search was ended. With the insurance money left by Mr. Nairn to his landlady the body was brought back to the Capital and reburied in Arlington Cemetery with military honors.

Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Nairn, he is survived by three brothers, John W., George W. and Howard E. Nairn, and two sisters, Mrs. Jennie May Fornly and Mrs. Beatrice Horstman, all of Capitol Heights.

ALUMNUS OF YALE ARRESTED HERE AS PAY-CHECK FORGER

Preston S. Hoyt Unable to Make $1,500 Bond to Get Release.

CENSUS CLERK'S MONEY LOST THROUGH SCHEME

Man's Seizure May Clear Up Mystery of Other "Lost" Salary Vouchers.

Preston S. Hoyt, Yale graduate, who came to Washington July 2 to take a job as a special employe of the Census Bureau, spent last night in the District Jail instead of at the Y. M. C. A., as has been the custom, as a result of his arrest and arraignment before United States Commissioner G. Lyle Hughes yesterday on a charge of forging the name of a fellow worker on the pay rolls of the bureau. Hoyt was unable to make the $1,500 bond which the commissioner assessed and which the United States Attorneys' office demanded for his liberty.

Hoyt's arrest, according to Department of Justice agents who have been working on the case, clears up the mystery of the missing pay envelope, which greatly inconvenienced Census Bureau employes last Tuesday when they were going by the pay window clamoring for their stipend. The mystery developed when an employe asked for his envelope which was not forthcoming. Immediately all payments were stopped and an investigation was instituted.

$39 in Envelope.

At the time the Census Bureau did not reveal the name of the employe whose pay was missing, but the warrant on which Hoyt was taken into custody proclaims the fact that it was R. A. Winne. The warrant also charged that Hoyt, by the alleged act of forging Winne's name, obtained $39 fraudulently.

It was intimated by persons close to the investigation that other charges of a similar nature are being investigated—and that Hoyt may be eventually the solution of other "missing pay checks."

Hoyt appeared rather suave when arraigned, and in a steady voice declared "not guilty" when asked as to his plea.

Home in New Jersey.

The man declined to talk to newspapermen, but police and Department of Justice agents who had him in tow volunteered that he said he is a Yale graduate, that he is 30 years old, that his home is in Hightstown, N. J., and he resides at the Y. M. C. A.

The officers allege that Hoyt obtained the check made out to Winne in a very simple manner. They stated that he first obtained his own check, then returned to the pay line and giving the name of Winne, signed for the check and made off. The chief of Hoyt's section has been absent on leave for some time, the officers said, and this is believed to account for the facility with which the thing was accomplished. They said it is the duty of the chief of each section to identify his workers before they obtain their pay.

Hearing on the charge will be held today before the commissioner, at which time it is believed the agents will reveal their procedure in trapping down Hoyt and placing the charge against him.

Owner of Capital Shop Files Bankruptcy Plea

Louis Gold, of 570 Seventh avenue, New York City, who, under the name of Gold's, operated a clothing store at 1214 F street, Washington, filed a bankruptcy schedule in the United States District Court at New York yesterday. His liabilities were listed at $184,023 and his assets at $152,049.

Unsecured Washington creditors include Tyler & Rutherford, $860; Washington Evening Star, $683; Washington Shopping News, $581; Washington Herald, $353, and the Merchants Transportation & Storage Co., $168.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD, STOVE JETS OPENED

Mrs. M. A. Carroll, in Note, Despairs of Obtaining Cure of Illness.

DISCOVERED BY SISTER

Mrs. Mary Alice Carroll, 60 years old, of 1468 Girard street northwest, was found dead in a gas-filled kitchen in a third floor apartment of that address late yesterday afternoon.

The body was found by her sister, Mrs. Georgia W. Thomas, who told police of the Tenth Precinct that she found the door locked on returning from a shopping trip about 4 o'clock, and entered by breaking through a rear door of the apartment. Two gas jets were open in a small stove, and the doors and windows were all securely fastened.

According to Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Carroll was apparently in good spirits when she left the apartment about 2 o'clock.

A note was left addressed to the sister and a daughter, Miss Helen Carroll, employed in the Patent Office, telling them that she felt that she would never recover from an illness from which she had suffered for three years, and asking their forgiveness for ending her life in that manner.

The woman was dead on the arrival of Rescue Squad No. 1, and Casualty ambulance, which had been called by neighbors. Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt late yesterday afternoon issued a certificate of death by suicide.

Both Mrs. Carroll and Mrs. Thomas, her sister, with whom she made her home, are widows, and Mrs. Carroll's daughter is the only other survivor.

DAIRYMEN PROMISE FULL RESTITUTION

Only $1,453 Missing, Police Say, of $15,000 Two Are Accused of Taking.

BONDS SET AT $3,000

Roy S. Beall and Frederick E. Nally were yesterday charged with grand larceny in connection with the robbery of $15,000 from the Southern Dairies, Inc., on Sunday night. District Attorney Leo A. Rover requested that $3,000 bail be set for each man. Beall furnished bail and was released.

Beall and Nally surrendered to Mr. Rover after they are alleged to have taken the receipts from the office of the company. They said they would make full restitution for the money that is missing.

Lieut. Edward J. Kelly counted the money which the two men turned over to the police. The satchel contained $13,547. He said that $1,453 was missing.

Beall and Nally said they were drunk when they committed the robbery on Sunday night. They then drove to New York. In that place they learned through newspapers that the police were searching for them, they said, and decided to give themselves up.

Beall told detectives that when he became sober he realized what he had done and decided to surrender himself. His wife is soon to become a mother. They came by train as far as Baltimore and took a bus to this city.

Mrs. Mary Beall, mother of Beall, was at the point of death today, physicians said. She had been ill, and her condition became worse when she learned that her son was being sought by police.

Young Theft Suspects Held for Grand Jury

Charged with robbery in connection with the recent holdup of Bernice V. Brown, a Government employe, three Negro boys were arraigned in Police Court yesterday before Judge Gus A. Schuldt and were ordered held for action of the grand jury.

The boys were listed on information papers as John Courtney, James Smith and Leroy Ashton. Courtney and Smith were held under $5,000 bonds, while Ashton was assessed a $2,000 bond. The trio is alleged to have robbed Mr. Brown of $11 and a ring at Ivy and Canal streets southeast.

Circus Boys Jailed for Theft.

Two Negro boys, who said they came to Washington as employes of Sells Floto Circus, will have a hard time catching up with the circus. They were sentenced in Police Court yesterday to serve 30 days each on a theft charge. The boys are alleged to have stolen two shirts each of the value of $1.59 from the C. J. Rogers Store at 813 Seventh street northwest.

Two Vice Squad Men Shifted to Foot Duty

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, yesterday ordered the transfer of two members of Sergt. John Leach's vice squad. Privates James A. Mostyn, of the First Precinct, and Charles L. Van Meter, of the Sixth Precinct, were ordered to report for foot duty to their respective precincts.

Mostyn had served with the vice squad for a year and Van Meter had been with it for six months. Maj. Pratt said the change was in accordance with his policy not to let men become too well acquainted while investigating liquor cases.

Smoke Screen Aids Rum Car's Escape

Officers in Pursuit Forced to Quit Chase Because of Fumes.

A smoke screen laid down by two colored occupants of a heavily loaded machine enabled their escape early yesterday in a chase through the Northwest and Northeast sections.

The pursuit of the machine, presumably running liquor into the District, was marked by three narrow escapes from crashes. Patrolmen C. O Rouse and J. E. Glick began the chase on Benning road northeast, when the heavily laden car roared by them.

Both machines sped across Benning Bridge, the police car groping its way through the smoke. The pursued car swung into First street and then M street northwest, then to Fourth and W streets, where the officers were compelled to abandon their chase because of the smoke.

Bargagni Is Urged For Lieutenancy

Prominent Citizens Petition Commissioners to Reward Fire Sergeant.

A lieutenancy for Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, who has managed the firemen's annual Labor Day parade since its inception eight years ago, is being demanded by a host of business and and civic leaders of the District, who are flooding the District Commissioners with letters urging promotion for the Fire Department drill master.

Isaac Gans, prominent in District affairs, instituted the move, which has been taken up by scores of others.

Although he declared himself favorable to the promotion and "all for Sergt. Bargagni," Fire Chief George S. Watson explained yesterday that there seemed little likelihod that the lieutenancy could be bestowed upon Sergt. Bargagni at this time. "It is improbable that the Civil Service Commission would move Sergt. Bargagni above others in the eligible list except as a reward for valiant service or heroism in fire fighting," the chief said.

Mother Jones Aids Anti-Lewis Fight

$1,000 Donated by Woman Enemy of Miners' Union Head.

"Mother" Mary Jones, famed labor fighter who recently celebrated her hundredth birthday, is engaged in another battle, but this time she is letting her money do what her emaciated frame can not.

Yesterday she revealed that she had contributed $1,000 from her meager savings to the cause of union miners who are seeking to oust John L. Lewis, who has long been her enemy, from control of the United Mine Workers of America.

Recently she called John Walker, of Chicago, to her bedside on the Maryland farm where she is spending her last days and gave him the money "to help in the fight to make the United Mine Workers clean again," she said.

When urged to keep the money for her own comfort, she said: "I know of no better use for it. It has broken my heart to see the United Mine Workers crushed. I only pray that I may live long enough to see John L. Lewis licked."

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA disguisd as a newspaperwoman, went to the White House conference along with the Washington correspondents.

"My! What a lot of fine-looking men," she whispered, "and will they really interview the President?"

"What'd'ye think they're here for? Their health? This is the White House, not White Sulphur Springs."

One by one, two by two, celebrated correspondents came to the executive offices. They got out pencils and pads, preparatory to entering the President's sanctum.

"I'm anxious to see President Hoover at work," said Luella, nervous as a girl at her first party. "Will he have a heart-to-heart talk with all these newspaper people?"

* * * *

"A HEART-TO-HEART talk? What he'll probably do," I told her, "is distribute a 'hand-out.'"

"A 'hand-out?'" she gasped. That's a meal at the back door, isn't it? Like they give——"

"It is and it isn't! Listen, Luella, if you're going to a conference you've got to respect the 'hand-out,' an official paper passed along by executives in the various departments from the President of the United States down—a paper carrying the news to newspapers."

"What about the interview?" she asked.

"Interviewing is a lost art," said I. While explaining all this we went, in orderly fashion, to the office of the President.

"Who is that big, broad-shouldered handsome man, with the merry twinkle in his eyes—looking at me so intently?" she asked, somewhat nervously, as we passed the guards.

"That's Col. Starling, of the secret service."

* * * *

LUELLA started to make a dash for the doorway, but, moved on by the momentum of the forward-marching mass, in she went to the President's study. She stood in awe, thrilled, watching the President talking in a low, modulated voice to the correspondents.

Finally, the President read a paragraph or so from a "hand-out," told the boys how to excite interest in a lot of congressional districts from which he might appoint some one to the Federal Reserve Board, and smilingly bade 'em good-by.

"Isn't he marvelous?" gasped Luella, infatuated by the Hoover smile. "He looks just like his pictures, all right—like the one I had in the kitchen during the campaign. What's he gon-a do about the Federal Reserve Board?"

"He's gon-a make a reservation for a friend of his," I explained.

* * * *

OUTSIDE the White House, Luella went into ecstasies over her coup de main.

"Won't the folks back home be surprised, when I write?" she asked.

They will, of course; but not half so surprised as the White House correspondents.

Two Declare Driver Drunk As Parked Car Rolls Away

Daniel H. Rucker, who escaped arrest Wednesday on a driving-while-drunk charge because Policeman G. W. Ward, of the Seventh Precinct, did not believe he was drunk, was arraigned in Police Court yesterday on the charge, and pleading not guilty demanded a jury trial. Rucker's arraignment resulted from his arrest on a warrant sworn to by the men who unsuccessfully sought to have him arrested Wednesday, according to Attorney John P. Mullen, his counsel.

The case is said to be one of the most unique in the history of the Police Court, and the attorney says he will make every effort to have it thrown out of court, although, at the same time, expressing his belief that "any jury in the world will acquit the man."

Rucker, according to Mr. Mullen, parked his automobile Wednesday on Twenty-ninth street between the canal and M street northwest. He left the car, and in some manner the brakes released and the car rolled down hill and upon the sidewalk. The attorney states that the two men who swore to the warrant sought the policeman and asked that Rucker be arrested. Policeman Ward, however, after ascertaining that no damage had been done, refused to make the arrest on the grounds that the man was not drinking. The next day the two men appeared in the office of the corporation counsel at Police Court and obtained the warrant. Rucker is now at liberty under $300 bond.
